REBEL UNIONS TO ORGANIZE IF OUSTER STANDS

Biggest Fight Faced by A. F. of L. Today.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—If the American Federation of Labor carries through its threatened expulsion of the ten international unions backing the Committee for Industrial Organization those unions in self-defense will be compelled to form a rival national labor organization, Charles P. Howard, C. I. O. secretary, declared tonight.

Howard arrived in Tampa as rival forces were aligning themselves for one of the greatest battles in the history of the American labor movement, on the C. I. O. issue, at the federation convention here. The report of the resolutions committee tomorrow is expected to precipitate the fight.

May Not Take Seat.

Howard is a delegate to the convention, but is doubtful whether he will present his credentials. His union, the Typographers', was not suspended with the ten organizations backing John L. Lewis' drive to form mass production workers in steel, automobile, rubber and other mass production industries into industrial unions, ignoring the claims of the old line craft unions which form the present backbone of the A. F. of L.

Suspension of those unions prevents them from voting the strength of their million or more members, approximately a third of the federation's membership on the proposed expulsion of their organizations from the A. F. of L.

The action of the federation's executive council in suspending the C.I.O. unions, Howard contended, is a far more vital issue than that of industrial unionism, on which "there is room for honest difference of opinion," he conceded.

Subject for Future Action.

"It is one thing for the convention, by procedure authorized by its constitution, to centralize power in the federation by authorizing the executive committee in the future to try, suspend, expel, or otherwise punish member international unions. But if the convention seeks to ratify such actions by the executive council after they have been taken membership in the American Federation will become a menace."

Howard was not prepared to define just what would be considered expulsion by the C. I. O. unions, but he said they consider that there is no substantial differences between suspension, which they already have suffered, and expulsion with which they are threatened.

The C. I. O., he contended, cannot be considered a dual organization with the A. F. of L., as the federation's executive council contends, because it lacks almost all the attributes of a genuine organization, including a constitution and regular support from members.

To Seek Own Fields.

If the C. I. O. unions are forced to form such an organization outside the A. F. of L., he believes, they will not try to encroach in fields already organized by A. F. of L. craft unions, but will confine their efforts to unorganized fields. In such fields, however, they will refuse to turn any recruits over to existing craft unions, retaining them within the new organizations they form, in keeping with the industrial union principle.

Despite the suspension and consequent disfranchisement of the ten C. I. O. unions they still have plenty of sympathizers in the convention. Numerically, perhaps, a third of the delegates are with them. These delegates, however, control only a handful of votes.

Convention votes were allotted to delegates from the various national and international unions according to the membership of their organizations. They have one vote for each 100 members. In addition there are several hundred delegates to the convention from state and city central labor bodies and from federal unions, which are under the direct control of the A. F. of L. instead of being organized in international unions.

Have Only One Vote.

The state and city central delegates have one vote apiece. Most of the federal union delegates have one vote. It is among them that most of the Lewis support lies. The central

GIRL FIGHTS OFF MORON; POLICE SEARCH N. SIDE

Victim of Torturer Views Suspects.

While twenty picked detectives patroled a north side area seeking the moron who early Saturday morning raped and mutilated Miss Anna Brasy, 38 years old, a 15 year old girl fought off another moronic attack last night.

The girl, Rita Close, 6114 North Washtenaw avenue, was walking in front of 6236 North Campbell avenue when a man approached, seized her, and attempted to pull her into an alley. The girl screamed and resisted, and, as passersby hurried to her aid, the man fled.

Police Rushed to Area.

Police and detectives were rushed to the area, just north of the district where the hunt for the attacker of Miss Brasy had centered. The Close girl's father is James W. Close, president of local No. 73 of the Sheet Metal Workers' union. He is now out of the city.

Miss Brasy was attacked in her home at 4752 Lincoln avenue. The detectives concentrated their search for her attacker principally in the territory between Western and Ashland avenues and between Irving Park boulevard and Lawrence avenues.

A number of suspects were seized and taken to the bedside of Miss Brasy in the Ravenswood hospital where Dr. Jay Ireland, attending physician, said yesterday she will recover. She was unable to identify any of the suspects but said she has no doubt she will be able to identify her assailant when she sees him.

Victim Tortured by Moron.

Capt. Daniel Lynch of the North Damen avenue district said he was using all the forces at his command in seeking the moron. Besides raping Miss Brasy twice and subjecting her to other indignities, the attacker tortured and mutilated her with a pair of scissors.

Finger prints of several suspects were sent to the bureau of identification and compared, without result, to those of the rapist which were found in several places in Miss Brasy's room, and on a knife with which he threatened her life. Capt. Lynch said he regarded the knife as a valuable clew. It is of a type used by fishermen, the thin five inch blade being slightly curved at the tip. The attacker also left an undergarment.

Miss Brasy described the moron as about 30 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall, and 150 pounds in weight. He wore a brown suede jacket, light cap, dark trousers, and black shoes.

City-Wide Drive Ordered.

The attack on Miss Brasy, who is a choir singer in St. Mathias Roman Catholic church, led to orders by Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed force, for a city-wide drive to round up all sex criminals.

One other case was reported last night. Frank Jajko, 24 years old, 1214 Huron street, was arrested by Racine avenue police after he was identified by Josephine Staniszewski, 9 years old, 716 North Racine avenue, as the man who tried to molest her in an alley near 1231 Huron street. Sergt. Joseph Ponicki, who arrested Jajko, said he has a police record.

Andrew Capoldi, 28 years old, who confessed the murder of Antoinette Tiritilli, a 5 year old girl whom he lured into an alley, is slated to go on trial this morning before Judge Benjamin Epstein in the Criminal court. Public Defender Frank Ferlich, assigned to defend him, said he would seek a delay to have Capoldi's sanity tested.

Second Slaying Trial.

Another defendant of a rape murder charge facing trial today is Rufo Swain, colored, who confessed the slaying of Mrs. Mary Louise Trammel, but later repudiated the confession.

Robert George McIntyre, 19 years old, 5543 Henderson avenue, is scheduled to go on trial today in Lake county before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan, charged with assault with intent to commit rape. He was arrested last Aug. 9 on complaint of Miss Marjorie Mary Brucker, 25 years old, 4212 North Drake avenue, that he broke her jaw and otherwise mistreated her when they met at a picnic near Fish lake, two miles north west of Volo, and went for a walk in the woods.

Doctor Ready for Marathon of Nine Duels

BUDAPEST, Nov. 22.—(AP)—His beautiful wife learned the truth tonight—that fiery, honor loving Dr. Franz Sargas is going to fight nine duels tomorrow morning—but her tears could not melt the swordman's determination to get at all nine of his adversaries on the morrow.

Wrings Hands in Dismay.

Mme. Magda Sargas, his wife, wrung her hands in dismay when she discovered that her husband had only been trying to shield her when he told her the duels had been canceled. His subterfuge collapsed when her intuition correctly diagnosed repeated telephone calls as definite assurance the duels had not been canceled.

Detectives lolled about outside the Sargas home, but how far the police were planning to go to prevent the encounters was still uncertain.

"I have some place in mind for the encounters if other places are watched," Dr. Sargas said. "I have been entreated to relinquish the idea of the nine combats, but I have never entertained any such plea because honor, more priceless than life, is at stake—the honor of my wife and the baby we'll soon have. I would not want my child to learn his father was a coward.

Confident of Ability.

"I am confident of my ability, although my opponents have practiced since March and have intensified their training. I, however, have been engaged with my twenty-one libel cases against Budapest newspapers and had little time to polish my fencing. [Sargas issued his challenges because of allegation the nine men spread rumors he married for money.]

"Even so, I am sure I can defeat them all. I do not, however, minimize their ability. They are excellent fencers—I'll have to use my brains faster than they and have a better scheme of action."

Toying with a glass of beer Sargas told interviewers he plans to continue his law suits and to write his memoirs after the fights.

Seconds formulated plans today for the first three encounters to begin at some fencing school after 9 a. m. tomorrow. The remaining six must be completed within 48 hours after the first. Identity of the first opponent was kept secret.

Jacob Kanter, owner of the A & C Manufacturing company, 3210 North Troy street, makers of Venetian blinds, gave a hard time party for sixty guests in his residence quarters in the factory last night and it turned out to be a real hard time party for Kanter.

His business and his home were burned out by fire. The loss was estimated at $20,000. Moreover, Kanter himself was injured when he punched in a window with his bare hand in an effort to save the clothing of his guests. He was taken to the Belmont hospital.

Kanter's residence was on the second floor of the plant, a one and three story structure. Thirty couples were assembled there over midnight attired in traditional hard time party garb. Their street clothing was put into a large wardrobe room.

Shortly after midnight, while an accordionist was furnishing music for the dancers, fire broke out on the second floor. It spread rapidly. A 2-11 alarm was sounded. The guests ran out helter-skelter in their costumes. Kanter and his brother Louis, a florist at 3643 North Western avenue, hung back to save their clothing. Jacob smashed a window and Louis saved most of the clothing.

Firemen brought the fire under control after an hour's work. More than 2,000 persons watched the blaze and trafic in the neighborhood was tied up. First Deputy Fire Marshal Joseph Mackey estimated the loss at $20,000.

GERMANY ORDERS NEW 20 PCT. CUT IN BUTTER RATIONS

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—In accordance with the slogan, "Cannon instead of butter," the reich milk administration today issued a decree reducing butter rations in Germany to 80 per cent of the rations, effective in October of this year. The decree, which is effective tomorrow, provides that dairies, wholesalers, and retailers shorten the butter supply of every individual customer proportionately.

Youths Toting 150 Pounds of Oysters Land in Cells

Three youths carrying 150 pounds of oysters in a sack, fled from police last night and barricaded themselves in a vacant house at 1315 West 14th street. They were arrested after the police broke into the house. No shots were fired. In addition to the oysters some second hand clothing and a quantity of shoe soles were found. The boys seized were William Vilcynski, 18 years old, 2336 West 21st street; Charles Galla, alias Galinski, 20, 3117 Arthington street, and Walter Brenski, 20, 1727 West 13th street.

College Opens a Night Club; Drinks 'Soft'

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The University of Iowa mixed soft lights and sweet music, dancing and eating—in fact all the ingredients but liquor— and opened the university operated night club last night. Sponsors said it was the first club of its kind in the United States.

A capacity crowd was there—110 couples of formally attired collegians packed elbow to elbow at tables around a dance floor.

They danced. They ate. They cheered the floor show. They called back and forth and talked all at once in the customary night club clamor.

But they drank only soft drinks from their ice-tinkling glasses—no highballs, no cocktails or beer, for liquor is taboo in what university officials prefer to call the "Silver Shadow," rather than a night club.

Editor Campaigns for It.

A night club, however, was what Editor Jess Gorkin of the Daily Iowan, university newspaper, campaigned for in his editorial column, and hence that was what more than 1,000 students petitioned the university to establish, "so that students would have hometown entertainment and would remain off dangerous highways over the week-ends."

University officials, in agreeing to turn the Memorial Union cafeteria into the "Silver Shadow" with luxurious decorations and a dance floor, emphasized that liquor would not be sold or permitted in the club.

The entertainers cheered last night were students, for the "Silver Shadow" provides the university with a college training laboratory for entertainers.

Composer on Program.

Among those on the program was Maureen Munger of Cedar Rapids, who composes songs and then sings them.

Presiding over the "Silver Shadow" was Prof. Rufus Fitzgerald, soft spoken southerner and director of student entertainment at the university, apparently as excited as any Broadway producer.

Faculty supervision, however, will "be kept at a minimum," the professor said.

Wounded Doe Kicks Gun; Michigan Farmer Killed

Reed City, Mich., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A wounded doe was blamed for the fatal shooting of a hunter today. Walter Draminski, 43, Chase township farmer, came upon the doe while hunting ducks and leaned over to examine it. Coroner Herbert Davis said the doe apparently kicked Draminski's gun. It was discharged and the shot killed him.

TORPEDO JOLTS CRUISER; RUSSIA TO SHOOT GERMAN

Soviet Court Finds Teuton Guilty of Sabotage Plot.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—"Moscow's latest provocation," was the German comment on the death sentence passed by a court in Novosibirsk, Siberia, today on E. Stickling, a German mining engineer. He was sentenced to face a firing squad with eight Russians. All were found guilty of espionage, sabotage, and terrorism.

The sentence aroused a wave of anger in Germany. Official circles branded it "outrageous and incredible."

Seeks to Stay Execution.

Immediately after the Stickling verdict was made known—following a trial carried out with remarkable promptitude—Count Frederic Werner von Schulenburg, German ambassador to Moscow, lodged a vehement protest.

No legal appeal against the sentence is permissible. Consequently Von Schulenburg insisted the execution must be delayed to give time for an appeal for mercy.

German observers at the Novosibirsk trial said the evidence was wholly unconvincing. Witnesses alleged that Stickling plotted with Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian revolutionary, to introduce poisonous gas into the great Kamerova coal mines to "kill miners like rats" and also to sabotage the Stakhanov scheme [a program to increase industrial output].

German Threat Recalled.

Since Nazi party circles have been proclaiming that the execution of German citizens in Russia would not be tolerated under any circumstances, the already strained relations between Moscow and Berlin threaten to reach a dangerous pitch if the execution of Stickling is carried out.

Calling the Novosibirsk verdict "scandalous and despotic, without any actual or judicial basis," the newspaper Der Montag said it was "solely dictated by a desire to place responsibility on others for the fiasco of the soviet economic system and at the same time to follow Moscow's old tactics of creating unrest in Europe."

"It shows," the paper said, "how justified is Germany's attitude toward terrorists of the soviet union and how necessary are Germany's exhortations to the cultural world to unite in an anti-bolshevist bloc for the sake of peace."

Assails Moscow "Justice."

"Moscow's murderous justice does not even stop at German citizens whose skill is needed to make the completely disorganized industry productive," said the Montagspost. "The German ambassador in his protest has behind him the whole German nation which cannot submit to its fellow citizen, whose trust of soviet Madrid Says Rebels Are Using Foreign Undersea Craft.

MADRID, Nov. 22.—[Havas.]—The loyalist air and navy ministry charged tonight that submarines, believed to be part of a "foreign fleet," entered Cartagena harbor early today and torpedoed the governmental cruiser Miguel de Cervantes. Cartagena is the principal naval base on Spain's southeast coast.

The official communique issued late tonight read as follows:

"At 9 o'clock this morning several submarines which we believe are part of a foreign fleet, since the rebels have never possessed such instruments, attacked ships of our squadron at the entrance to Cartagena harbor.

"One torpedo hit the cruiser Miguel de Cervantes, causing damages. Other torpedoes launched by another submarine at the cruiser Nunez failed to do any damage."

The Miguel de Cervantes was launched in May, 1928, and carries eight 6 inch guns as well as other smaller artillery. Its normal displacement is 7,850 tons. The Mendez Nunez has a 4,725 ton displacement and is 13 years old. It carries six 6 inch guns and other lighter pieces

Today's attack was believed the beginning of the threatened rebel naval campaign to blockade the Mediterranean coast.

Flay Italy and Germany.

MADRID, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Socialist government asserted today Italo-German recognition of Fascist insurgents was in effect a declaration of war against the Spanish republic. On the civil war front the first clear day in three brought renewed artillery shelling of the center of Madrid. Many were injured.

"Recognition by Germany, Italy and Portugal of the Burgos government can be interpreted only as a declaration of war against the republican government," the official organ Juventud proclaimed. [Portugal has not formally declared recognition of the Fascists.]

"The proletariat of all nations must unite against the new peril. Russia, Mexico, and an international popular front are on our side. The streets of Madrid must never be soiled by Fascist marchers."

Advocates Boycott.

The newspaper Claridad, mouthpiece of Premier Francisco Largo Caballero, advocated a boycott of all nations recognizing insurgent Francisco Franco.

Today's artillery attack began at dawn. Shells falling in Alvarez de Castro street wounded a number of citizens.

Hand to hand fighting was reported in the University City and Carabanchel sectors but the government claimed its lines were intact.

Additional detachments of international troops arrived from Valencia, seat of the Socialist cabinet since the siege of Madrid began two weeks ago Friday.

More Foreigners Arrive.

The foreign volunteers on the capital front were organized into "the 12th international brigade" and issued a note that "we come from many nations, at times against the advice of our governments, and we will defend Madrid as we would our own birthplaces."

The government announced Emiliano Barral, sculptor whose monument to the Spanish Socialist father Pablo Iglesias was unveiled here last May day, had been killed in action on the southern outskirts of the city.

Communist leader Pedro Manzano was named to head Catalan forces to succeed Gen. Buenaventura Durruti, killed in battle last week.

Demand Better Patriotism.

General mobilization of all able bodied men between 18 and 45 throughout Spain appeared near with issuance of a Valencia communique attacking Italy and Germany as "unscrupulous breakers of all pacts and obligations" and asserting:

"Let all the people participate in the hardships of war with a spirit of sacrifice in all corners of Spain. General mobilization from one end of Spain to the other. . . . [The remainder was deleted by the censor.]

The French consul, following departure of German and Italian consuls from Barcelona, issued orders to all French citizens to leave the Catalan capital--which Gen. Francisco Franco threatened to destroy if necessary in a blockade to prevent shipment of war supplies to the Madrid government.

Strengthen Navy.

The government announced reorganization of its war fleet at Barcelona to combat what Catalonian President Luis Companys described as "an illegal blockade attempted by insurgent men of war." At the outset of the civil war many officers joined the insurgents. To overcome this the government is pushing training for new officers.

Barcelona reports said "enemy" warships were patroling the coast from Cape Creus, near France, to Barcelona, and south as far as Alicante, Cartagena, and Ceuta, Spanish Morocco.

Cites Influence of Moscow.

ROME, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Political circles here expressed only mild surprise today that Madrid interpreted Italian recognition of the Spanish Fascist junta as "virtual declaration of war."

Informed Fascist sources declined to accept the pronouncement as a true presentation of Italian foreign policy and one source close to the foreign office commented:

"That's Moscow news which has been given to all anti-Fascist newspapers."

The authoritative writer, Virginio Gayda, wrote in the Giornale d'Italia that Fascism would exert every care to "prevent the grave error of admitting Russia free access to the Mediterranean should it become the starting point of irreparable destruction to the European system."

He intimated that any warlike action must come first from the communist side, however, asserting that defense against communism will be pacific and will not follow a course of offense—such as might be imposed by "aggressive initiative" of Russia.

Berlin Scoffs at Statement.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—(AP)—German foreign office spokesmen vowed they were puzzled today by Madrid's statement Italo-German recognition of Spanish Fascists was tantamount to declaration of war against the Spanish republic.

"Who's calling himself the Madrid government now?" one official scoffed. "Some gentleman from Moscow, perhaps?"

The foreign office declined official comment until more complete information was available.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

BARCELONA, Nov. 22.—A crowd estimated at half a million marched in the funeral procession today of Gen. Buenaventura Durruti, 40, anarcho-syndicalist leader and chief of the famous Durruti column, who was killed during Friday's fierce fighting outside of Madrid. The procession took five hours to wind through the principal streets of the city.

Along the processional route were flags and floral pieces in which the anarchist colors of red and black predominated. Three hundred signs promised to avenge his death.

Durruti was one of the anarcho-syndicalist "big three" of recent years. One of the triumvirate, Francisco Ascaso, was shot dead by Durruti's side on July 20 while attacking the military barracks at Barcelona. The only survivor, Juan Garcia, is now Republican minister of justice. He was one of the orators today.

U. S. Socialists Vote to Back Loyalists in Spain

New York, Nov. 22.—[Special.]—Criticizing the "neutral" policy of the United States government toward the war in Spain, the national executive committee of the Socialist party voted tonight to send fraternal greetings and assurances of support and solidarity to the Spanish loyalists.

Raid Spanish Harbor

Map shows location of Cartagena, Spain, where, according to Madrid charges, submarines believed to be of a "foreign fleet" entered the harbor and attacked warships of the loyalist government.

$15,000,000 WORTH OF SPANISH GOLD REACHES LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Bullion estimated to be worth $15,000,000 and believed to be part of $300,000,000 secretly removed from Madrid by the Spanish government, was landed at Folkestone this week-end. It was dispatched from Paris. The gold was unloaded from a steamer under a heavy guard of police and detectives who accompanied the boxes to London.

Further consignments of bullion are expected to arrive here in the next few days. The Spanish government's action in scattering gold reserves to various European capitals threatens further international complications since Gen. Francisco Franco is determined to institute legal proceedings for recovery.

Gen. Franco is said to have the backing of Italy and Germany, but the Spanish government has tucked the money away in different currencies under different names and interminable litigation in many different countries, if nothing worse, is threatened before the gold finds its way back to Madrid.

Recruit Men in Rumania to Aid Spanish Fascists

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 22.—Under German supervision, reactionary students of the anti-Semitic "Iron Guard" are being recruited here for shipment to Spain to serve with the rebels. Tomorrow Gen. Cantacuzeno and several other Iron Guard commanders will leave for Berlin, whence they will be sent via Hamburg to await the arrival of the Rumanian recruits who will not be sent until called for by Gen. Francisco Franco, insurgent chief.

MADRID SPEEDS MASS EXODUS TO SAVE CIVILIANS

Believe 500,000 May Join Flight to Safety.

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 22.—Evacuation of the civilian population from Madrid began in earnest today when convoys of motor buses left for the coast carrying women and children. It is estimated there are at least 300,000 old peole, women and children whom it was urgently desired to remove to safer zones. That is a moderate estimate. Some say the figure is nearer the half million mark.

Whatever the figure is, it constitutes one of the biggest removals of population in modern times. The government has mobilized 1,000 automobiles which will carry people to a railroad station 20 miles from Madrid. From there they will be sent south and east.

Carry Food on Return.

Also, large fleets of motor buses will be put in service carrying refugees to the sea coast and on the return trip bringing flour, meat and vegetables to Madrid. Refugees will be taken to eight principal cities, then redistributed to towns and villages.

The Madrid problem is urgent. Not only for humanitarian reasons, but for hygienic reasons is it necessary to get these people away.

In the first place, more than 100,000 peasants came in from outlying towns and villages as the rebels advanced. Then came tens ofthousands from the suburbs. Now those living in the western part of town, which is shelled by the rebels, move steadily over the eastern part.

The American owned Spanish telephone company has housed thousands in its capacious cellars, deep underground. One woman is there with thirteen children.

Huddle in Bank's Vaults.

Then, down in the large vaults of the Bank of Spain there are many hundreds of refugees living where the nation's gold used to be kept. There they feel they are in perfect security from bombs or shells. In these vaults, until several days ago, were 400 Goyas, Titians, and other famous pictures from the Prado museum. All have been sent to a safer place.

In the confusion of Madrid's hectic life these days, one almost forgets the military situation. Today's news showed government progress in University City where the Casa de Velazquez building, the French art center, or what is left of it, now again is in the hands of the government.

There was an amusing interlude here two days ago. Eighty foreign soldiers of the international column were caught in an upper story of the Casa de Velazquez and had to surrender. The rebels took away their clothes to prevent them from escaping, but they all managed to slip back to the loyal positions during the night.

Try to Cut Valencia Road.

In the direction of Carabanchel Bajo the government claims to have pushed forward 300 yards.

The rebels today tried to push down on the southern sector of the Madrid front in the direction of Arganda, with the obvious intention of trying to cut the Valencia road, but the government forces claim they threw back the attack.

The rebels today shelled the western side of the town extensively far beyond the war zone.

MOBS IN BARCELONA PILLAGE STORES OF GERMANS, ITALIANS

PERPIGNAN, France, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Hundreds of Frenchmen crossing the Franco-Spanish border from Barcelona today said shops of German and Italian merchants in the Catalan capital were pillaged when it was announced Berlin and Rome had recognized the Burgos Fascist junta.

The Frenchmen said they were advised by their consul to leave the Catalan area, loyal to the Madrid government, and that Barcelona residents feared bombardment by Fascist warships—in carrying out Gen. Francisco Franco's threat to destroy the port if necessary to prevent shipment of arms to the Socialist régime.

The French destroyer Valmy was announced off Barcelona harbor and the cruiser Duplex left for Palma. The destroyer Verdun was ordered to Alicante on the eastern Spanish coast, presumably for the protection of French nationals.

MADRID HURLS COUNTER ATTACK AT REBELS' LINE

Hit Fascist Positions on Toledo Road.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH REBEL FORCES AT CUATRO VIENTOS, Spain, Nov. 21.—[Delayed by censor.]—All the southern line bordering Madrid was in flames today as I watched from an observation post. The rainy season has begun, making the soldiers miserable, since most of them are not provided with even pup tents.

The loyalists staged last [Friday] night a heavy counter-attack south of Madrid in the direction of Carabanchel and on the Toledo highway, which was continuing today. There seemed to be some basis for the rumor that the loyalists had abandoned El Escorial and the Guadarrama mountain front [north of the capital] to hurry 8,000 troops to Madrid before they were cut off and to aid the defenders.

Criticize "Passion Flower."

I judge the rebels are sending forces to meet them on the way, because the loyalists' arrival could constitute a danger to the columns of the rebels which now have the left [eastern] bank of the Manzanares river in University City.

[Rebel headquarters announced yesterday that two columns had launched an offensive against the southwest section of Madrid.]

Stories common here assert there is dissension among the loyalists--for example I heard a diatribe on a Madrid radio denouncing La Pasionaria [Dolores Irriburi, woman communist leader] as a coward for fleeing the city and its obviously bad situation, with an outbreak of disease and lack of food.

The heaviest blow the loyalists have had lately has been the political recognition of the rebel government of Gen. Francisco Franco by Germany and Italy, which leaves the Madrid loyalists with their eyes fixed on France.

Capture Two Tanks.

CASA DE CAMPO, Outside Madrid, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Madrid troops lost two tanks in an unsuccessful counter-attack against this insurgent stronghold, Fascist officers said today. The Madrid attackers sought to cut communications lines across the Manzanares into University City. Both tanks were disabled, the Fascists reported, by fire from three insurgent tanks and anti-tank guns.

BRITISH LEADERS HUNT WAY OUT OF SPANISH JAM

Ministers Meet All Day to Frame Policy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Great Britain's key ministers gave up their week-ends and held an emergency meeting at 10 Downing street today to seek a way out of the critical situation rising out of the Spanish civil war and the possibility that the whole world may be set ablaze by communist and Fascist dictators trying to fight each other through the Spaniards.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, Capt. Anthony Eden, foreign secretary; Sir. John Simon, home secretary; Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty; Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, and Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for coördination of defense, attended the session. Sir Ernle Chatfield, first sea lord, was present and gave advice on naval problems.

Differ on Status of War.

It appeared tonight that differences of opinion had cropped up between London and Paris over according belligerent rights to both sides in Spain. The British government, which had close contact with Paris over the week-end, contends such a policy would not involve recognition of Gen. Franco's junta as the government in Spain and is the best means of avoiding entanglement in the Spanish imbroglio.

France apparently is not yet fully convinced that any useful purpose would be served by taking this step, but is expected to wall into line with the British and take a common decision.

At the meeting of ministers, which considered British action in the event Gen. Francisco Franco attempts to search British ships, it was strongly urged that the alternative to recognition of a state of war in Spain might mean a clash between Spanish warships and British warships escorting British vessels.

Might be Forced to War.

The imposition of a blockade by Gen. Franco in the face of British opposition, it was urged, might leave Great Britain no option but to make war against the junta, with the prospects of involving other powers. Acceptance of the blockade situation, even though illegal in the present circumstances, would be the lesser of two evils.

It was understood this evening that Capt. Eden probably will be able to make a new statement of the government's position tomorrow in the house of commons in view of the lightning developments of the last few days. The subcommittee of the Spanish nonintervention committee also will meet tomorrow.

Gen. Franco has not yet replied bombed. Capt. Eden tonight sent word to the ambassador accredited to Spain, Sir Henry Chilton, to press for an answer from Franco.

Suspect Activity on Mallorca.

Coinciding with renewed allegations from Madrid sympathizers that Mallorca, biggest of the Balearic Islands, is being treated as a virtual Italian possession and used as a war base for outfitting the Spanish insurgent army, reports were current in London tonight that both Germany and Italy now intend to support Gen. Franco with regular forces.

Foreign diplomatic quarters consider it highly probable that Germany shortly will break off diplomatic relations with Russia to facilitate freer German activity in Spain.

Volunteer forces, according to Madrid inspired reports, are being organized, armed, and instructed in Mallorca by Italian officers led by a commander named Rossi or Rossini.

The insurgents are said to have a regular army of 10,000 men on the island and 25,000 recruits. Premier Mussolini long has had covetous eyes on Mallorca, which has great strategic importance in the Mediterranean. Italian ships, it is said, restock the island with food for the army twice weekly. Its harbor is reported to have fourteen Italian seaplanes and three Italian destroyers ready for action.

In some quarters it is suggested that should Gen. Franco attempt to blockade Barcelona he might do so with the aid of Italian warships, since his own forces would seem inadequate.

RADIO STAR WINS DIVORCE

BESS JOHNSON.

Charges Desertion

Judge Craig Hood in the Chicago Heights City court signed on Saturday a decree granting a divorce to Bess Johnson, radio star, from her husband, Dr. Solomon P. Perry, X-ray therapist at the Albert Billings Memorial hospital, it was learned yesterday. Miss Johnson is known on the radio as Frances Moran in "Today's Children" and as the narrator on Wayne King's sponsored program. She appeared in court last Wednesday and testified that her husband deserted her in 1931. They were married in 1923. She was given custody of their daughter, Jane, 8 years old, but waived alimony, stating that she earned more than her husband.

CAR CRASH PERILS LIFE OF NORWAY'S CROWN PRINCESS

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Crown Princess Martha of Norway, whose sister, Queen Astrid of the Belgians, was killed last year in an auto accident, narrowly escaped that fate today along with her daughters, Princesses Ragnhild, 6 years old, and Astrid, 4.

Their car collided with another on a highway which runs beside a gorge. The crown princess' machine was knocked off the road. None of the occupants was hurt, but a postman driving the second car was injured seriously.

BLUM PROMISES TO END SLANDER AT BIER OF AID

Thousands Jam Lille for Salengro Funeral.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 22.—France's left wing coalition, headed by its premier, Leon Blum, Socialist, gave Roger Salengro, minister of the interior and mayor of Lille, who committed suicide, a grandiose funeral this afternoon.

It was estimated that 200,000 workers visited Lille to pay homage to the Socialist who took his own life after repeated charges he was a wartime deserter. Government officials from Paris and the provinces alone filled three trains. Furthermore, miners and factory hands from the Lille region were present by tens of thousands.

Premier Blum delivered a funeral oration in which he revealed that Salengro was a victim of heart lesion and overwork.

Hits Calumnious Propaganda.

"But it was not overwork, nor health, nor memory of his beloved wife that killed him," Blum said. "His letters tell the truth. He was the victim of an atrocious, infamous calumny. An end must and shall be put to slander in this country."

The premier then answered an attack on calumnious propaganda. He pointed out that it is impossible to catch up with a lie, and called for a severe check on the right of the press—he means to impose this check with a new press law within a few days.

A huge sympathy demonstration, with upraised fists and other usual leftist appurtenances, took place in Paris simultaneously with the Lille ceremonies. A cortège marched from Bastille square to the Place de la Nation, the usual route for radical demonstrations.

Made a Political Issue.

There was no doubt that Salengro's suicide and his funeral were made to serve political ends. Beginning last night, when Minister of War Edouard Daladier, in eulogizing Salengro in Paris' Bicycle Race hall, was greeted by cries of "We demand arms for Spain!" it has been evident that the communists were determined to make a political issue of the suicide.

The rightist press, at least, accused the communists of being responsible. It said the Socialists, who are less hard boiled, were struck dumb by the suicide, assuming that all France would believe it an admission of war desertion guilt which had been charged by the newspapers of the extreme right.

But the communists, according to the rightist press, were said to have persuaded their Socialist brethren to abandon their defensive attitude and use the occasion for an attack on the rightist, instead, and particularly on the rightist press, demanding a drastic curb of its utterances.

HUNT COUPLE IN FATAL BEATING OF AUTO DEALER

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Reuben Feferman, 43 years old, former South Bend automobile dealer, who was found dead in a field early today near the Indiana-Michigan state line, apparently was beaten to death with brass "knucks" or a knobbed club, according to Coroner A. L. Knapp.

For a time it was believed Feferman had been shot and beaten, but Knapp said a post-mortem examination disclosed no evidence of a bullet wound. The coroner fixed the time of death at between midnight and 2 o'clock this morning.

Authorities instituted a search for a man and woman after Walter Romak, 19, a farm youth, said he helped pull their car out of a hole along a lonely state line road late last night.

Feferman's false teeth and glasses were found in a nearby field on the Michigan side of the road, indicating a struggle may have started there.

WIFE OF ESCAPED BURGLAR BOOKED AS ACCOMPLICE

Mrs. Evelyn Petri, 23 years old, 2651 Burling street, wife of Paul Petri, 26 years old, who escaped from police custody while handcuffed after he had been arrested for numerous north side burglaries last Wednesday, was charged with being an accessory to the crime of burglary by the Summerdale police last night. According to the police, several articles of stolen jewelry were found in the Petri home.

Howard Rentsch, 21 years old, 3444 Janssen avenue, a brother-in-law, who admitted sawing off Petri's handcuffs after his escape, was charged with aiding and abetting a crime. Both he and Petri's wife will be arraigned in Felony court today. Policemen Edward Garrick and Gary Johnson, who had handcuffed Petri in his home while the place was being searched, have been suspended. Charges against the two may be filed with the civil service commission this week.

PROF. TALBOT, U. OF I. ENGINEER, IS VOTED COVETED GOLD MEDAL

The 79 year old educator was cited as "moulder of men, eminent consultant on engineering projects, leader of research, and outstanding educator in civil engineering."

A native of Illinois, he has been on the university's faculty since 1885 and is noted especially for his research in railroad track stresses.

Talbot has been awarded other medals in his science field, including the Lamme award in 1932, the Henderson medal in 1931, the Turner medal in 1928 and the Washington award in 1924.

RESUME TRIAL OF ZINTAK TODAY; STATE IS READY

Trial of Frank V. Zintak, ousted clerk of the Superior court, on a charge of embezzlement, apparently will proceed this morning, as far as the prosecution is concerned, as though nothing unusual had happened last Friday on completion of a jury to hear the case in Criminal court.

At the time Robert E. Wright, assistant state's attorney, obtained from Judge Robert C. O'Connell a delay in swearing in the jury. He said then he believed the jurors may have become biased through overhearing corridor conversations outside their quarters. Yesterday he declared: "The state will be ready in the morning. I don't know of any fact now that would prevent the jury's being sworn. We accepted it Friday."

Defense Attorneys Benedict J. Short and George Guenther had opposed the delay in swearing in the jury, which was completed with the prosecution practically forced to accept the last panel of four offered by the defense. The state had exhausted all of its ten challenges and could only dismiss veniremen for cause.

STOCK HANDLERS' STRIKE WILL NOT AFFECT EXHIBIT

While officials of the Live Stock Handlers' union were preparing to call a strike of 400 members of that organization this week unless a demand for a 25 per cent pay increase is met, officials of the International Live Stock exposition declared yesterday that a strike would not interfere with opening of the 37th annual show Saturday.

B. H. Heide, manager of the exposition, said all exhibitors send their own handlers with entries.

More than 12,000 head of blooded cattle, horses, sheep and hogs will be exhibited at the show, and approximately $100,000 in cash prizes will be paid to winning exhibitors, according to officials. Pure bred stock from Europe will be included in the exhibits.

DRIVER LICENSE AND LIABILITY BILLS DRAFTED

Officials All Over State Approve Provisions.

Bills providing for licensing automobile drivers and for holding reckless drivers financially responsible have been drafted by the Chicago Motor club in response to renewed demands by civic action and safety groups for action toward reducing the automobile death toll.

The bills will be submitted to the 60th Illinois general assembly, which convenes on Jan. 6. Accompanied by explanatory data, they already have been placed in the hands of all members of the legislature, Circuit and County judges, and state's attorneys throughout the state.

Demand for Laws Increases.

Replies received from these public officials made it apparent, according to Joseph H. Braun, the club's general counsel, there is more enthusiasm now for the bills than ever before. The club is hopeful, he said, that this time the legislature will heed the growing need to curb reckless drivers and will adopt the measures.

The need for these laws is not a local one, but is felt in all parts of the state, said Mr. Braun. On a basis of returns from only forty of the 101 counties outside Cook, in a survey of fatalities from July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1936, twenty-one counties, he said, show automobile accident death rates higher in proportion to population than the death rate in Cook.

Both Tried in Half the States.

Thirty-one states and the District of Columbia have drivers' license laws, and twenty-eight states and the District of Columbia have financial responsibility laws. Illinois has lagged behind, according to observers of the legislature, principally because of downstate opposition. Much of this opposition now has been removed, according to the proponents.

In a statement to the legislators, accompanying the text of the bills, Attorney Braun has explained the essentials of the two bills. The main provisions as interpreted by him are as follows:

"No person is permitted to operate a motor vehicle unless licensed so to do. To obtain a license one must be at least 15 years old, must be in possession of all the faculties necessary for careful operation of a car, and must be able to drive.

Exemption from Examination.

"One who applies for a license need not be examined unless the statements in the application cast doubt on his ability to operate a motor vehicle safely or unless there is some evidence that the statements made in the application are false.

"The license will be good for three years unless sooner revoked or suspended. The fee for the three years is only 50 cents for the head of a family and persons over 21 years of age. No charge is to be made for licenses issued to persons under 21 who are members of a family where the head of the household has received a license.

"Licenses are revoked upon conviction for driving while drunk, leaving the scene of an accident without stopping to disclose the driver's identity, driving while a license is suspended, the commission of a felony with an automobile, and perjury in relation to automobile operation or ownership. When licenses are revoked they cannot be renewed until the expiration of a year after the revocation date."

Required to Pay Damages.

"One requirement in this law," Mr. Braun explained, "is that if one is found liable in an action for damages growing out of an automobile accident and fails to pay the judgment within thirty days after it becomes final, his automobile registration and driver's license are suspended, and he must pay the judgment and give proof of ability to respond in damages for future accidents before being permitted again to register a car or obtain a driver's license."

PINCHOT HITS G. O. P. DOMINATION LAID TO INTERESTS OF RICH

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, said, after conferring with Gov. Alf M. Landon today, that the Republican party would have to rid itself of domination by "concentrated wealth" if it hoped to come back.

"The people of the United States have long known that concentrated wealth is public enemy No. 1," declared the Republican leader. "The election that saw Landon defeated for the presidency has proved that it also is political liability No. 1.

"I have been immensely interested," said Pinchot, "to find Republicans like Senator Gibson of Vermont demanding a change in the leadership of the Republican party. My own state of Pennsylvania is full of the same demand.

"Gov. Landon is the head of the Republican party and will be for four years," said Pinchot. "He is in a better position than any one else in America to supply the new type of leadership needed by the party."

U. S. DEMOCRACY ROUTS BIGOTRY, JEWS DECLARE

Dr. Wise Talks Here Before 3,000.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

More than 3,000 Chicago Jews met yesterday afternoon in the Auditorium theater and banqueted last night in the Hotel Sherman to celebrate the accomplishments of the first World Jewish congress last August in Geneva, Switzerland.

At both assemblages two New York leaders spoke—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and Attorney M. Maldwin Fertig. A minor rail accident delayed the arrival of Rabbi Wise, who was introduced by Rabbi Solomon Goldman, Chicago Zionist chief.

In the evening program Dr. Wise hailed the triumph of American democracy over organized intolerance of race and faith. He recalled a widely known anti-Semitic organizer who ran for the presidency in one state and received less than one-tenth of one per cent of the votes cast.

Liberals Find Poor Soil.

In like vein Attorney Fertig observed: "The political climate of America is certainly not favorable to crack-pot' fulminations of an ignorant few who, in their anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic weekly pamphlets perpetrate falsehood and libel.

"Even though untrue, these things should not go unanswered. The rays of public sunshine must be turned into the dark places of such un-American propaganda."

He referred to Germany as "the breeding place for those unnatural and uncivilized and barbaric ideas which now are practised against all religious faith as well as against liberalism, labor, and minorities generally."

A Pillar of Democracy.

Democratic processes in society find a strong buttress in the World Jewish congress, according to Rabbi Goldman.

"A World Jewish congress," he said, "is the affirmation of the will of the Jewish people to live, and to live Jewishly. For the Jew, to live Jewishly is to live in the vanguard of every movement in all lands for the safeguarding of human freedom and for the extinction of all forces antagonistic to the democratic ideal."

Dr. Wise saw in the congress an inward renaissance of the Jewish people and a new manifestation of their resolve to take the direction of Jewish affairs into their own hands. He dated the rise of this spirit from the days when the movement was led by Louis D. Brandeis, now associate justice of the United States Supreme court.

Now 5,000 Strong in Chicago.

Sigmund W. David, president of the Chicago division of the congress, announced that this division now has 5,000 members representing 200 organizations, which, in turn, have an aggregate membership of 40,000. Rabbi A. E. Abramowitz and Albert K. Epstein reported on the Geneva meeting at the afternoon session.

AUTO-TROLLEY CRASHES KILL ONE, HURT ONE

Manager of Airport Cafe Loses Life.

One motorist was killed and another was seriously injured in separate accidents in the Chicago Lawn district early yesterday when their automobiles collided with surface line cars.

James McGrath, 28 years old, 6531 Sheridan road, manager of the Airport restaurant at the Municipal airport, died in the Presbyterian hospital a few hours after his car had rammed the rear of a 63d street car at Pulaski road.

The injured motorist is Walter King, 24 years old, 5244 South California avenue. He incurred a skull fracture when his car crashed into the front of a street car at 59th and Rockwell streets.

South Sider Killed.

Patrick Hyde, 74 years old, 6840 South Elizabeth street, was injured fatally last evening when he was struck by an automobile as he was crossing Western avenue at 101st street. The driver, Walter Kempa, 43 years old, a farmer, of Lemont, took Hyde to the Little Company of Mary hospital where he died. Kempa was taken into custody for questioning by the Morgan Park police.

H. A. Shouldice, 25 years old, 612 South 5th avenue, St. Charles, was killed early yesterday when the automobile in which he was a passenger ran off Roosevelt road on the outskirts of Wheaton and crashed into a tree. C. L. Shipman, 26 years old, of Batavia, driver of the car, incurred minor injuries.

Dies in Aurora Accident.

Harry Seddick, 62 years old, of Waterman, Ill., was killed and his companion, Edgar Anderson, 22 years old, of Shabbona, Ill., was injured when they were run down by the automobile of Elmert Senft, 22, of 522 Talma street, Aurora, as they were crossing New York street at Broadway in Aurora. Police said Senft failed to halt his car for a trafic light.

Max McDaniels, 22 years old, a Gary street car motorman, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Raymond Weaver of Gary at 22d street and Broadway in that city. McDaniels was hit by the automobile as he alighted from the street car. Weaver, who was injured in the crash, had been drinking, police said. He was taken to the Mercy hospital and his two companions in the automobile, E. L. Moore and John Taylor, also of Gary, were held on charges of intoxication.

Aged Woman Fatally Hurt.

Miss Theresa Fitzmaurice, 74 years old, 5519 Kenwood avenue, was injured fatally last night when she was struck by an automobile at 59th street and Dorchester avenue. The driver, Eugene Burgess, 25 years old, 6108 Kimbark avenue, was not held.

Police yesterday sought the driver of the hit and run car who early in the day ran down and fatally injured Ludwig Fridlund, 76 years old, 706 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, at Central and Wayeland avenues. Fridlund has been a resident of Chicago and Oak Park for the last 60 years.

Edward Romer, 60 years old, 2022 Warner avenue, a tailor, died yesterday in the Edgewater hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile at Ashland and Foster avenues.

Woman Hurled 92 Feet.

An Oak Park woman was hurled a distance of 92 feet by an automobile in Oak Park last night. She is Mrs. Margaret Uthoff, 52 years old, 806 South Maple avenue, mother of Dr. Carl Uthoff, a staf physician at Oak Park hospital. Mrs. Uthoff and her sister, Mrs. Katherine Adams, 40, were crossing at Washington boulevard and Wisconsin avenue when a car driven by Harry N. Behles, 22, 133 South Scoville avenue, came at them.

The car brushed Mrs. Adams, but hit Mrs. Uthoff fully. Police measured the distance it threw her and said it was 92 feet. In spite of the hard impact, only her legs were broken. Oak Park hospital doctors said she would recover. Behles denied he was speeding. He was charged with reckless driving.

Five Injured in Crash.

Five men were injured, two of them seriously, early yesterday in the collision of two automobiles at Hirsch and Rockwell streets. The two seriously hurt are Albert Mikolojczyk, 20 years old, 1418 North Campbell avenue, driver of one of the cars, and Ernest Frenden, 20 years old, 2700 Coyne avenue, driver of the other car. Frenden was alone.

Two men were injured seriously last night when their automobiles collided at Skokie road and Winnetka avenue, west of Winnetka. The motorists, Ricardo Cortez, 31 years old, 3145 North Neenah avenue, and Joseph Prentis, 28, 915 Lenox avenue, Waukegan, were taken to the Evanston hospital.

Mrs. John H. Connor, 69 years old, wife of the president of the John Clay company, live stock commission merchants, and her sister, Mrs. John H. Finlay, 77, both of 5645 Woodlawn avenue, were reported recovering yesterday in St. Luke's hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when their car collided with another machine at Columbus drive and 14th street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 912 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 691 were in Chicago. In the same period 17,401 were injured in trafic accidents within the city.

RETURN MURDER SUSPECT FROM WEST FOR TRIAL

George [Boots] Collins, 35 years old, was brought here yesterday from Los Angeles to face trial for the murder of Frank Moles, 43 years old, 1519 Adams street, a taxicab driver. Moles died Aug. 13, two days after he was shot by two men who kidnaped him at Madison and Paulina streets and drove his cab to a lonely spot in Stickney.

Collins, who denied any complicity in the shooting, was arrested Oct. 30 in a Los Angeles curio shop operated by his brother-in-law. He was traced through letters which he wrote to his wife, Helen, in Chicago. The Collins' last known address in Chicago was at 424 South Central Park avenue. Chief of Police Albert Jares of Stickney returned the prisoner from Los Angeles and lodged him in the county jail last night. Collins has been indicted.

FORGOTTEN MAN SPENDS 1ST FREE DAY WITH FAMILY

Meanwhile Move Is Made to Return Him to Jail.

Assured of freedom for several months at least, Raymond E. Prochnow, 39 years old, who was known as the "forgotten man" in debtors' row at the county jail, spent yesterday in a joyful reunion with his wife and two sons at 5158 Oakdale avenue. Prochnow was released from jail Saturday by Judge Harry M. Fisher in the Circuit court after serving almost three years for contempt in a civil proceeding.

While Prochnow, a former La Salle street broker, was "getting reacquainted" with his family, a determined intent to return him to jail was voiced by Thomas G. Vent, attorney for Mrs. Marian G. Wilson. Mrs. Wilson is the daughter of the late Attorney William Gannett from whose estate the courts found Prochnow had withheld $35,282.

Demands Jail Until He Pays.

"Prochow was not a forgotten man," said Vent. "He had smart lawyers working for him all the while. He was prosecuted under the citation act and this requires that a person who fraudulently appropriates such funds shall remain in jail until he pays. Now he comes forward and says in effect 'I took it all right but I'm broke and can't pay.'

"This is not a case of a debtor-creditor relationship for which a sentence of six months on a malice count is the maximum."

Attorney Vent will file an appeal to the Appellate court in a few days, arguing that Prochnow's petition claiming insolvency was irregular and should not have been admissible in reopening the case. Until the court rules Prochnow will be a free man on his own bond.

Law Satisfied, Says Court.

Judge Fisher ruled that although the broker had committed "grievous offenses" his jail servitude had satisfied the requirements of the law.

Prochnow had not seen his two sons, Raymond Jr., 10 years old, and Donald, 7 years old, for two and a half years. His wife, Mabel, has operated a notions store in front of their apartment since his incarceration. Prochnow said last night he will start looking for a job today.

2 ARMY AVIATORS KILLED AS PLANE FALLS AND BURNS

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 22.—(AP)—First Lieutenant H. E. Vos, 32, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Private Ray O'Rea of the 359th Observation squadron, air corps reserve, were killed and their bodies burned today when an airplane piloted by Lieut. Vos crashed into a cornfield near the squadron hangars.

Maj. Dudley Outcalt, commanding the detachment, said he was certain both men were dead before the plane, plummeting from an altitude of 300 feet, took fire as it hit the ground.

Maj. Outcalt, paying tribute to Vos as an excellent pilot, said the deaths were the first in the fourteen year history of the unit.

Private O'Rea was a regular army man and, with Lieut. Vos, had been with the squadron about three years, Outcalt said.

AUTO CRASHES INTO HOME WHEN RAMMED IN REAR

A freak accident late yesterday shunted the automobile of Peter W. Meyn, 21 Glendale park, Hammond, Ind., into the frame bungalow of Fred Ladwig, 328 West 138th street, Riverdale. Meyn's car crashed through a window of the bungalow and then plunged half way into the basement.

Meyn, a former wealthy Hammond banker, operates a real estate office at 5217 Hohman avenue, Hammond. He said the accident occurred when his machine was rammed from behind by a car driven by Fred Rampke, 21, of 13737 Illinois street, Riverdale. Nobody was hurt.

25,000 COUPLES WED BY JUSTICE; TURNS CUPID FOE

Yuma 'Marrying' Officer Seeks Divorce Cases.

Yuma, Ariz., Nov. 22.—(AP)—E. A. Freeman, Yuma's "marrying justice" and Cupid's right hand man for ten years, is willing to become the little fellow's arch enemy after the first of the year.

Freeman, who has read the marriage vows to scores of movie notables in his decade as justice of the peace, will retire Jan. 1 to return to the private practice of law.

And, he said tonight, he'll be ready and willing to help undo any of the nuptial knots he tied.

Serves Barrymores.

His latest marriage of note was the midnight wedding which culminated the tempestuous "Ariel and Caliban" romance of John Barrymore and Elaine Barrie.

Among others at whose weddings he has officiated are Claudette Colbert [whom he liked best of all], Gloria Swanson, Dorothy Mackail, Richard Dix, Larry Crabbe, Loretta Young, Grant Withers, Tom Mix, Minna Gombell, Jetta Goudal, Barbara Kent, Billie Dove, Mary Astor, and Nina Wilcox Putnam.

But the divorce business for the man who estimated he has married 25,000 couples in this Gretna Green on the banks of the Colorado river will be scarce unless there is a decided change for the worse among his marital customers.

All "Lucky" Ceremonies.

Justice Freeman has always considered the marriages he performed "lucky ceremonies."

"Over 99 per cent are successful," he said.

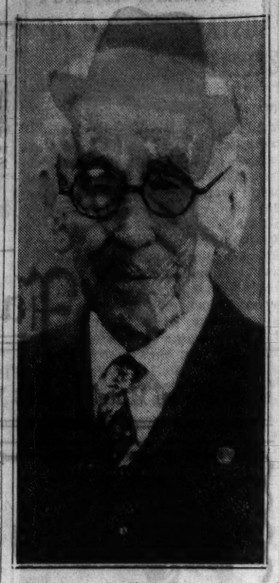
Nevertheless, he is willing to work against that success if the clients appear at his law office after December.

The last ten years—during which Freeman believes he has "married about as many folks as any one in the United States"—have put grey streaks in the kindly justice's hair and have impaired his health.

Now he plans to divide his time between the law and managing his wife's dairy farm in the quiet Yuma valley.

He is going to let his friend and constable, Ed Winn, "take a whirl at the marriage business."

HONOR VETERAN



Nicholas G. Van Sant, believed to be the only civil war veteran to see active service overseas during the world war, celebrated his 90th birthday in Sterling yesterday. Harry W. Colmery of Topeka, Kas., national commander of the American Legion, spoke at the celebration. Van Sant enlisted in the Union army when he was 17 and was with the Salvation Army in France.

WALLY PREPARES TASTY DISHES 'FIT FOR A KING'

And Starts Cooking Fad in Swank Mayfair.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Mayfair hostesses are dropping the drawing room for the kitchen—all because Mrs. Wallis [Wally] Simpson prepared tasty dishes with her own hands "fit for a king" and the king ate them.

The rush for the kitchen began when London élite learned the American friend of King Edward VIII. of England was an excellent cook and the monarch approvingly sampled her efforts.

Now it's no unusual sight for a smart hostess to greet her guests with face flushed from standing over a hot stove and to offer food of her own making, say those who mingle with the Mayfair élite.

Coronation festivities, it is pointed out, will give ample scope to hostesses' efforts.

Broil Hams in Champagne.

Those who can afford it are broiling hams in champagne because, it was rumored, Mrs. Simpson's cook did hams for the king that way.

Some women are getting ancient recipes from museums, or the ancestral library, and adapting them to modern tastes. Others are specializing in continental peasant dishes, while many are studying American methods.

Homemade ice cream and frozen desserts from American recipes are being served in place of petits four, made from family cookery books.

Ice Tea Makes a Hit.

At one fashionable afternoon tea the surprised guests were offered tall glasses containing chopped ice and a brownish liquid as an alternative of dainty cups of steaming tea.

"A new beverage?" inquired one.

Among the period revivals are mutton pies—a favorite with Queen Mary—and the Victorian "jam" sandwich.

City banquets also are providing suggestions for items on luncheon or dinner party menus. Old fashioned meat broths and turtle soup that have been served for centuries at city functions are becoming popular at West End parties.

In spite of the slimming code of recent years, eating is being revived in a big way. Seven is the usual number of courses on the menu, and Mayfair hostesses are planning banquets on a bigger and more formal scale. Mushrooms on toast followed the iced sweets at one party to make a novel finish to a long menu.

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

Newark, O., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—Harry Tezise of Terre Haute, Ind., 25, died in the Newark City hospital today of injuries suffered in an automobile wreck at Luray. State highway police believed Tezise's car plunged into a ditch when he fell asleep at the wheel.

Airport Drainage Sewer Work to Start This Week

Work will be started this week on the Cicero avenue connecting sewer, running from 59th to 63d streets, which will provide an outlet for the airport, H. K. Seltzer, district director of the Works Progress administration, announced yesterday. Two hundred men will be put to work on the project, which, he said, will cost approximately $97,000. The sewer will guarantee absolute drainage at all times and will eliminate pools of water that cause glare in the eyes of pilots when landing, Seltzer asserted.

GEN. DENHARDT ASSAILS COURT 'ROMAN HOLIDAY'

Slain Woman's Daughter Weds at Shelbyville.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP)—From his cell in Jefferson county jail, Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, charged with the murder of his sweetheart, Verna Garr Taylor, today assailed the commonwealth for making "a Roman holiday" out of his examining trial last Friday.

Denhardt, who is being held here for the Henry county grand jury, reiterated his innocence of slaying the attractive widow after an all day automobile trip and charged the courtroom crowd was "deliberately assembled to influence the court . . ." He referred to a capacity crowd which packed the Henry county courtroom at New Castle Friday during his examining trial.

There was no demonstration except once when Commonwealth Attorney H. B. Kinsolving, asking that Denhardt be placed in jail without bond, said it was the first time since he held office that a defendant charged with murder had not been jailed. The crowd cheered briefly. Denhardt had been at liberty under $25,000 bond since his arrest a week before at a coroner's inquest.

"All I ask," the bald, portly veteran said today, "is that every citizen in Kentucky read a correct transcript of the record before forming any conclusion as to my guilt or innocence."

"I didn't fire that shot that killed her," Denhardt declared. "I couldn't have done such a thing. I loved her too much."

County Judge A. S. Morgan's action in holding him to the grand jury, the general said, was unjustified on the basis of the evidence presented.

"Had the court been unbiased," he added, "I would have been dismissed. Certainly no court would have held me without bond."

FIND REID RUSSELL'S DEATH CLOTHING; WILL BE VIEWED FOR CLEWS

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Clothing which Reid Russell wore when he was shot to death has been found, Capt. Clyde Plummer said today, and will be examined for bloodstains.

The garments were in possession of the undertaker who took care of the body after it was found in a lawn swing on Sept. 25 at the Manhattan Beach home of Gouverneur Morris, novelist.

Plummer said an "important" announcement may be made tomorrow regarding inspection of the clothing.

GIRL PAROLEE, 20, HELD FOR PISTOL; TELLS 6 HOLDUPS

Miss Eleanor Borger, 20 years old, was paroled from the New York state penitentiary last April after serving a year and seven months of a three year sentence for robbery. Early yesterday she was arrested in a tavern at 145 West North avenue when she displayed a revolver.

She boasted that she had stolen the weapon and an automobile from a deputy sherif near Indianapolis, and that since Armistic day she had committed five robberies in Chicago.

Police found the names of three men in her pocketbook and arrested them in an apartment at 602 North Clark street. The three said they were traveling musicians and gave their names as Earl Washburne, 22 years old; Donald Jomme, 29, and Raymond McCurdy, 36.

EDITOR GIVES UP ON EXTORT CASE IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—Arthur Kasherman, scheduled to go on trial tomorrow on an extortion charge, was back in jail tonight.

Kasherman, publisher of an "exposé" newspaper which for three years has charged police and political corruption in Minneapolis, had been at liberty for more than a week. A warant for his re-arrest was issued last Wednesday when one of his bondsmen withdrew. Today Kasherman walked into the police station and surrendered.

Kasherman is accused of taking $25 in marked money from the proprietor of a second floor rooming house, against which more than twenty vice complaints have been lodged in the last two years.

Canadian Writer Killed by Fall in Swiss Alps

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Nov. 22.—Searchers today found the body of John G. McNaughton, 26, of Montreal, assistant United Press correspondent here, who was accidentally killed yesterday evening by a fall of over 400 yards down the precipitous slopes of the "chimney" in the Rochers de Naye. The Alpine peak, which reaches an altitude of 6,000 feet, rises above Montreux and is celebrated for its view of Lake Leman. Traces where McNaughton had lost his footing directed a guide to his body. His father is Dr. Francis M. A. McNaughton of West Montreal.

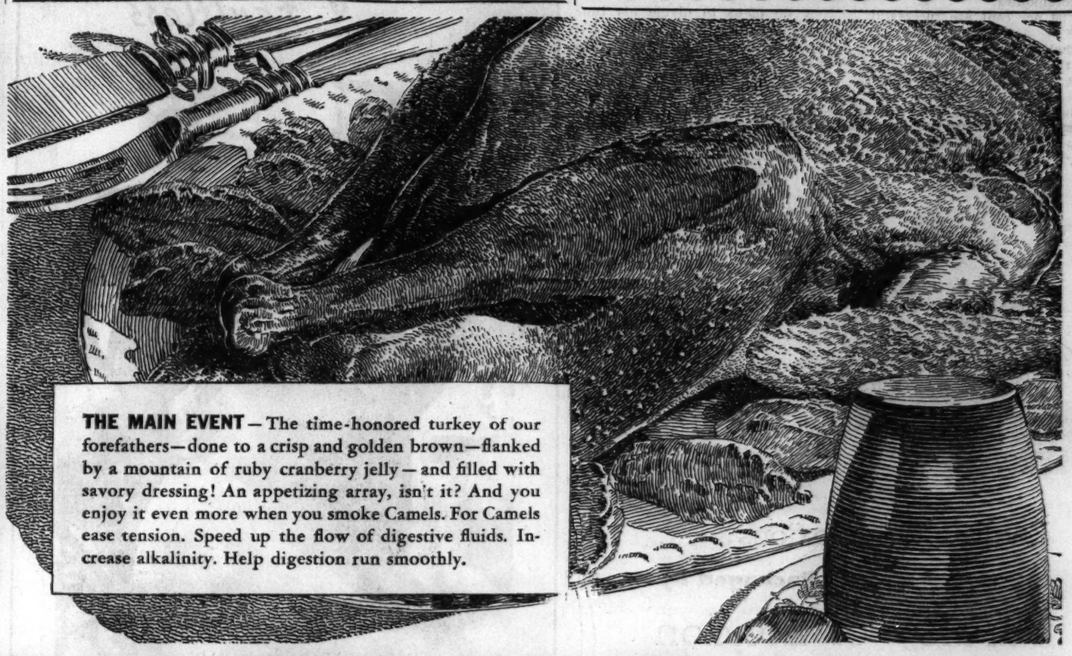
Thanksgiving Dinner

...and then the peaceful feeling that comes from good digestion and smoking Camels!

OFF TO A GOOD START—with a dish of hot, spiced tomato soup—delicious in itself and an exciting prelude to the delights to come!



THE MAIN EVENT—The time-honored turkey of our forefathers—done to a crisp and golden brown—flanked by a mountain of ruby cranberry jelly—and filled with savory dressing! An appetizing array, isn't it? And you enjoy it even more when you smoke Camels. For Camels ease tension. Speed up the flow of digestive fluids. Increase alkalinity. Help digestion run smoothly.

DOUBLE PAUSE—First for the crisp refreshment of Waldorf Salad—then for the sheer pleasure of Camel's costlier tobaccos. This double pause clears the palate—sets the stage for dessert.

SO TO A HAPPY ENDING—over coffee and after-dinner Camels.

Enjoy Camels—every mealtime—between courses and after eating—and you can lean back in your chair feeling on top of the world.

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

"THE BEST MEAL I ever ate would be a disappointment if I couldn't enjoy Camels," says William H. Ferguson, salesman. "They give me an extra sense of well-being and contentment—set me right!"

FOOD EDITOR—Miss Dorothy Malone says: "Being a food editor, I'm quite interested in good digestion. Smoking Camels with my meals and afterwards helps build up a sense of digestive well-being."

Good food and good tobacco go together naturally!

RIGHT down the line—from explorers living on "iron rations" to the millions of men and women who'll heartily enjoy a big Thanksgiving dinner—it is agreed that Camels set you right! Camels help to ease tension. And to increase the flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—so important to your digestive well-being. You enjoy food more and have a feeling of greater ease after eating when you smoke Camels between courses and after meals.

Enjoy Camels all you wish—all through the day. Your taste doesn't tire of the matchless flavor of Camel's costlier tobaccos. Steady smokers say that Camels are so mild they never get on the nerves. And when you're tired, try this: get a "lift" with a Camel.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

FOREIGN BUYING SEEN AS DANGER IN STOCKS' RISE

Apprehension Mounts as Market Soars.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—With business booming and the stock market zooming, the New Dealers are exhibiting apprehensions of another crash for which they are prepared to blame Europe, if it comes, while the anti-New Dealers are prepared to blame the fiscal policies of the Roosevelt administration.

The eyes of the entire civilized world are now riveted upon the American stock market. Not only American but British and other foreign investors and speculators are eagerly buying American shares. The market has been steadily going upward for many months, but its rise since the overwhelming reëlection of Mr. Roosevelt three weeks ago has attracted universal attention.

There are all kinds of theories on the cause of the rise since the election. It is being attributed variously to the impressive evidence of improvement in business, to the termination of political uncertainty, to the operation of the capital gains tax, to the distribution of more than 600 million dollars of additional dividends up to date in anticipation of the prohibitive tax on undivided profits, to the influx of foreign capital, and to the expectation that the New Deal fiscal policies will produce currency inflation sooner or later.

Danger Cited by President.

Militating against the inflation theory, however, is the current rise of government bonds, which would be adversely affected by inflation.

President Roosevelt recently stressed the danger of a sudden withdrawal of the enormous amounts of foreign funds invested in American securities, largely within the last year during which foreign capital has been frightened by the disturbed condition of Europe. He set the treasury to studying ways and means of checking this inflow of foreign capital, the sudden withdrawal of which might precipitate a stock market crash.

At the same time Gov. Marriner Eccles of the federal reserve board gave it out that the recent rapid rise in stocks had not been accompanied by an expansion of brokerage or bank loans. Thus the administration conveyed the impression that the speculating was not being done by Americans but by foreigners. Critics at once charged the President with preparing the groundwork for an alibi if there should be a crash. The blame would be saddled upon the European speculators.

Attempted Action Doubtful.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau expects to report soon on the problem of the influx of foreign money but that any action will be attempted is doubtful. Any effort to embargo foreign capital would be attended by so many difficulties as to be virtually impracticable. It is therefore particularly significant that the reserve board announced yesterday it would be prepared to take steps to control the credit created by the influx of foreign funds in such manner as to check speculation.

The attempt of the President to make a whipping boy of the foreign investor immediately evoked the contention that Mr. Roosevelt can not expect to escape blame for any stock market boom, with the inevitable crash, as long as he continues to build up deposits in the banks by the sales of bonds to cover deficits. In the last fiscal year, the deposits in all banks increased 5½ billion dollars. As these deposits pile higher and higher, the supply of funds for speculation is steadily increased.

The demand for stocks has also been stimulated by the artificially lower interest rates ruling for gilt edged bonds which have diverted investment capital into the stock market. At the same time only a limited supply of high grade stocks is available to meet this expanding demand.

Taxes Aggravate Situation.

The supply of such stocks is restricted by the operation of the capital gains tax, which makes it prohibitively expensive for wealthy individuals to take their profits when stocks are rising. To avoid paying high capital gains taxes they put their appreciating securities in the strong box, with the result that the prices of stocks are boosted to artificially high levels by the limited supply on the market.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] charged last September that the President's gold purchase policy is responsible for the very condition which Mr. Roosevelt now views with apprehension. He stated the criticism in a letter to Secretary Morgenthau and the secretary replied three weeks later that the possibility of the withdrawal of foreign investments is no occasion for alarm.

"From such official figures as are publicly available," Senator Vandenberg said, "it would seem to be a fair deduction that while Europe cannot find the means to pay our war debts, it can and does find the means to buy our securities; and it would at least superficially appear that our own gold purchase program not only encourages this process but also subsidizes it at the expense of the American people.

"On the basis of these figures, it would appear that in 1934 our imports and purchase of foreign gold [at the new price] were 1 billion 217 million dollars, while the entire world gold production that year was $963,369,000. In other words, our imports of gold [at the new price] exceeded the world production. It would also appear that our imports exceeded by 885 million dollars any amounts necessary to balance commercial transactions.

"These same figures for 1935 would appear to show that we received 1 billion 739 million dollars in foreign gold [as compared with a world gold production of $1,044,472,000], none of which was necessary to balance commercial transactions. In other words, we bought and paid for much more than the entire new gold production of the world and much more than was necessary to balance our international commerce.

"The immediate question naturally arises as to how and why this could happen [if my figures are correct]. Whereupon it immediately becomes important to review another report from the department of commerce issued on June 6, 1936, and entitled 'Foreign Investments in the United States.'

Foreign Holdings Analyzed.

"This shows that at the end of 1935, foreign holdings in this country amounted to the stupendous sum of 6 billion 235 million dollars, of which 1 billion, 200 million dollars was in bank balances and other short term funds; 2 billion, 15 million dollars in common stocks, 329 million dollars in preferred stocks, and 607 million dollars in bonds. If the stocks and bonds are practically all listed [as I understand to be the fact] this represents a total of 4 billion, 151 million dollars in foreign holdings which can be called for at any moment by the foreign owners.

"The peril to our own domestic situation in such a contemplation would seem to be quite obvious, because if we have anything like 4 billion dollars on instant foreign call, our financial structure and our price structure rest to a considerable extent on foreign judgment or caprice. None of us will forget how the withdrawal of foreign funds and balances in 1931 demoralized our stock markets, shook our banks and deepened the rigors of the depression."

Morgenthau Minimizes Threat.

"The figures you cite of foreign holdings in the United States are, I believe, substantially correct," Morgenthau replied, "but their magnitude should be no cause for alarm, though, naturally, in the determination of our credit policy constant and careful attention is given to them.

"Consideration of their makeup and significance and of the pertinent aspects of our monetary system will show that they constitute no threat to continued recovery.

"It is true that in the event the political disturbances in Europe and in the Orient disappear and if the major monetary problems confronting Europe are solved and if other important economic factors abroad show a marked improvement, we may expect to see a reflux of a portion of the capital which has come here in the form of gold in the past three years. It would be an excellent thing for the United States, as well as for the world, if such events should come to pass. I am sure you would agree that we would benefit considerably, both directly and indirectly, from such a world improvement.

Believes Situation Different.

"Though it is impossible to foretell the approximate amount of gold that is likely to leave this country in the event the above improvements occur abroad, it appears fairly certain that the amount leaving over any short period would constitute a small proportion of our total gold holdings.

"Even were the outflow of gold over a few months to be heavy, it should not affect the adequacy of our credit base. The events you refer to in 1931 were hardly comparable."

FOREIGN HOLDINGS IN U. S. ESTIMATED AT OVER 7 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—(AP)—As administration banking authorities are considering means to offset effects of foreign capital inflows on domestic credit, commerce department estimates indicated today that foreign holdings in this country now total more than $7,200,000,000. Indicating a capital inflow of about $1,000,000,000 this year, the estimate followed a federal reserve board statement yesterday that it was considering taking action to reduce excess bank reserves.

These funds, which are bank reserves in excess of amounts fixed by the board, have been pushed steadily upward by the continued inflow of foreign capital and now stand at $2,270,000,000. Because such an oversupply of excess funds might provide the basis for "runaway" credit expansion, the board is considering increasing reserve requirements or taking other steps to eliminate part of them as a factor in the credit situation.

Commerce department officials said today that much of this year's inflow of capital has gone into stocks and bonds. Data gathered by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce indicated that foreign investments in common stocks here now total around $2,300,000,000, with about $400,000,000 in preferred stocks and approximately $700,000,000 in bonds. Bank balances and other short term funds accounted for about $1,400,000,000, and the remainder of the $7,200,000,000 total was distributed among real estate, trust funds, and the like.

100TH ANNIVERSARY OF PATENT SYSTEM WILL BE CELEBRATED TODAY

In that sweep of a century—unequaled by any in history—American inventors have built a monument of 2,000,000 patents to the nation's inventive genius.

A pageantry of flashbacks into the past and portents of things to come will mark the celebration. Guests at a dinner tomorrow will hear the recorded voice of Thomas A. Edison speak to them on "Let Us Not Forget."

Close upon this will follow the transmission of the first telegraphic message—"What Hath God Wrought"—over the original route, Baltimore to Washington.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

THE MIDDLE GROUND

By CALEB

THE dean of the group was addressing an annual assembly of educators. He mildly chided those individuals in the field of education who persistently sought publicity for the experimental methods they embraced.

At the conclusion of his polite remarks, a younger man with a great flair for publicity-provoking revolution rose to his feet and in excitement asked, "Do you not think that some of us are making a very considerable contribution to progressive education?"

The old gentleman slowly shook his leonine head. Gleaming white hair and the weight of many years gave dignity to his measured response. "I think you will contribute very, very little."

MOST individuals and most institutions are elements of comparative insignificance in the mass of which they are a part. The old educator had seen revolutionary ideas come and go. He knew that reformation comes slowly. The self-spangled reformer is usually gone and forgotten long before that which has survival value in his work makes a real contribution and becomes generally accepted.

It is so in other fields than education. The wisest veterans cannot foretell in the early stages of experiment what innovations will last and become traditional.

Some waste inevitably accompanies progress—waste of energy, waste of time, waste of money, waste of opportunity. Society is willing to pay that price. But the stable elements of society in all fields are repelled by boasting today of things which tomorrow may prove to have been excessively wasteful—and possibly destructive.

We know this is true in the world of business. Businesses can be too quick to adopt that which is new. Businesses can be too quick to glorify and publicize themselves for the reforms they adopt or initiate. This is as evil as being too slow to change.

We believe in the middle ground between revolution and reaction. In the happy middle road there is little sensational publicity—but at the same time there are fewer empty boasts and errors to live down.

U. S. CONSIDERS INTERVENTION IN SHIPPING TIE-UP

2 More Maritime Unions Call for Walkout.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The question of federal intervention in the maritime strike faced government, union and shipping authorities today and caused Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady to redouble his efforts toward peace discussions.

Nationwide strike calls to the Masters, Mates and Pilots association and the Marine Engineers union complicated the general situation. Violence cropped up on the New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia waterfronts.

More industrial shutdowns were reported. Church leaders and laymen joined in urging community prayers for "industrial peace."

Grave-diggers and other cemetery employés called for a walkout next Friday in strike marked San Francisco unless employers meet demands for increased wages.

Silent on Government Plans.

Silence in all quarters left undisclosed the status of government plans to operate emergency ships to Alaska and possibly to Hawaii.

Col. O. F. Ohlson, manager of the government owned Alaska railroad, who came here ostensibly to lease ships as authorized by President Roosevelt, declined to reveal his plans. He will talk to McGrady tomorrow.

McGrady said he would make no immediate move for government operation but would concentrate on redrafting a plan to bring coastwise ship operators and unions together in peace negotiations.

Socialist Endorsement.

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The executive committee of the socialist party today endorsed the seamen's strike, promised it "every aid and encouragement," and urged the formation of a national federation of maritime workers.

Three men were arrested in New York on assault charges as the result of a waterfront skirmish in which a waiter was accused of shooting at two striking seamen.

FATHER IS HELD FOR INQUIRY INTO SON'S GUN DEATH

Aurel Kozokar, 53 years old, 1371 Mohawk street, was held by Hudson avenue police yesterday for the inquest this morning into the fatal shooting of his son, Aurel Jr., 26 years old. Kozokar killed his son and wounded his daughter, Stephany, 22 years old, as the climax of a family quarrel Saturday night. Kozokar, according to police, returned home after a drinking session and when his wife scolded him he seized a shotgun and fired at his son who attempted to disarm him. A stray slug from the gun struck his daughter. Kozokar fled but later surrendered.

Nullify Orders to Fire Russians Ousted by Party

MOSCOW, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Expulsion of a Russian from the communist party is not adequate ground for his dismissal from employment, the central committee of the party ruled tonight. It nullified orders of V. Radchenko, chief of the flax purchasing trust, who dismissed all employés who had been expelled from the party. The committee explained that "the party violation laws of the U. S. S. R. prohibit dismissal of any one for not being a party member."

BENDIX STRIKERS BLOCK FURTHER PEACE EFFORTS

Refuse to Quit Plant; Parley Is Halted.

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—Refusal of union strikers to leave the Bendix Products corporation plant here today apparently blocked any hope that the conference between company officials and union representatives scheduled for tomorrow afternoon would be resumed.

Vincent Bendix, president of the corporation, today said the company will not reopen negotiations while the men remain in the building, where they have carried on a sit-down strike since last Tuesday.

Bendix declared none of his customers in the automobile industry had been inconvenienced seriously by the strike. Business lost because of the strike is gone from South Bend permanently, he added.

Buy Accessories Elsewhere.

"All of our customers are making or have made arrangements to get all their necessary accessories elsewhere," Bendix said. "One of our largest customers told me that he was prepared to buy everything he needs from other sources from now on."

Asked if he plans to close the shops here permanently, Bendix said, "We'll settle that when we come to it."

Homer Martin, international president of the United Automobile Workers of Amrica, was to have gone to the plant last night, supposedly to try to get the men out, but gave up the plan.

Union officials remained secluded today, but it was learned that no effort will be made tomorrow by them to get the strikers out of the plant. It was said that they will not make the attempt before Wednesday.

Men Resent Clergy's Pleas.

Their decision was attributed to reaction to clergymen's addresses this morning. Strikers said the clergymen had told them they "could not be forgiven for their refusal to leave the plant." The strikers charged the company was attempting to use the clergy to get them out of the plant.

Bendix said that the strikers had requested that the ministers and priests be admitted to the plant to hold the services and that he had immediately given orders that they be allowed in the shops.

Original union demands for complete unionization of the plant apparently have been dropped in favor of the demands of dissolution of the association. Bendix said at the outset he never would agree to 100 per cent unionization of the plant.

REBEL UNIONS TO ORGANIZE IF OUSTER STANDS

bodies are in many cases controled by members of the ousted unions. The federal unions frequently are the result of organization attempts in mass production industries, and thus are sympathetic with Lewis' ideas.

It has been estimated that the craft union forces can line up from 80 to 90 per cent of the convention vote, depending upon the severity of the program they propose for dealing with the Lewis forces. Expulsion requires a two thirds vote.

The Lewis forces know this as well as any one else, but are not disheartened. With the convention as a sounding board, they are ready to tell their story to the world, beginning with an attack on the legality of the executive council's suspension order which barred the "rebel" unions from the convention and alone made their expulsion feasible.

Porter Is Orator.

Perhaps the greatest orator in the convention is A. Philip Randolph, the college trained colored delegate, who is head of the Sleeping Car Porters union. He is a Lewis sympathizer and is expected to take the floor in support of a resolution he has introduced, calling for the lifting of suspension on the C. I. O. unions.

The Lewis opponents are all hard bitten old timers in the labor movement. They are not the type to be swayed by oratory, even their own. They regard Lewis as a rule or ruin type, and have no illusions as to their fate if he should succeed in his organization drive and, with the voting power of the unskilled and semi-skilled workers in his production industries, wrest control of the A. F. of L. from the craft unions.

The bitter-enders of the group are John P. Frey, head of the Metal Trades department of the federation, who introduced the resolution to expel the insurgents, and William L. Hutcheson, head of the carpenters, who last year had a fist fight with Lewis on the convention floor.

Wharton Is Leader.

Their most able speaker is A. O. Wharton of Chicago, president of the Machinists union. No flowery orator, he possesses to a remarkable degree the ability to put a forceful argument in plain language.

In the end it is highly probable that victory will go to neither group of extremists, but to a middle-of-the road group which is supporting suspension of the C. I. O. unions but still hopes to effect peace. Despite his bitter denunciations of Lewis, Green has placed himself in this group by his statement opposing expulsion by the convention. He would have the convention give such power to the executive council, to be used only if peace negotiations fail. Another peacemaker is George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Clerks union. He is chairman of the committee named to negotiate with C. I. O. leaders, who have refused to talk.

Other Issues Forgotten.

In the turmoil over the C. I. O. issue, attention has been diverted from other issues before the convention which probably will be of vital importance long after the Lewis rebellion is of interest principally to labor historians.

Labor is bitterly resentful of the Supreme court's invalidation of New Deal measures which had A. F. of L. backing, particularly in the NRA, Guffey coal act, and New York minimum wage cases. Proposals to widen the powers of the federal government in social and economic fields, through constitutional amendment and possibly to restrict the power of the Supreme court, may receive official A. F. of L. backing during the coming week.

Another issue is that of abandoning the A. F. of L.'s historic policy of backing political candidates favorable to it, but keeping clear of formal alliances with political parties. There are a number of resolutions advocating organization of a labor party.

Approve Security Act.

There is apparently little chance that the federation will recommend that the whole burden of social security taxes for old age benefits [pensions] be placed on employers. The attitude of its executive council is one of the enthusiastic approval of the principles of the social security act, but of watchful waiting on some of the administrative provisions.

The council, for instance, joins some of the most conservative economists in the country in doubting the wisdom of the pension reserve fund, which is expected to reach 46 billions by 1980, and suggests that year to year financing of pensions might be better. It is probable that the federation will ask that the social security act be extended to provide a system of sickness insurance, which organized medicine, led by the American Medical association, succeeded in keeping out of the original bill.

HORNER ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF KNOWLTON AMES

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today said he will accept the recently submitted resignation of Knowlton L. Ames Jr., state director of finance, a post Ames has held since 1934. He said he had not chosen the new man for the office.

The governor returned to the state capital last night after a two weeks' post-election rest at Battle Creek, Mich. He said that he was "feeling fine."

"I shut myself off from everybody," he said, "and haven't discussed cabinet changes or any other similar matters with anybody. And I expect to spend the next week on my correspondence, so there won't be any appointment news during that time."

Don't Poison Baby

Through Your Constipation

Nursing mothers must avoid constipation. Slow bowel movements allow poisons to form and be absorbed by the blood. This means tainted milk for baby.

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When precious new lives are at stake they use and give their babies Nujol—the remedy medical authorities prescribe because it is so safe, so gentle, and so natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol and insist on the genuine.

MARRIAGE & DIVORCE.

Although it is conceded that the new British divorce law will meet its real opposition in committee, its sponsors were pleased when it passed at its second reading in the house of commons by a vote of 78 to 12. Rupert De La Bere, introducing the bill for its second reading, remarked that it had the support of the archbishop of Canterbury and Lord Chief Justice Hewart.

Five new grounds upon which divorce might be sought are named in the bill, the five being three years' desertion, cruelty, incurable insanity, habitual drunkenness, or life imprisonment. No reasonable person would say that any one of these approaches to freedom from an intolerable marriage bond was a revolutionary attack upon the family life.

Cruelty can be both real and fictitious. In America it often is set forth as a legal charge to which the husband submits hoping that his friends at least will know that he did not hit his wife even with the soft end of a feather duster although he is accused of throwing whisky bottles and golf clubs at her. Habitual drunkenness presumably means not only that a person will not stop drinking but that his habits have unfitted him for both marriage and society.

The five additional reasons for divorce specified in the British bill set forth conditions which in themselves invalidate a marriage if marriage is to be regarded as the foundation of the home, family life, the rearing of children and the spiritual companionship of man and woman. When one of the five misfortunes has overtaken a married couple the law which still binds them together only mocks their misery or the misery of the one who suffers.

British sentiment has been slow to change not only on marriage laws and divorce but on the rights of women. There was a time almost within our own when the law would retrieve a wife for a brutal husband just as it would replevin goods. Great women have always had their own way, but law has been slow to treat the average woman as a human being.

That British morality has not been improved by the restrictions on divorce is proved in the record and the record is used by the proponents of the amendments in debate in parliament. Where the law prohibits society condones, and the exhibit is not exemplary. The whole subject is one of growing importance in Great Britain and the interest is not lessened by the divorce at Ipswich and the questions asked regarding it by Laborites in parliament.

If all American states would get their divorce laws adjusted to realities this country might be spared its own marriage law dilemma found in the spurious divorces obtained in states in which the petitioner has established a fictitious residence. These divorces are easy but they are not divorces. Convention accepts them as such. The law does not. If all goes well during the lives of the persons concerned it does not follow that all will go well when an estate is under settlement.

The ideals of family life are fidelity, responsibility, congeniality, devotion, and respect. Happy are the people who find themselves at the west window still in spiritual possession of these home treasures. Rigid and inflexible divorce laws will not create the values. They are there or they are not.

PARKING.

Fifty cars stalled while a motorist endeavors to back his automobile into a tiny vacant curb space; traffic moving in both directions confined to a single roadway because some inconsiderate driver has "parked double"; millions of square yards of concrete lying idle because diagonal parking is permitted or practiced without permission; women and children entering or leaving automobiles and buses in the middle of the street because not an inch of curb space is available for miles. This is not a summary of accumulated complaints, but an everyday condition that may be found everywhere in the city. Parking is second only to safety as the greatest municipal problem. Nobody has done much about either, but some solution must be found before cities commence to exterminate themselves by the choking process. The proposed elevated highways would furnish some relief, but on a very limited number of streets.

Dallas, Miami, Pensacola, and several other cities have been making experiments with the parking meter system, and in each case results have been highly satisfactory. First, parking spaces are marked along the curb in selected areas. Next, meters are installed at the edge of the sidewalk. Each has a movable arm which cannot be lowered until a nickel is deposited, after which it remains in the "occupied" position for fifteen minutes, a half hour, or a full hour, according to the setting of the machine. Springing back to normal at the end of the period, it automatically notifies the traffic officer that the motorist has overstayed the limit.

Reports from cities that have installed the machine agree on several points. First, the long time parker seeks a side street, to the relief of the main thoroughfare. Second, dented fenders and other small mishaps are reduced because the parking spaces are ample and clearly delineated. Third, cruising is substantially reduced because of the more intensive use of curb space. Fourth, merchants object before installation, but change their minds after two or three days of experience. The small charge discourages idle inquiries and "counter touring," but provides a convenience for the shopper. Fifth, the machines will pay for themselves within a surprisingly short time and, in some instances, have provided funds for additional traffic policemen.

The system is not recommended for Chicago's loop district, but it might be studied for application in some of the numerous neighborhood shopping districts. The obliteration of painted lines by snow in the winter would present some difficulties, but they are not insurmountable.

NEW SIGNS IN AMERICAN LIFE.

Until recently in the development of American society the political preoccupation has been with the extension of the right to vote. The first idea discarded in this country was that of the freehold or property qualification. A perpetuation of the freehold requirement would have been impossible because it would have excluded so much of the commercial and industrial element. It never could have been tolerated, although it had its stanch advocates. Property qualifications and church affiliations went overboard and gradually universal male suffrage became the rule, with slight modifications in certain states.

The last great barrier in suffrage restriction was taken down when women were given the right to vote. Thereupon only the requirement of maturity remained. The electorate became the whole mass of the adult population. So long as something still was to be won in the extension of suffrage the pursuit of it would naturally occupy political attention. What would be the state of affairs after all political rights had been gained by the people who had been striving for them? It was probable that there would be the use of the ballot for other purposes than the election of executives, representatives, and judges.

People fully possessed of voting rights might turn the vote to other purposes, seeking more than a satisfactory conduct of their purely governmental affairs. They might seek to change social and economic conditions. They might be unwise, but they might say that, having the power, they proposed to use it in affairs very close to their daily lives.

America may be entering this era of its national development now. It may do so with doubts and questions, with misgiving and apprehension. The split in the American Federation of Labor, with William Green, the federation president, on the old Gompers side, and John L. Lewis, the C. I. O. organizer, on the other, is an indication of the trend. The appearance of new parties tending to consolidate on a popular front is another sign.

As Americans we have thought of political action as a means of creating and continuing free government. It has been the American habit not to permit too great a breach between the major parties. The question of slavery was an exception. The party tendency, increasing up to the time of the blow delivered at the economic life of the nation in 1929, was toward administration. The people had so grown together in thought that the major difference between the two parties was whether this man or that would make the better executive or representative or judge. A country so solidified may be a happy and prosperous one.

The nation must take note of the change. It may be temporary. It may be profoundly important. To ignore it would be unintelligent. There are responsibilities upon every American. One is to try to understand what may be happening in a changing world. Another is to see that nothing he heedlessly does creates a division in American opinion which cannot be crossed by moderate men of all varieties.

IMMUNITY FOR REPORTERS.

At the recent election the voters of Arkansas, by a 4 to 1 majority, approved an amendment of the criminal code to give a form of professional immunity to newspaper men. Under the new law, which goes into effect on Dec. 3, reporters and editors cannot be held in contempt of court if they refuse to tell a grand jury where a particular piece of information was acquired. The immunity is to be withdrawn upon proof that the article in which the information was contained was written in malice or was "not in the interests of the public welfare," whatever that may mean.

One of the more important functions of the newspaper is to expose the failures of public officials to enforce the laws, but the newspaper and the men who work for it are under the same obligation as any other citizen to correct such abuses. Giving the newspaper man immunity from testifying tends to make of him a mere scandalmonger, with less responsibility than others bear for the enforcement of law.

If immunity were needed to enable reporters to get essential information something might be said for the new law. But any one familiar with newspaper history and practice knows that a good reporter can get facts without any such help, and when his story is printed it contains not rumors but verifiable statements and documents. The grand jury should have small need to ask him where they were obtained.

Believers in freedom of the press will be particularly cautious about legislation on the Arkansas model. The citizen's liberty to publish, like every other liberty, implies a responsibility. The Arkansas law tends to encourage editorial irresponsibility. In the long run that will make allies for those who would like to muzzle the press.

Editorial of the Day

THE CATFISH ARE THIN.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Fishermen report the catfish this fall are thin as rails, whereas last fall they were fat as butter. This, they say, is an unfailing sign. Catfish, they claim, have an occult knowledge of the coming winter. When it is to be long and severe they put on fat as a guard against its rigors; when it is to be mild and open they don't bother, but just stay thin. This fall the robin stayed later than usual; none of the birds were in much of a hurry to go south. They dilly-dallied on the way. What other signs and portents there were we are not weatherwise enough to know. The unanimous opinion of all the old boys in the county is that all the signs point to an open winter with a minimum of ice and snow.

But it is just as well not to take too much for granted. The forehanded man sees to it that the coal cellar is full and that heavy clothes are in readiness.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WHEN ROMANCE FLED.

Pliny Parsons and his brother Harry were sons of Pete Parsons, who was the Hometown blacksmith back in the nineties, and they took over his business when he died. Everybody liked them and, with a side line of buggy and wagon making, it appeared that they would become well-fixed in time. But Nellie Hoytee, the banker's daughter, sternly disapproved of the blacksmith shop and was known to have remarked that it was a disgrace to have Hometown's Main street cluttered up with one. This was annoying to Harry Persons, a silent sort, who had been smitten from afar by the fair Nellie's charms. . . . One day the brothers were standing in front of the shop when Nellie passed by, nose in air, and took no notice when they doffed their hats. "I could pare off a piece of hoof," said Pliny, "and hitch two ants to it, and they could pull more brains then she's got." . . . Harry was affronted by the remark, and for some time did not speak to his brother. They came to complete accord some months later, when Nellie ran off with a pool playing traveling salesman. "One ant would have been enough," Harry said to Pliny when he heard about it.

HATE SONG.

I could kill them, these women of thirty-six bust;
When I come back from shopping I feel that I must Annihilate, murder, reduce them to dust.
I ask you now, doesn't it seem quite unjust
That only a woman of thirty-six bust
Can purchase a frock that arouses her lust?
I tell you I never have come on a dress
That I love and adore; that will make me look less Than the shape that I am, that the clerk doesn't say
"I'm sorry indeed, we can't fit you today.
These dresses, Madam, are thirty-six bust
The matron's department can fit you, I trust."
So . . . after I've looked at those dresses, that must Have been made in the ark, that are duller than rust,
I feel that it's perfectly just if I cussed
Those enviable women of thirty-six bust.
Els.

WHERE'S YOUR RELIEF?

Sir: I am a director of a number of interlocking corporations, and I am entirely worn out. If this meeting so much to declare extra dividends doesn't cease soon, I intend to start a movement for a 40 hour week for plutocrats. Midas.

SIR: Will you put your okeh on my belief that they have at last chopped off the corner that business was just around? Warm B.

WHY BE SO CRABBED?

Discussions in the Line about women's clubs have been interesting. But you have failed to give any space to husbands' views on the matter. My lady has been in that kind of endeavor for a couple of years, but this fall it seems that she has intensified her efforts. Last week, for instance, she spent one morning, four afternoons, and two evenings in some form of club work. Much of it, perhaps all, was worthy and of benefit to the general public. But please, when you are giving those organizations credit, say a word for the worser halves who eat that hermetically sealed stuff for dinner and then wash and dry the dishes. Lonesome.

SIR: The male who wrote, "Certainly I favor clubs for women—if kindness fails," is just the type who would make a psychic bid of one club and expect his partner's queen to have the finesse value of Wally to an opponent's king. D. A. D.

AND YOUR BOSS' NAME?

The chairman of a committee to raise funds for our small midwestern college had me, an alumnus, selected as a helper. When he suggested that my boss ought to kick in about a grand, I recommended that he write out ten reasons why. This I offered to submit to the boss. The list arrived and reason No. 6 was: "Because it would be a big help to you and me, Jack." O, well; we got $500. Jacques K.

CHICAGO FLIGHT.

On my neighbor's radio,
I go sailing to and fro;
When you come to look for me,
In a bower in Araby,
You may find that I have flown
To a bower of my own,
For my neighbor's radio
Cannot tell where I would go.
I have my own radio
On a train of thought to go
Where I want to, when I wish,
And I eat from many a dish
Brought me in a foreign land,
Where my thoughts are contraband!

A DANGEROUS INTOXICANT.

EVER since the world began man has been searching for chemicals or charms that would relieve pain. Out of the east came Indian hemp, and it is surprising how rapidly its properties were recognized and how widespread became its use.

History relates that in the eleventh century a remarkable sect of Mohammedans established themselves as a powerful military unit under the leadership of a sheik who led his marauding band to victory while under the influence of hemp. In South Africa the Hottentots smoked the drug under the name of dagga.

Some of us may have read the charming sea stories of the late Morgan Robertson and have run across his fascinating yarn, "The Poison Ship." This is a tale of a vessel that set sail from New Zealand loaded with hemp. Somewhere in the south seas a smoldering fire broke out in the cargo and the fumes of hasheesh overcame the crew. The ship was abandoned by crew and passengers while under the influence of the narcotic. It is a gripping narrative—told by the lone survivor—and not at all improbable. We may recall also that Dumas in "The Count of Monte Cristo" makes hasheesh play a beneficent rather than a sardonic role.

The plant was originally native in Persia and India, but because of the desirability of its fiber it is now cultivated in all parts of the world. For the last few years marijuana, as it is commonly called, has been sold in the United States and Canada, chiefly in the form of cigarets, which are peddled frequently in dance halls. Much of the raw material comes from Mexico or the West Indies, and occasionally press dispatches will report that the weed has been grown even within prison walls.

As a stimulant to crime the drug is probably as important as cocaine, certainly far more so than opium or any of its derivatives, and narcotic control agencies will be put to a severe test in rooting out the traffic.

As a rule the addict passes into a dreamy state in which judgment is lost and imagination runs riot. Fantasies arise which are limitless and extravagant. Scenes pass before the mind's eye in kaleidoscopic confusion and there is no sense of the passing of time.

Under relatively large doses consciousness does not leave entirely, even though actions and movements are out of control. As the influence of the drug persists there may be periods of stupor from which, however, the patient can be aroused. In most individuals there is no succeeding nausea and the thrill seeker finds inhibitions destroyed and, abandoning his normal sense of propriety, he may do and say things quite foreign to his makeup. Orientals who run amok may do so under the influence of the drug.

An alcoholic debauch is but mild in comparison. The weed is particularly dangerous when employed by young people of both sexes, as it affords an exaggerated idea of personal powers and accomplishments. The victim declares that he owns the world and all it contains; he brushes aside as ephemeral all opposition to his desires and indulges in laughter and shrieks of delight maniacal in character.

Cannabis indica is the medicinal preparation known to physicians. But the potent resin produced chiefly by the top of the female plant is as much sought after in certain quarters as is opium. Its legitimate use in the field of medicine is relatively limited, as other drugs more accurate and dependable as to effects have largely taken its place.

Cases of fatal poisoning rarely if ever occur. Nevertheless, it is one of those dangerous drugs that should be known only to be shunned—an intoxicant with the most vicious propensities.

COUGHING.

F. F. writes: Will you write something on coughing and clearing of throats by the open mutiler system? I hear the cook clearing her throat as she prepares the meals in the kitchen. Then mother clears hers interrogatively as she sets the food on the table and sees that all is well. Father clears his throat preparatory to saying grace, and the rest of the family clear theirs as a preliminary to speaking or eating. By the time it reaches me I feel that the food has been plentifully showered. I don't know whether we have all contracted throat trouble as a result of this mixed seasoning or whether we have merely caught the same habit.

REPLY.

Apparently you live in a "clearing house." If all the members of the household are afflicted—the "closed muffler" system should be adopted, viz., covering the mouth with a handkerchief. After all—in most instances—the procedure is a nervous habit. Some people adopt this plan of announcing their presence. Most after-dinner speakers are habitués.

ARTHRITIS.

L. G. E. writes: I am a sufferer from arthritis. I have been on a diet of no-starch foods and those vegetables that grow above the ground. I wonder if I should continue this treatment, as I am very weak and life is miserable. I am 65 years old and was healthy until 3 years ago when I developed this malady. My urinalysis shows pus.

REPLY.

Arthritis can seldom be cured but it can be lived with very comfortably. All focal infections should be cleaned up (pus in the urine suggests a kidney infection in your case). Rest for the diseased joints is imperative, splints sometimes being needed. Local heat will relieve pain. The diet should contain a minimum of starches and sugars, and a maximum of fruits and green vegetables. It should have a high vitamin content, possibly reinforced with concentrates of vitamins A, C, and D. Nutrition should be raised to a high level, and meat may be used at one meal each day. Your low state of nutrition favors rather than retards the disease.

NERVOUS REACTION.

A. M. J. writes: For some months my left leg suddenly gets cold and becomes covered with gooseflesh every so often. I am 17 years old. Could this be caused by sitting with my knees crossed?

REPLY.

Probably a nervous reaction—similar to fear—affecting the leg instead of the face. Quite the opposite, however, from blushing. The nerves controling the skin blood vessels contract them suddenly. A feeling of cold follows. It could be caused by pressure as you suggest.

GOSH, HOW HE DREADS IT!

From Across the Sea

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia.—The right of Russian Orthodox priests and other religious leaders to vote in future soviet elections and even to advance their candidacy for political posts is upheld by Emalian Gubelmann-Yaroslavski, president of the Militant Atheist league [Bezboshniki], which claims to have a membership of 5,000,000 throughout Russia. However, the atheist chief explains that the entire resources of his organization would be used to prevent any religious leader from obtaining an electoral post.

"The new constitution grants voting rights to all citizens only excepting the insane and political outcasts through court decision," states Gubelmann-Yaroslavski in the Bezboshnik. "It also guarantees to our society the right of anti-religious propaganda, and if some clergyman should use his rights to advance his candidacy we shall use our rights to give a more serious blow to the shaking edifice of religion in Russia.

"Some might think that this is a new policy of the Bezboshniki, but 11 years ago at the congress of militant atheists in Moscow I explained that religion in Russia can only be exterminated as a result of a long hard fight on our part. It is a mistake to think that with the liquidation of all churches, chapels, synagogues, mosques, etc., that the work of the Bezboshniki will be ended. Just as I said 11 years ago, that we must work slowly and carefully, we must do the same today."

The Bezboshniki reports there are still 40,000 congregations of religious sects in Russia aside from the millions who still follow the Orthodox church. Many of these are Baptists and Methodists who have continued to proselyte their faith even though their pastors have been arrested and exiled to Siberia and the far north. There also are large groups of Lutherans.

"Our slogan has always been that the fight against religion is a fight for bolshevism," continues the Bezboshniki leader. "In our work we have frequently been directed by the central executive committee of the communist party and have received indorsement and support from party meetings and congresses. Although I am against depriving clergymen of the right to vote and opportunity to hold political office as being against the high democratic principles of our constitution, I do not think there will be much danger of any religious leader winning an election.

"There are still millions of believers in our country and they will not disappear tomorrow, although religion is going to its doom in Russia with giant steps. The occupation of the religious leader in Russia is not one to be envied and neither is it considered honorable. The greater the growth of communism and radicalism throughout the world the more pitiful grows the role of the clergy. Their efforts to protect the ruined temples of religion will fail everywhere as it has failed in Russia."

WILL PROBATE.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last April a will was probated, estate consisting of papers in safe deposit box.

1. Where can I see inventory of same?
2. How long do they have time to file same? I was in the probate clerk's vaults and saw file, but (3) no inventory was to be found. Did I go to the right place? F. S.

1. In the office of the clerk of the Probate court.
2. The will should have been filed before the probate proceedings commenced.
3. The probate docket should show what papers have been filed. We suggest that you examine it.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GUARDIANSHIP.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please let me know what a "state ward" is or means about an adult? F. D.

The subject of a guardianship is called a ward. Presumably a state ward would be a person for whom the state had assumed guardianship responsibilities. We could advise to better advantage if you had stated your facts.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

AN OUTMODED LAW.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Section 30, chapter 53, of the Illinois revised statutes, 1935, provides: "For recording any deed or other instrument in writing, for every one hundred words, in counties of third class [Cook county], 10 cents, and the sum of 25 cents for the certificate of the recorder of the time of filing of same for record, and the book and page of the record thereof."

This method of arriving at recording fees is a hangover from the days of typewritten recordings. Then it was logical to charge on the basis of 10 cents per hundred words. With the advent of photostating recorded instruments, every good reason to charge by the number of words in the instrument is lost.

The fee for recording the ordinary quit-claim deed [having less than one hundred words] is $1.25, while the usual trust deed [having perhaps twice as many words] costs twice as much. Yet both instruments are only one page in length and can be photostated with an equal amount of effort and expense.

The charge should be based on the number of pages rather than the number of words. It is the only sensible basis since the photostatic process has been adopted by the recorder of deeds.

EMIL SEERUP.

CROSSING GUARDIAN.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Let us stop and pay tribute to a man who is a man of the highest degree. I do not know his name, but he wears a white safety belt and is stationed at Spaulding and 60th street for the Lutheran school. It gives you one of the greatest thrills to see that man patrol those corners, taking children, our children, by the hand, walking all the time from one corner to the other, until they are safely across.

No slouching in the shelter of the building but always on duty on the coldest of days.

There are other children who cross this section, children who go to a public school farther on. Also little children out playing, but they are all alike to him. They stand for something which he guards with his life. My hat is off to this man and to all the men who make this city safe for our children.

MISREPRESENTATION?

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 18.—I have listened to various pleas for support of the Chicago City opera—one today, for instance, at the luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce—by a speaker who asked business men to become sponsors at a hundred dollars each. Last Saturday night I attended a performance of "Martha" by this capable company. One entire scene was cut from the production without explanation in the program or otherwise. I had bought tickets for the opera. In business we call that cheating.

LEGALIZED MURDER.

Green Bay, Wis., Nov. 17.—As a long subscriber and admirer of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE I wish to sincerely object to the apparent sympathy your paper is showing toward legalized murder of invalids [euthanasia]. I was very much surprised at the influence THE TRIBUNE would give to this euthanasia doctrin.

PHILIP SHERIDAN.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—While all this talk of labor and the forming of unions is going on some facts about union made goods should be of interest.

We are led to believe that the unions are gaining in membership continually, yet in the face of this overalls with the union label are being made by fewer manufacturers now than several years ago.

Not so many years ago there were about two hundred manufacturers of union made overalls in the United States, while now there are only about forty. The total number of overall manufacturers is between five and six hundred, making less than 10 per cent with union shops. J. B. J.

NASHVILLE'S STANDARDS.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 20.—In your column today I noticed a letter signed "Mrs. James A. Depew" commenting on her hardships encountered in the south, and especially in Nashville, Tenn.

As that city is noted for good coffee, and has been since ante-bellum days, I would suggest that the next time she travels there she should try some of the many fine hotels where the service leaves nothing to be desired.

Possibly the store where she had her package poorly wrapped was crowded and the clerks in a rush. There are many splendid department stores and specialty shops there that will tie up her small purchases perfectly. Why not try them out next time? JULIA BROWN.

WATCHMEN'S HOURS.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—I would like to ask you to put in your paper about long hours for watchmen. They have to work fourteen hours per night and get small pay, as low as $60 per month. You have to do engineer's and fireman's work at night. Is there not a law that watchmen do not have to care for boilers and clean firepots? When you miss a pull box you are docked 75 cents for every box you miss. They do not know that you have to do four jobs for one man's pay. Why not shorten the hours to seven hours per night?

GEORGE S. BROWN.

RECORD-BREAKING BABIES.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—I read an article in your paper of Sunday, Nov. 15, in which there was mention of a baby that had sixteen teeth when 16 months old and the other twenty teeth when 20 months old. You called him a "record breaker."

Listen to this: My baby is now 15½ months old and weighs 27 pounds. He had sixteen teeth before he was 15 months old. He walked when he was 9 months and at that time weighed 21½ pounds. He is now starting to talk.

MRS. FRED VAN DYKEN.

WITHOUT FORKS.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—I noticed in the Winnie Winkle comic strip of Nov. 20 that Winnie and Fanny are seated at a table ready to indulge in a repast. The plates are filled, but the silverware is absent. Now, I'm aware that Winnie leads the style parade. Please show just how this new form of etiquet is accomplished. As you know, we "poor working gals" do so like to keep up with the times. R. G. C.

JAPAN'S PLANES BOMB CHINESE FORCES IN NORTH

Suiyuan Province Fights to Repel Invaders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 22.—Japanese airplanes, assisting Chahar, Mongol and Manchukuan troops, dropped more than 100 bombs in eastern Suiyuan province, said an official dispatch today from the Suiyuan provisional government. Seventy members of the Suiyuan defense force were injured and nineteen Suiyuan motor trucks were destroyed. It was reported one plane was shot down and the Japanese pilot killed.

The Chahar troops are pushing an invasion of Suiyuan and for the last few days have been fighting in the eastern part of the province.

Japanese reports, unconfirmed by Chinese official sources, said the invaders, commanded by Wang Ying, a bandit chieftain, and assisted by bombing planes, recaptured Hungkuertu, an important town near the eastern Suiyuan border Friday.

280 Casualties Reported.

Wang Ying's forces suffered casualties of 280 killed and wounded, the reports said. The Suiyuan forces defeated Wang Ying's Mongols last Wednesday, according to Chinese official dispatches.

The invading forces are attacking along three routes. These are: From Pailingmiao, northwest of Kweisui, Suiyuan capital; from Shangtu, near the western border of Chahar province, and from Pangkiang in northeastern Suiyuan province. The invaders numbers 25,000 men. Half of them are equipped with rifles.

1,000 Fall in Battle.

PEIPING, China, Nov. 23.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Japanese military officials said today Chahar troops had killed or wounded 1,000 Suiyuan forces in a battle near Taolin.

A second column of the Chahar army drove southwestward into Suiyuan province with Tsining and Hopin as its objective and cut the Peiping-Suiyuan railway line, it was stated here.

Rush to Repel Invaders.

KWEISUI, Suiyuan Province, China, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Chinese sources reported tonight the national government had ordered ten divisions of infantry and fifty airplanes to repel North China invaders allegedly encouraged by Japanese.

Observers saw in the reports the threat of widespread war for China against the invaders in Suiyuan province.

Rescued from Mob After Attacking 8 Year Old Girl

New York, Nov. 22.—[Special.]—Police and detectives of the Sheepshead Bay station rescued a Negro today from a mob which threatened to lynch him for criminally attacking an 8 year old girl and terrorizing another of 12. The Negro, Howard White, 28, a laborer, was locked up for hearing in Felony court on charges of rape and attempted rape.

Confesses Slaying

JOSEPH SWANDA.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan said yesterday that extradition proceedings would be started today to return Joseph Swanda, 30 years old, from Omaha, Neb., where he was arrested Saturday, to stand trial here for the murder on Aug. 22, 1933, of Sidney Adelman, an automobile salesman. Adelman was fatally shot in north Riverside while demonstrating a car. Swanda, according to Omaha police, has confessed the slaying. At the time of the murder Swanda was pursued by a police squad but escaped after dropping two suitcases containing his photograph and several pieces of cowboy attire.

JAP SMUGGLERS BEAT 10 CHINESE CUSTOMS AGENTS

FOOCHOW, China, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Ten Chinese customs officials were injured seriously here today when they boarded the Japanese steamer Seikyomaru for inspection and were attacked by a gang of 50 alleged smugglers from Formosa. Chinese charged the Foochow Japanese consul was aboard the ship but made no effort to control the attackers, who were said to be Japanese subjects.

As the officials boarded the steamer after its arrival from Keelung, the smugglers jumped upon the officials and belabored them with hammers and iron bars, customs authorities said.

After battering the unarmed inspectors into unconsciousness, customs authorities said, the attackers landed a large amount of merchandise without paying duty. Dr. C. J. Gillette of Des Moines, Ia., said several of the Chinese were in a serious condition.

BOYS TAKE DYNAMITE CAPS.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Anxious police tonight sought several small boys who officials believe took 804 highly explosive dynamite caps out of a WPA storehouse. A man told authorities he saw a group of boys between the ages of six and eight years playing with dynamite caps in a park.

MEXICO STRIVES TO AVOID STRIKE OF OIL WORKERS

Seeks to Settle Row by Mediation.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The government announced today an effort to mediate the projected strike of 16,000 oil workers which may prove a decisive factor in Mexican labor's fight to socialize industry under newly enacted wealth distribution legislation.

Labor Secretary Genaro Vasquez took personal charge of the mediation efforts and summoned representatives of employers and labor to meet with him tomorrow.

The strike, called for next Sunday, would affect 17 oil producing and distributing companies, most of them British or American controled and with an estimated foreign investment of $350,000,000.

Single Issue Involved.

A single issue is involved: refusal of the companies to accept the oil workers syndicate's far reaching draft of a blanket labor contract to govern the industry as a basis for negotiations.

The oil workers demand pay for 365 days a year but want to work only 220 days. They also want the employers to buy the ticket to any place in the world selected by an employé for his vacation.

The companies have asserted imposition of the syndicate demands would increase operating costs $70,000,000 annually and drive most of them out of business. They charge labor agitation has helped cut oil production from 193,398,092 barrels in 1921 to 40,234,092 barrels in 1935.

Fear Seizure of Property.

A disquieting factor for representatives of capital is the new law of expropriation which greatly broadens the federal gavernment's power over private property.

Privately they voice fear that a long strike and consequent drop in tax payments, which last year comprised about one-sixth of the government's total revenues, might lead to seizure of their properties under the law for: "The establishment, maintenance, or conservation of an industrial concern for the good of society."

Some industrial executives saw an added threat to socialization of their factories in Senator Nicéforo Guerrero's admonition to parliament last week that "it must be frankly said the socialism of our revolution cannot be other than Marxist socialism."

There was also the announcement by two legislators they hoped to seek wider application of the wealth distribution legislation, sequel to the older agrarian laws providing for parceling of large estates to workers.

Refuse Loans on Property.

Senator José Maria Davila said he would introduce legislation to let the government take over "intellectual properties"—patents, inventions, medical formula, and the like. Deputy Zorrilla Rivero announced he would seek to give the state the same power over urban property it has over agricultural lands.

While no official source would comment on reaction to the new law, an authoritative source said banks were refusing loans upon real property pending its interpretation.

One bank, too, reported increased sales of drafts upon New York the day after the bill was passed by the senate, which some observers took to indicate it was tending to drive capital out of the country.

Mr. Graham also designed many other noteworthy buildings in other cities.

Mr. Graham was active in civic affairs and had served as an adviser to the county assessor and was a member of the emergency board appointed in 1933 to force tax payments on large tracts which had become delinquent. He was a trustee of the Field museum and a vice president of the Shedd aquarium.

Mr. Graham is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ruby Leffingwell Graham, and a son, William E. Graham. His first wife died in 1923. Many of the city's well known civic and business leaders will attend the funeral services, which will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Frederick Shannon.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 22.—(AP)—H. Ware Barnum, 60 year old wealthy executive of the Boston Elevated Railway company, fell seven stories from a window in his downtown office late today and Medical Examiner Timothy Leary listed the death as "a suicide because of ill health."

A few hours later, he said, he heard the awning of a specialty shop crash, went outside, and found Barnum's body on the sidewalk.

JOHN F. EGOLF, ELECTRIC RAIL MANAGER, DIES

Collapses at Aurora Shooting Meet.

John F. Egolf of Aurora, general manager of electric interurban lines in the Chicago metropolitan area since 1922, died suddenly yesterday at the Aurora Fishing and Hunting club while participating in the club's annual Thanksgiving day shoot.

JOHN F. EGOLF.

Mr. Egolf had tied with two others for first place and was waiting in the clubhouse to shoot off the tie when he collapsed. His death was attributed to a heart attack. He was 63 years old and lived at 851 Downer place in the suburb.

Career Began as Conductor.

Born in Etna, O., March 4, 1873, Mr. Egolf rose from a conductor on the Columbus, O., street railways in 1902 to prominence in the electric street and interurban transportation field. At the time of his death, he was general manager of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railway, president of the Fox Valley Bus lines, and vice president of the Western United Gas and Electric company.

In Ohio at various times he was connected with the Springfield and Xenia railway, the Cincinnati Suburban railway, and the Columbus, Springfield and Dayton Interurban lines. He came to Aurora in 1922 in a position with the Aurora, Elgin and Fox River Electric company, and resigned in 1926 to go with the Chicago South Shore and South Bend railway.

Heads North Shore Line.

Later in the same year Mr. Egolf became general manager of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad company, but in 1928 returned to Aurora as the general manager of the Chicago Aurora and Elgin.

SIR FITZROY MACLEAN, 101 YEAR CLAN CHIEF, DIES IN DUART CASTLE

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Sir Fitzroy Donald MacLean, twenty-sixth chief of the Clan MacLean, died today at his home at Duart castle on the Isle of Mull. He was 101 years old and widely known as one of the "grand old men" of Scotland for more than half a century.

In his early 'teens he saw the ruins of Duart castle burned to the ground by one of his relatives, the duke of Argyl. The boy vowed he would regain the castle and restore it to its former glory.

This dream was realized in 1912 when the yellow banner of the chief of the clan was raised over the castle walls amid the rejoicing of clansmen gathered from all parts of the world.

GREECE REBURIES KING WHO DIED AS AN EXILE IN ITALY

ATHENS, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The remains of the late King Constantine of Greece, his wife Queen Sophia, and his mother, Queen Olga were given final burial in their native land today. The bodies had been returned from Italy where the three died in exile during the days of the Greek republic.

CRUISER BUILDING IN U. S. REACHES PEACE TIME PEAK

Two New Vessels Take to Waters This Month.

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The biggest rush of cruiser construction in the United States navy's history has reached its peak of activity, it was disclosed today, bringing employment at east coast construction yards to record peace time heights.

The first of a series of new 10,000 ton cruisers, the Philadelphia, was launched at that city last Tuesday, and naval authorities here announced plans for the baptism of a sister ship, the Brooklyn, at the Brooklyn navy yard Nov. 30.

Construction of eleven cruisers has been centered in five east coast yards.

Other construction and modernization work has brought employment at Brooklyn to a new peace time record of 9,000 to 10,000 men. Nearly 7,000 are regular employés and the remainder are WPA workers. Other yards, naval authorities said, also have peak work schedules since the war.

Argue Over Size of Guns.

A sharp dispute between two navy schools over the value of the so-called 10,000 ton treaty cruisers has been revived as the first of the series are being completed. Their biggest guns are six inch weapons, 15 on each ship, whereas the older type carried nine eight inch guns.

The London treaty, which expires Dec. 31 specified limitations of 10,000 tons and eight inch guns, but the United States acceded to Britain's expressed wish for smaller guns. The issue was hotly debated at naval talks in London since 1930 and carried on between high naval authorities in this country.

With all international restrictions on naval building expiring this year, many naval officers favoring bigger guns are expressing uneasiness over national defense prospects. The controversy in "inside" navy circles centers over whether faster, lighter hitting cruisers are better than slower heavier hitters.

Heavy Armaments Added.

Critics of the new type cruisers hold that they will be no match for heavier armed foreign fighters.

However, in the revival of cruiser building after a lapse of several years, the government has not altogether abandoned the bigger gunned cruisers. Three additions are being made to the 9,950 ton Minneapolis class to be armed with nine eight inch guns each.

The Bethlehem Works in Massachusetts recently completed the Quincy and is now building the Vincennes, whereas the Philadelphia yard has the Wichita under construction.

Six of the new so-called treaty cruisers are shaping up in the New York area. The Brooklyn will be more than 75 per cent completed when it goes down the ways Nov. 30 and the Brooklyn navy yard also has the Honolulu, 54 per cent completed, and the Helena, just 5 per cent under way.

Three Vessels at Camden.

The New York Shipbuilding company at Camden, N. J., also has three—Savannah, Nashville and Phoenix—and Newport News, Va., has two—Boise and St. Louis.

Contributing to this heavy work here is the construction of two coast guard cutters and overhaul of the heavy cruiser New Orleans. The gunboat Erie was completed three weeks ago and the overhaul of the cruiser Indianapolis was done here just before it took aboard President Roosevelt for his cruise to South America.

BACHELOR PRINCE, 31, PROCLAIMED SULTAN OF SULU BY MOROS

MANILA, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Moroland reports tonight said the bachelor Prince Esmail Kiram, 31, had been proclaimed sultan of Sulu as mutterings of suspected foul play in the unexpected death of his father, the late Sultan Mawallii Wasit, came from his followers.

Advices from Jolo said the prince was proclaimed sultan shortly before the burial of his father at Maimbung yesterday.

Although physicians attributed Mawallii's death to heart failure, the reports said his followers suspected foul play and pointed out that various attempts had been made to kill him.

EXHIBIT DEPICTS THANKSGIVING OF PILGRIM FAMILY

Thanksgiving dinner began yesterday in the Paul Revere house of the Chicago Historical society as an exhibit was opened depicting the Thanksgiving feast as it was conducted in New England nearly 300 years ago among Pilgrim families. The house is a replica of the original in Boston, which was built in 1660, and the exhibit shows a Pilgrim family about to partake of a bountiful meal. There are artificial figures costumed authentically by Mrs. Minna Schmidt. Objects in the room, many of which came over on the Mayflower, give a realistic note. The pewter and pottery used in the table setting came from a Pilgrim home and were donated recently by Mrs. Emily Crane Chadborne of Stoney Ridge, N. Y., to the historical society.

Burglars Kill Dog in Home; Take Safe, Get $24,000 Loot

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Thieves entered a home here tonight and carried off a 450 pound safe containing nearly $8,000 in cash and postal savings certificates, $1,000 in jewelry, and $15,000 in notes. Frank F. Carlesimo, tavern keeper, occupant of the house, and his family were absent. The thefts were discovered by Mrs. Carlesimo and her two daughters when they returned from a movie. The burglars killed the family's pet dog.

German Pleads for Life.

NOVOSIBIRSK, Western Siberia, Nov. 22.—(AP)—E. Stickling, a German engineer, and eight other defendants were sentenced to death tonight by three Russian judges who convicted them of plotting against the soviet régime and killing fourteen miners in acts of sabotage. It was believed the sentences would be carried out within 48 hours.

Stickling was found guilty of maintaining a direct connection "with the secret service of one foreign state." He admitted full guilt. In a plea for his life he said: "I have not concealed anything. It wasn't myself who took the road to wreckage. I showed who led me down this road."

Russia Seizes Jap as Spy.

MOSCOW, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Shuichi Sakoh, Japanese chargé d'affaires in Moscow, tonight called on Benedict Kozlovsky, chief of the far eastern department of the commissariat of foreign affairs, to inquire into the details of the reported arrest of a prominent Japanese business man in Vladivostok charged with espionage.

SHOOTS HIS WIFE AS SHE TRIES TO FLEE; KILLS SELF

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Cleve Masten, 52, a farmer living near Havana, Ill., shot and critically wounded his wife Martha, 48, today and then killed himself with a double barreled shotgun.

Officers discovered Masten's body while two of the Masten children, Raymond, 20, and Frances, were taking their mother to a doctor's office in Havana. Later Mrs. Masten was removed to a Peoria hospital.

Young Masten said his father struck his mother with a stick during a family quarrel, officers said, and then shot her as she attempted to start an automobile in which to escape. Masten killed himself, officers said, after the children left with their mother.

TRUCK KILLS 4 WHERE 2 OTHER CARS CRASHED

Deming, N. M., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A gasoline truck, pulling two loaded tank cars, struck and killed four persons and injured five who were standing near the scene of a trafic accident tonight on United States highway 80, ten miles west of here.

The truck driver had turned his machine to avoid striking the wreckage of two cars which had collided.

The dead:

Mrs. M. M. Daniil, Prescott, Ark.; her son, Jobie Daniil, 14; her daughter, Margery, 9, and John Allen Tasley, 3½ years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Tasley, Fort Worth, Tex.

Explosion Wrecks Still and Starts Fire in Home

An explosion wrecked a 50 gallon still on the second floor of a two story frame house at 3930 Wentworth avenue late last night. A small fire started, which was put out by firemen. They found the still and 52 barrels of mash. The operators were not around. Stockyards police questioned Claude Myrick, colored, who lives on the first floor. He said he did not know a still was operated in the house.

Their two women companions, Mrs. John Wagner and Miss Julia Smith, both of Michigan City, escaped by clinging to the overturned boat.

This winter, on the flashing once-a-week Super Chief, or the 50-hour daily Chief—swift, smooth, air-conditioned, with superb Fred Harvey dining car service—the same round-trip costs will be only $137.50, including the extra fares on these famous trains.

IT CAN... AND DOES HAPPEN HERE!

■ Nowadays, no one is absolutely safe from accident. If you drive a car, you need automobile insurance. But there are careful and reckless drivers. And, as you might suspect, it's the careful drivers who have fewer accidents. So, for the protection of its policyholders, American Auto makes a practice of catering to men and women who drive an automobile with precaution. To drivers like RALPH B, businessman, who knows that the first principle of safety is keeping a car in good mechanical condition; and BERNICE L, school teacher, who makes a practice of obeying stop lights and warning signs; and TOM C, carpenter, who isn't out to break all existing speed records when he takes his family riding.

Insuring these, and other careful drivers, American Auto is called upon to settle fewer and less costly claims. This savings it passes along to its policyholders, giving them the lower premium rates the careful driver deserves. Ask your insurance agent or broker about an American Auto policy, and its lower rates, today.

Here Are Tips on Pre-Oven Care of Turkey

Cooking Editor Describes Cleaning and Trussing.

"Famous Yuletide Cakes and Cookies," a booklet containing recipes for fruit cakes and foreign Christmas cookies, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Ten hungry people, ten pounds of turkey. When you go to the market tomorrow or next day to select the regal fowl to grace your table and gorge your guests next Thursday, a pound per person dressed weight [undrawn, head and feet still on] is plenty and enough to insure second helpings and midnight cold turkey sandwiches, too.

Turkeys may be purchased at the market either freshly killed or frozen. In either case, look for a broad, full breast, a discernible layer of fat underneath a clean, unbroken skin, and make certain that the fowl is a young one.

It is advisable to have the bird cleaned and drawn at the market, but if this task is to be done at home, all work on the outside of the bird, such as removing the pinfeathers and scrubbing the skin with salt or soda should be done before the entrails are removed. This is easier and also prevents water or cleaning materials from reaching the inside of the turkey and impairing its flavor.

At the market have the leg tendons removed, the feet cut off [not chopped], the crop removed from the back [to leave breast skin unbroken], and the wishbone taken out. The presence of the wishbone makes it difficult to carve breast meat.

Stuffing the fowl and keeping it in a cold place for a day or for several days ahead of the roasting allows an exchange of flavor between turkey meat and dressing, which makes the roasted fowl all the more delectable. Some cooks like to insert a thin layer of dressing between the skin and the breast meat. This not only gives added flavor but prevents the breast from drying out. In case this breast filling is used, the operation should be performed before the body of the turkey is stuffed. A slightly longer period of cooking will be necessary if the breast is stuffed, but there is ample justification for this extra amount of time.

The simplest method of fastening the stuffed bird is by use of steel pins an inch and a half to two inches long, which may be purchased in notion departments or 10 cent stores. After the stuffing has been spooned into the bird, allowing room for expansion, these pins are speared into the flesh across the opening at regular intervals. A cord then is used to lace around the pins and bring the edges of the opening together. Removal of the steel pins after roasting is a much simpler matter than removal of other devices which might be used.

To truss the turkey, fold the wings back with the tips caught under the back. Insert a skewer through the wings and back to facilitate tying. Tie a cord firmly around the lower end of each drumstick to prevent muscle and skin from shrinking back on the legbone as the bird is cooked. Cross the drumsticks and tie the ends together, using the middle part of a long cord. Press the legs against the body and down, inserting a skewer beneath each, then tie the leg ends to the tail piece. Pull the string firmly as the bird is shaped to compactness. Turn the bird on its breast, cross the string, and bring the ends up from the tail to draw around the leg skewer on each side. Cross strings over the back and draw the ends around the wing skewer. Hold string taut, tie a knot, and cut off the ends. The turkey then is ready for brushing with fat before it goes into the roaster or be stored in the refrigerator until the proper time.

Prescribed for Slim Figures

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

This dashing yet quaint little frock is prescribed for slim figures with plenty of curves. If you must wear over size 19 you are out of luck, because this dress is designed for junior silhouettes only. It is as young as a new romance and just as intriguing. Princess lines predominate, with the sleeves possessing more than a hint of the Directoire mode. Slender shoulders are broadened by the generous puffs, and the same bit of styling serves to make the waistline seem slim as a wisp in contrast. There is no collar. A band finishes the neckline and continues into the closing which extends only to the hipline. The clever paneling which causes the bodice and waistline to fit so well also achieves a graceful swing to the skirt.

Plaids are perfect mediums for this dress, since they may be used on the bias for the binding, and also because they coöperate so beautifully with the flare in the skirt. Woolens are, of course, excellent seasonal choices, as is velveteen. Silks with interesting weaves also are "tops" for this model.

Style No. 3190 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

Mary Rogers Maps Start of Movie Career

Daughter of Late Comedian Offered Contract.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 22.—Mary Rogers, 21 year old daughter of the late Will, may bring the family name back to the movie headlines at the same studio that starred her famous dad. Mary has been talking things over with the Twentieth Century Fox, which has offered her a flattering contract.

MARY ROGERS.

Miss Rogers made one film appearance in 1933 under the name Mary Howard in "My Weakness" with Lilian Harvey. She was 18 then. Her father at that time thought, and Mary agreed, that seasoning in dramatics would serve her career much better than a soft cushioned start as a movie ingénue.

So the pretty ash blonde daughter of the country's No. 1 film attraction took herself east in 1933 and began campaigning in stock at Skowhegan, Me., and Lakewood, N. J., and with a troupe toured Canadian provinces. Later she took stage parts in "On to Fortune," "Ceiling Zero," and "Reunion in Vienna," and appeared before Broadway audiences. Miss Rogers returned to Hollywood some weeks ago and has been taking screen tests and negotiating with her father's old company.

When Paramount notified Dorothy Lamour that she was now of such consequence as a leading woman that she could have a stand-in in "Swing High, Swing Low," the young brunette from Chicago and New Orleans phoned long distance to her friend, Ruth Spangler in Dallas, Tex., to hurry out and take the job. Miss Spangler looks enough like Dorothy to be her sister.

William Anthony McGuire, who went from Chicago to become one of the prominent theater men in New York, is now launched as a film producer at M. G. M., his first production being P. G. Wodehouse's original story for the screen, "The Merry Princess." It is to be a starring vehicle for Della Lind, blonde Viennese singing and dancing importation, and Allan Jones.

Pink with Blue Sash

Accessories Take Turn at Scotch Plaids

Provide Bright Spots for Dull Winter Clothes.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Undiluted Scotch accessories. Newly unpacked in a swanky sports shop are flat cigaret cases, compacts, comb cases with very thin combs therein, and coin purses covered in authentic wool Scotch plaids.

If you demand your own plaids you'll have no trouble finding your own special mixture. If you like the bright, colorful stuff just because the vivid splash of contrast perks up your sombre winter suits and coats, you'll find plenty of effective combines and colors.

Scotch plaid blouses, jackets, skirts, scarfs and hats are still big fashion favorites. The skirts can be worn with dark plain colored tops, or the tops can go Scotch and the skirts a dark color, the combine is up to you.

Two slick new topcoats are of the half and half Scotch mixture. One is of lapin, with the wool Scotch plaid as a lining. There is the additional trick of being reversible.

The other coat is a reversible wool plaid and waterproof cravenette. The cravenette is a good looking beige color, the wool of a huge dark blue, green and beige Scotch plaid. Raglan shoulders, wide, loose, comfortable sleeves that can be strapped snugly in place at the wrist, just enough flare to make them swing smartly, and deep pockets make these practical coats well worth every penny you are asked to pay. They'll last for years, and still be smart in line and style. And according to all the best fashion rumors, Scotch will be just as good this coming spring as it has been these last few months.

Fashion photograph . . . soft rose pink satin trimmed with cascades of deep ivory lace at the neckline and at the wrists of the long old fashioned puffed sleeves combine in this lovely new negligee from the pre-Christmas showings. Around the waist and tied with a flat bow is a narrow band of robin's egg blue velvet. It is available in a Chicago shop.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

SIGN-OFF [AFTER AN OPENING TWO NO TRUMP].

With a six card suit and a weak hand the proper treatment is to rebid the suit, even if partner's rebid is three no trump. Bidding the suit a second time acts as a sign-off, denying even so much as a queen in the hand. If the suit is a major, game already will have been reached, because the rebid will have been at the level of four. If the suit is a minor the rebid tells the opening hand that game is not possible and that the bidding should be dropped at four of the minor.

Holding only a five card minor suit headed by the queen, or a six card minor suit headed by the queen or better, partner should be allowed to play the hand at three no trump.

With a weak hand he should go on to game in any six card major suit, or with a five card major suit and unbalanced distribution. With balanced distribution he should pass three no trump only if his major suit is headed by the queen or better.

TODAY'S HAND.

I am afraid that bidding standards have outstripped the average caliber of play. There has been an avalanche of hands recently brought to my attention for the purpose of fixing blame between partners for having "reached too high a contract." In almost every instance the contract should have been fulfilled by merely reasonably good play!

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 spades [final bid]

A club opening lead would have made the contract hopeless, but since it was the only lead that would, the hand hardly can be said to have been badly overbid. On the actual diamond jack opening it should have been duck soup and it is difficult to see how declarer managed to go down two tricks.

The crux of the play is to retain rigid control of the trump and diamond suits and to avoid finesses. If the first part is fulfilled, dummy's heart suit will provide a discard for South's losing club.

The correct play at the second trick is dummy's nine of spades. If the king takes this, a diamond return can be ruffed with the ace. Any other return also is won in dummy, the trump ace cashed, and the heart king used as entry for trump drawing.

If East plays low on the spade nine declarer must overtake, of course, and, if he holds the trick, ruff his diamond queen with the spade ace. Then the safest plan is to lead the ace of hearts and a low heart to the king, thus guarding against the chance that East may have started with four trumps to the king, in which event, if he also had started with a doubleton heart [and were allowed to retain one], he could take his king on the second round of the suit and lock the play in the dummy by returning a heart.

The only difficulty about this hand is psychological. Players are not accustomed to playing a trump suit in the manner prescribed. But there is no reason why careful analysis should not be able to offset habit.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: If declarer leads from his own hand and immediately plays a card from dummy without waiting for his left-hand opponent to play, may the right-hand opponent play before his partner without penalty?

Answer: Yes.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The play which has brought Charlotte Greenwood back to Chicago at the Selwyn theater after an absence of six years is called "Leaning on Letty" merely as a gesture in honor of this comedienne's past, which is spangled with "Letty" frolics. It does not continue the tradition, but introduces Miss Greenwood in a new phase. She is now a somewhat serious and more or less sincere character actress, who blends her sense of humor with a melodramatic plot in a modern vein.

"Leaning on Letty" had a long term of life in New York under the title of "The Post Road." It is a mixture of domestic comedy, verging on the rural brands of farce, with tense moments of villainy among the kidnapers of infants; its tricks are numerous, old school and new, and through it marches with mock-solemn tread Miss Greenwood, alias Letty, speaking comic lines with blank countenance and bated breath until the ingenious fabrications of the plot permit her to turn on a surge of pseudo-mother emotion, in which she is somewhat affecting.

A tourist home on the Boston Post road, over which Miss Greenwood presides as a hostess, renting rooms to all comers at $2 per night, is the scene of these diverting didoes. Its other inhabitants, for comic purposes, are a futile brother-in-law who is always monkeying with the radio and behaving like Elmer in "Three Men On A Horse"; a sister who consistently hopes for the worse in any situation; and a whangdoodling clergyman. [Watch the latter character, folks; he means mischief.]

Into this establishment, which tourist home experts may not regard as true to type, there comes barging in a slick doctor with a high society accent, a trained nurse who suggests Lady Macbeth in a fit of desperate resolve, a sick lady who has to be carried to bed, and a mean looking chauffeur. Howls of anguish come from the chamber to which the patient is taken; and then, for a curtain line, the doctor announces smilingly to the audience: "It's a boy!"

This is only the start of the plot, which becomes almost as eccentric as "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Miss Greenwood, stricken with the heroine complex, lets the neighbors believe that she is the mother of the fatherless babe. Presently reports of a sensational kidnaping come by radio, and every Philo Vance in the audience begins to suspect that Miss Greenwood has been hornswoggled with the slick doctor et al.

There is some hanky-pank with a talking baby doll to mix you up, some mother acting by Miss Greenwood to calm you down, and some talk of an assassination to curdle your blood. At the close police car sirens are shrieking and G-men's guns are popping offstage, and the villains are all rounded up, including the clergyman, and Miss Greenwood is a noble soul, although a chronic comedienne.

Before the audience is dismissed the star reverts to her more frivolous past as a musical comedy and vaudeville Letty. She sings two songs which were popular during her years in London—"Young Man's Slave" and "Moon Melody." Then she goes into her Letty dance, waves her arms, brandishes her legs, and crawls on the floor. All then agree that this is the same Miss Greenwood whom they saw nearly twenty years ago in "So Long Letty" and several similar shows.

The others in the cast satisfy every demand of the play.

MISS ELLEN ADAIR ORR.

MISS ELLEN ADAIR ORR is one of the busiest of the young women enjoying their first season "out." She and three other debutantes, Miss Annie May Henry, Miss Anne Winston, and Miss Betty Keith, will serve as models tomorrow at the sale the women's board of Eli Bates settlement will give in the home of Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen at 1430 Astor street. The debutantes will wear some of the lovely negligees, wrappers, and bedjackets for which the shop is noted. In addition to her other activities, Miss Orr finds the time to serve as president of Le Cercle des Jeunes of the Alliance Française.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One of the sensations this year of Fashion Futures, that internationally famous fashion show which is given each year by the Fashion Group in New York, was the showing of four large panels depicting makeup tor four types. These are on the scale of stage settings and are the brain child of one of our great beauty specialists.

Nothing quite like this showing of makeup finesse had ever been achieved before, and we heard from many quarters of this dramatic presentation of the beauty aspects of fashion. It's good news that the panels have come to Chicago. They will be shown at a shop all this week.

On each of the four screens a large face is painted, with illumination from behind the screen to give radiance and warmth. Both the fundamentals and the fine shadings of the perfect makeup are cleverly illustrated and mannequins parade to demonstrate the relationship between costume color and cosmetic choice.

Since this is a year for subtle colors in clothes, ranging from the difficult dove grays to the burgundies and bottle greens it's also the year for makeup wisdom and technique.

The shade of every makeup item must be carefully considered. Too pink or too white a foundation can be disastrous, and the wrong tint of powder or the faulty selection of eye shadow can destroy makeup suavity.

Such showings as these are a contribution to beauty education; we strongly advise you not to miss this.

A. C. Sullivans to Give Party for Mary Lyon

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOR a few hours last week one of the two Sundays of the Christmas holidays was left a blank on the debutante calendar. Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison Jr., who had reserved Dec. 27 for a luncheon at the Onwentsia club, canceled these plans in favor of a dinner-dance in town on Christmas night at the Ambassador East for their debutante daughter, Miss Edith Harrison.

The debutantes are not to go without a luncheon party on that Sunday, however, for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Sullivan of Winnetka have planned to entertain at the Indian Hill club for Miss Mary Lyon, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Lyon. The Sullivans are hoping for a "white" Christmas, for they are arranging an afternoon of winter sports for their young guests. Their son, Arthur Sullivan Jr., will be at home from Dartmouth for the Christmas holidays, arriving about the same time that Miss Lyon will come from Smith.

Princeton Trianglers at Harrison Party.

Perhaps one reason for the change in the Harrisons' plans is because the Princeton Triangle club members will be in town on Christmas day—they play at the Civic Opera house the following night—and, of course, it always adds a feather to a debutante's cap to have the Trianglers at her party. The boys had been invited to the Harrisons' luncheon as well, but there would not have been dancing there.

The young visitors will be dancing most of Christmas day, it seems, for Mrs. John Kellogg is giving a tea dance at the Racquet club in the afternoon for her debutante daughter, Miss Jean Kellogg. The Thespians' next performance following the Chicago one Dec. 26 will be in St. Louis on Monday night, the 28th. Their train will not leave for the Missouri city until late Sunday evening.

The coming of the Triangle club does not provide thrills for the debutantes alone, for parents of subdebutantes often plan dinner and theater parties for that evening. Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. James Westcott have planned such a party for their 'teen age daughters, Miss Nancy Davis, who is at home this winter, and Miss Jean Westcott, who is at the Shipley school. Dr. and Mrs. Davis and the Westcotts will give the dinner at the Casino before going on to see "Take It Away."

Pinza Compels Hearers to Live Songs with Him

BY EDWARD BARRY.

An afternoon spent trotting about the loop yesterday uncovered five concerts running concurrently. This half column will undertake to sort out the impressions gained on the marathon.

Ezio Pinza, the Mephistopheles of Saturday's "Faust," came to Orchestra hall for a recital yesterday under Musicians Club of Women auspices. Stripped of his infernal finery and clad in conventional dress, the famous bass set out to prove to a fair sized audience that he is as much at home in a quiet concert hall as under the lurid spotlights of "Mefistofele" and "Faust."

He is at home because he carries his drama with him. Mr. Pinza lives every song, and, such is the power of his personality, compels the audience to live it with him. Dull moments are few at a Pinza recital.

Not that his programs are composed exclusively or even predominantly of the volcanic type of music on which he has built a world reputation. The man can take a slow moving, intensely introspective little song such as "Caro Mio Ben" and make his audience hang on every syllable of it.

His voice? Good, of course. But that, somehow, is the last thing that you think of commenting on at a Pinza appearance.

The Dana ensemble, a male quintet from Poland, gave its first Chicago concert at the Studebaker. Compared often to the Revellers in advance publicity, the group justifies the parallel in the careful delicacy of its performance and the effective, close harmony of the special arrangements.

Judging by the mournful first group only, the tone quality of the Dana ensemble does not meet world standards for small singing groups. There is a lack of mellowness, a suggestion of several individual voices rather than one perfectly unified whole.

Lest the inches here devoted to the Dana people should seem to contain nothing but criticism, I should like to add to them the Don Cossacks [who were singing at the Civic Opera house] and fling the charge of overarrangement at both groups. There is a limit to the amount of humming and similar business which should appear in performances of familiar songs. And there can be such a thing as too much care for subtle effects. Sometimes one wishes that both of these groups would delight the old Adam in their listeners by simply letting themselves go and singing a few heartening tunes with vigor, directness, and simplicity. A little raggedness here and there does not hurt folk music or music of the folk type. Too much subtlety can vitiate it.

The strapping Don Cossacks delighted their listeners by the military precision of their appearance and the variety and interest of their tonal effects. These last range from a delicate pianissimo which is almost unbelievable in the mouths of such sturdy fellows to a glad, primitive fortissimo that suggests the wideness and freedom of the steppes themselves. Serge Jaroff, organizer and leader of the Don Cossack chorus, received a large amount of enthusiastic applause.

Ernestine Steinway, the dramatic soprano who made her first appearance with the Illinois Symphony orchestra in the Civic theater yesterday, found that it is impossible to do justice to anything as difficult as the "Immolation" scene from "Die Götterdämmerung" when a small stage compels the singer to stand among the orchestra men instead of dominating the scene from a position out front. Besides this serious handicap she had the understandable nervousness of a debut to overcome.

Comment on Miss Steinway is withheld until an opportunity to hear her under better conditions comes along.

Wilhelmina H. Alexander, the young pianist who played at Kimball hall yesterday, understands the classical ideals of purity and simplicity. This was proved in her performance of the Beethoven C Major Rondo and Andante Favori. She has not yet acquired the finish necessary to live up to this ideal at all times, and blurs her outlines occasionally by the use of too much pedal. The Schumann "Des Abends" was poetically done, with a genuine pianissimo enriching the first theme's repetition.

ONE of the mysteries of last week is the little incident Mrs. Edward Finnegan observed in a Michigan avenue bus. The man behind the wheel was a fellow in a light overcoat and a fedora hat, who had a violin case at his feet. The regular driver, in his uniform, sat in the seat behind chatting with a passenger. The bus turned west at Jackson boulevard and stopped at the next corner. The man who had been driving got out from behind the wheel, picked up his violin case and went into Lyon and Healy's, and the regular driver resumed operations.

ALL the time Gladys Swarthout was talking, we kept wondering what the gold "M" was that showed at the neck of her suit blouse, and finally, our public, if any, in mind, we asked. It turned out to be a "name necklace" in which short, fat, modern looking gold letters strung together spelled "Chapman." It was the latest gift of her husband, Frank Chapman, who also gave her the bracelet of gold letters spelling "Gladys." Miss Swarthout, who had just finished making "Champagne Waltz" in five languages, was on her way east for a concert. The new picture will be released simultaneously in the five languages in twenty-two capitals of the world, the singer said.

"Probably including two in Spain," interjected Mr. Chapman.

Good Morning!

Again Jack Holt DOESN'T get the girl!

This "End of the Trail," based on a story by Zane Grey, is a right good western.

It's full of action, boasts considerable suspense, is not without comedy and rings in some honest to goodness pathos.

In this last connection I think you'll agree with me that "Big Boy" Guinn Williams puts over one splendid characterization. He is so "regular." So real! You say subconsciously, "There's a man!" every time he makes his entrance as Bob Hildreth.

The Spanish American war breaks. He and his pal, Deputy Sherif Hildreth, enlist—after a lot of rough comedy that's not so funny. During the fracas Bob saves Dale's life. . . .

They return home. Bob's reward for serving his country so gallantly is to be made sherif. But Dale, who had expected a foreman's job from his old boss, gets the cold shoulder.

And he learns the whyfore. The dog has a bad name!

So—the dog decides to be a bad dog.

Since honest labor as a decent citizen is denied him Dale starts on a trail which has a sorry end.

Well, one good thing—looks as if Bob Hildreth will at last get his innings with the pretty nurse both men had loved devotedly. . . .

Mr. Holt et al comport themselves effectively. But it's "Big Boy" Williams who won my heart!

The Man on the Blue

By Luke Short

SYNOPSIS.

Fleeing the law, Shamrock Ireland, arrogant young westerner, reaches Arizona on his Blue, and saves the life of Sheriff Lobell, who is about to be shot by a girl, Nancy Hyatt. The Hyatts—Nancy and her brother, Mayo—have lost their ranch, the Double Diamond, to the bank. Mayo, recently paroled, has threatened to kill any man who serves him with a dispossess. Because Shamrock believes it was Mayo who betrayed the man who brought him up, he accepts the dangerous task of serving the papers. Shamrock gets into a fight over a poker game.

INSTALMENT VII.

SELF-DEFENSE.

Soholt streaked for his guns.

Shamrock exploded sideways out of his chair, his hands blurring up in a flash of metal and exploding hip-high in crashing duet.

The first shot straightened Soholt out and rammed him back, and the second, fast on the first, caught his foot off the ground and slammed him flat on his back. His hands were locked around his gun-butts, and he did not move. He lay there staring at the ceiling, his eyes wide, his knees raising in slight jerks. Both shots caught him in the face.

Shamrock's back was against the wall.

"Anybody want to take it up?" he asked quietly, his guns covering the room.

Some one in front of the loose circle stirred and Shamrock swiveled a gun to cover the movement. Then the sheriff broke through and strode over to Soholt and looked down at him.

"Damn fool," Lobell said quietly.

"I'm walkin' out of here," Shamrock said. "Clear away from that bar—you swampers, too."

"This man's clear," the houseman volunteered to the sheriff, indicating Shamrock. "Soholt raw-hided him until he had to."

"Self-defense," the sheriff pronounced.

But Shamrock nosed up his gun. "Clear away from that bar like I said."

In shuffling silence the men at the bar crossed to the other side of the room, the barkeeps following.

Then Shamrock moved slowly and carefully along the wall to the bar, traveled behind it to the far end, came out into the room, backed up against the front wall, then pivoted out the door.

He ran swiftly across the street, reached the far sidewalk, suddenly

The talk from the Legal Tender swelled out into the night in a noisy hubbub, but Shamrock waited.

He saw a man come out of the saloon, look up the street toward the feed stable, then start across the street at a fast walk.

Shamrock waited until he had crossed, then swung in behind him.

They traveled that way until they reached the stables where the sherif walked in the yawning door. A lantern stood on the floor near by and the sherif called: "McKinley! McKinley!"

Shamrock stepped through the door behind him.

"I'm still here," he said quietly.

The sherif whirled, the startled look washing out of his face as he turned. He reached in his vest pocket, took out a peppermint drop and slipped it into his mouth, then grunted.

"Well, if you ain't spooky," he said amiably.

"Talk," Shamrock said coldly.

"What about? Soholt?"

"He called me Ireland," Shamrock said. "A beefer too. Been talkin' ?"

"I haven't spoke your name," Lobell said quietly.

"How'd he know?"

"They still print reward posters," Lobell said gently.

"Not about me."

The sherif nodded. "A nice one—about that marshal in Billings. Three thousand for you—dead or alive."

Shamrock backed off slowly, his hands on his belt. It must be so, for Lobell could not have found out about the marshal any other way.

"Well?" he said softly.

The sherif laughed easily. "Danged if you ain't spooky. I don't want you. Take it easy.

Shamrock scowled. "Who knows me here, Lobell? That marshal was a crooked town marshal that went for his gun when I caught him cheatin' in a card game. They don't send reward posters clear down here over that."

"With your record, son, you should know by now that a federal killin' is advertised in all the territories."

"Town marshal," Shamrock said.

"Damn."

Neither of them spoke for a long moment, the sherif sucking placidly on his peppermint and eying Shamrock speculatively.

"This Soholt," Lobell said suddenly, "used to be a deputy of mine. That's an old game of his with strangers. He must have seen you—that face, it gives you away."

"That wasn't it."

"No. He come into the office when I was out rustlin' grub for the prisoners. When I come back he was gone, but there was a whole pile of reward posters on the desk that he'd took from the drawer. Yours was on top."

Shamrock studied his face, but his eyes were unseeing. Would he have to get out, leave without settling with Hyatt? Some stubborn daring in him said no, that he'd be damned if he would.

"Did you know that this afternoon?" he asked.

Lobell nodded. "You told me your name, remember. It come to me right off."

"Who else knows it?"

"No one. That's what I'm tryin' to tell you. Why git spooky? I tore the poster up. Ain't nobody seen it or ever will again."

"They better not," Shamrock said softly.

And he turned and left. At the hotel, five doors past the corner and on the same side of the street as the sherif's office, he asked for a room, paid for it and got his key.

The room was on the second floor back, and Shamrock opened the door and stood inside a moment, listening. Then he locked the door, walked to the window, pulled the shade and lighted the lamp.

He did not take his clothes off, but rolled a smoke and lay on the bed. As a matter of usual practice Shamrock never believed a man's word until he had caught him telling the truth. The sherif, now, had him guessing. Had Lobell, unarmed and alone out there on the trail, recognized him as a wanted man and tolled him into Malpais Springs on some fake scheme of the moment, so he could send a gunman—this Soholt—over to pick a fight and collect bounty? Or had Lobell told the truth, that he wanted the notice served on Hyatt and was willing to pay for it? If so, then Shamrock knew he was safe for the time being, since Lobell wouldn't collect bounty until Shamrock had finished the job. His natural sense of preservation warned him to get out of a place where reward posters were out for him, but the thought of leaving Hyatt canceled all that.

He stood up, took the lamp over to the washstand and turned it high. Then he adjusted the mirror, let his hands fall to his sides and looked at his face a long minute.

"Three times in five days," he said quietly, softly.

Then he blew the lamp, opened his door and looked up and down the corridor. When he was sure no one was coming he walked to the end of the hall, raised the corridor window and threw out the rope that served as the fire escape.

Disagreeable Child May Be in Poor Health

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

One of the differences between a grownup and a child is that a grownup so often knows why he feels and acts as he does, and a child doesn't.

Other things being equal, the child who is so well that he has the sensation of being buoyantly healthy, is pretty sure to be in buoyant spirits. By the same token, the child who usually is not well reflects it in his behavior. And when I say "not well" I mean the child who is on his feet, but has something wrong physically, or is convalescent.

I'm not discussing now the child who actually is sick in bed, or still in bed, but convalescent. The other kind of not being well is more elusive and so it takes a sharper eye to perceive it, but it can be done.

Here are some hints: Disposition, spirit, behavior in general tie up quite closely with physical condition. If your child is irritable, or lazy, or ill tempered, or discontented and you are unable to account for his actions, look thoroughly into his physical condition, particularly if he has had a recent illness and apparently is over it. The child doesn't know what it's all about, so it is up to us to learn to interpret signs.

When we can, then we'll know what to do. And chief among these things will be that we will conserve his energy. Children don't often know how to save themselves, so we must do it for them by seeing that they get extra rest periods, go to bed early, and eat nourishing foods.

"Coxey's Camp" also is known as "Coxey's Army" and is a favorite among the quilt makers of Ohio. The quilt pattern is not old, but in its short existence has traveled from coast to coast. Blue and white is the favorite color combination for this pattern, and a quilt composed entirely of pieced blocks of this design alternate white and blue blocks with blue and white squares to form a checkerboard. Finished with a white border, a "Coxey's Camp" quilt containing 56 pieced blocks measures 90 by 102 inches when completed.

ent debutante system. Last year's revue blasted the political administration, and this year's will have Hollywood for its target. Some of the swingy music in the new show will be heard over the air during December. Titles for some of the catchy tunes include "Happy the Day," "Poor Little Bar Fly," "Hand in Glove," and "We're Living in a Changing World."

About seventy-five young men are traveling with the club, seven Chicagoans among them. Out of these about six or seven are in the cast. From twenty-five to thirty are used in the choruses; about the same number in the orchestra, and about ten do specialty numbers. Some of them will go home for Christmas, but there will be about sixty to swell Chicago parties from Friday through Sunday. Those who are invited to do so will stay with friends, but the majority will take rooms at the Blackstone.

Walter Strong Jr. Engaged to Wed Beloit Girl.

Mrs. Walter A. Strong and her son, Walter Strong Jr., were in Beloit, Wis., yesterday afternoon for a tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Salmon to announce the engagement of their daughter, Adeline Carpenter, to young Mr. Strong. The romance culminates a long friendship between Mr. Strong and Miss Salmon, and also between the two families.

When the late Mr. Strong was a student at Beloit, Miss Salmon's grandfather was a trustee of the college, and it was in his hospitable home that the students gathered frequently. The same house was open to young Mr. Strong during his college days in Beloit. He and Miss Salmon both were graduated there last June. The wedding will take place late next spring, and Mr. Strong will bring his bride to Winnetka or Chicago's north side to make their home. He is connected with the Chicago Daily News, of which his father was publisher at the time of his death five years ago.

Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis St. James Fortune Teller.

Good news for those who anticipate eating an early Thanksgiving turkey at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening at the St. James community house is that Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis has promised to be on hand to tell fortunes during the evening. Mrs. Lewis' fortune telling is almost as much of a feature of the church's annual mincemeat sale as is the mincemeat itself, so carefully prepared by members of the Parish league and woman's auxiliary of the church.

The mincemeat will go on sale at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Hayden B. Harris and Mrs. Orville J. Taylor are in charge of tea, which will be served during the afternoon. Food baskets and aprons also will be on sale. Mrs. Robert G. Peck is president of the Parish league.

Party for Marjorie Mills and Fiance This Evening.

Kennedy Grulee, who will be one of the ushers at Miss Marjorie Mills' wedding to Lambert A. Hopkins Saturday, will be host to the wedding party at dinner and dancing this evening at the Palmer house. Another party recently added to the large number being given for the young couple is a buffet supper Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tourtelot will give tomorrow evening.

Miss Annie Mason, daughter of Mrs. Roswell B. Mason, has as her guests Miss Virginia Cook of Minneapolis and Miss Susan Bowerfind of Fort Wayne, Ind., who arrived yesterday for the prenuptial festivities. They will be bridesmaids for Miss Mills, who was their classmate at Smith.

Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samue. Douglas Flood will be a festive occasion because for the first time in several years their son, Douglas Flood Jr., will be at home to enjoy turkey with them. The Floods are inviting the numerous connections of their family to enjoy the celebration, including their brother and sister-in-law, the Ayres Boals, at whose home the Flood family will gather for Christmas.

Mr. Flood leaves the day after Christmas for Washington to get his sailing orders for Barcelona, Spain, his next consular post. Among the parties being given for him is a dance Dec. 5 which Mr. and Mrs. Tom E. Hough will give in their Winnetka home. Dancing is no problem in the Hough house, for the hosts simply roll back the carpets in the hall and living room. In the basement they have an attractive bar and a large gameroom, to provide between-dances amusement.

Mrs. George Lytton Takes Apartment in New York.

Mrs. George Lytton's Chicago friends will be sorry to learn that she has taken an apartment at 3 East 77th street in New York, for that means that she will not be coming to Chicago for more than a brief stay. Her daughter, Mrs. Charles Sutton Sheppard, is with her now, but Mrs. Sheppard will join her husband a lieutenant in the British navy, in Japan before long. Mrs. Lytton's other daughter, Mrs. Thaddeus Zazulinski, who spent the summer at Nantucket, has returned to her home in Warsaw.

Mrs. Edward L. Hasler has taken an apartment at 69 East Division street for the winter, and is moving in from Lake Forest today. She will keep her house in Lake Forest open for week-ends. Wyndham Hasler will be with his mother until his marriage to Miss Cornelia Danney in January.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour will return early in December from a stay of several weeks in New York.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Sponsors' cashing in on the average man's interest in his neighbor's troubles is something of a new note in commercial radio. You see it in Good Will court where poor people in distress are given free legal advice to the benefit of a coffee concern and in these new agony columns of the air, also commercially sponsored.

When Octavus Roy Cohen's new "Personal Column of the Air" was announced recently by NBC it was said that he got the idea for it from the London newspapers. He could as well have borrowed it from WJJD's "Bureau of Missing Persons" which has been running locally for several months and already claims to have restored a dozen or more lost persons to their families.

On both these programs a half dozen or more sad stories are presented. These concern lonely mothers whose daughters have run away vowing never to return, deserting husbands, children looking for parents who have abandoned them, individuals sought so that estates can be settled and the pie divided, and so on. At WJJD the appeals are made by male announcers. On the network program actors dramatize the aching heart outpourings and they do a touching job of it, too.

Both programs use a musical background, the Personal Column having a pronounced nostalgic note. Some restraint is shown on the network program's commercial plugs but the WJJD presentation has four long blasts in 15 minutes. Many a wandering boy at the point of returning home might begin to waver after that final and insistent appeal of the advertiser.

Gladys Swarthout and Frank Chapman pausing here between trains Friday, disclosed a novel idea or two for their forthcoming NBC program in the interest of the ice industry. Several years ago when they were both on that tire-sponsored program they had a rebroadcast for the west coast about three hours after the early program. During that interval they usually repaired to the Swarthout-Chapman apartment or Orchestra Leader William Daly's and put on informal musical entertainment as they and their friends liked it.

That's what they hope to do on their new broadcast. It's to have an informal, intimate air about it. Miss Swarthout and her husband will change off announcing details of the program, commenting on the numbers, and Mr. Daly, who is to be the musical director, will have something to say, too. Sponsor has agreed to give them complete freedom in shaping the program as they choose.

When the Ken Murray show folds in a few weeks the sponsor will replace it with a new one headlining Al Jolson, Sid Silvers, and Martha Kaye, the new movie comedienne who made such a hit in "Rhythm on the Range" and "Big Broadcast of 1937."

Richard Himber is to present Kate Smith tonight. Kate was ill last week and was unable to keep her appointment, so Jane Froman was called in to substitute.

The Roosevelt impersonations, taken off the air at White House request several years ago, are bobbing up again. March of Time has been imitating the President's voice and Eddie Cantor also obtained permission from Secretary Stephen Early.

"You certainly may impersonate the President's voice," Mr. Early assured Cantor on the phone. "The President heard your last Sunday's broadcast and he thought your anti-war song was fine."

Dowager Type Now Rarity on Beauty Scene

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Perhaps women will continue to become more and more beautiful, but after seeing a parade of beauties at the recent horse show opening in New York, I wondered how on earth they ever can become more decorative.

And I don't mean that this was a parade of professional models or lined up contest winners. It was society putting on a show of beautiful women, a beauty show of such magnitude as these eyes never have gazed upon before. Nor was it society exclusively. I stood at a point of vantage with eyes glued upon every woman who came through the entrance lobby.

The older women had me hypnotized with their thoroughbred sleekness from head to foot. I thought of the times I have stood looking on in the past at opening-night-of-opera scenes. I thought of the sometimes overladen, plump and therefore dowdyish dowager types. But these seem to have disappeared entirely from the American scene. Instead, one after another amazingly streamlined older woman with white or gray hair stunningly dressed, and a simplicity of dress design that yelled out expense as that type of simplicity does.

Well, I thought, money doth much to turn the lady out! But, said my conscience, money doesn't create silhouette lines like that. That's will power. That's the desire to be a streamlined lovely. You could have a million and be fat as the dickens if you weren't willing to go through the paces that every woman, rich, poor, and middlin', has to be put through in order to acquire a young looking body.

And how clothes do respond to that kind of figure care! True, the season's clothes are lovelier than ever, more romantic, more alluring, rich, gorgeous fabrics. But with the figures present at the show, any fabric would have taken on the glamorous look, it seems to me.

One thing I noted, of interest to the older woman, is the appearance of the sleekly groomed small head outline, as opposed to the popular notion that one has to be borne down with a variety of curls and more curls. The young ones, who looked like modernized Ophellas with their lovely hair ornaments and romantic coiffures, went in for every hair style, even to psyches right up on the crown. But the older women's heads were classic in line and style, AND that rumor afloat about hair returning to the neatly clipped head sans all curls and superwaves certainly was confirmed in some of the beautifully groomed heads noted.

Men Dislike Dependence on Aid of Woman

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is 30 and the man is two years her junior. For seven years their names have been identified together and four years ago there was a definite understanding.

"Due to the fact that he has been out of work most of the time, we have not been able to marry," the girl explains.

They have had quarrels and many of them, always ending with the man's saying he cannot live without the girl. The girl says she has stuck by the man faithfully through the years, telling him not to worry. The young woman has a good job.

"Despite the fact that I have done so much for him, still now that he has found work and has had it for the last two years he is rude to me, not remembering a thing that I have done for him!"

It's the same old story one always hears when a woman attempts to win or hold a man by doing things for him, and reminding him that he is in debt to her.

You can't win a man's affections ever by putting him under obligation to you. It's psychological that man acts resentfully toward a protector and provider of the opposite sex.

Ingratitude and plenty of it may be expected from a man for whom a woman claims aloud she has made sacrifices. She may make them quietly, understand, but mum's the word if and when they are made, or all is lost for the self-appointed martyr.

CHARGE DEMAND OF LABOR IS BILL FOR VOTE DEBTS

Detective Agencies Resent La Follette Inquiry.

Chicago officials of detective agencies which are being investigated by the so-called civil liberties subcommittee of the United States senate expressed the opinion yesterday that a report presented before the American Federation of Labor convention Saturday in Tampa, Fla., was substantially a demand on the New Deal administration to pay political debts.

The report, submitted by the federation's committee on legislation, insisted that the senate civil liberties subcommittee be amply refinanced to continue its inquiry. The subcommittee is headed by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], and is part of the special committee to investigate lobbying activities, of which Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], is chairman.

Disagree Over Real Objectives.

The federation report, in urging generous funds for the La Follette subcommittee, denounced "corporate espionage and thuggery" as evils which it is intended to combat.

Detective agency executives, however, charged that its real purpose is to make conditions easier for John L. Lewis' committee on industrial organization to promote unionization of steel, coal, and textile workers according to the industrial union plan. They said Lewis delivered several million votes to Franklin D. Roosevelt last Nov. 3 and was in a position to seek a pay off.

In Washington, John J. Abt, counsel for the La Follette subcommittee, has announced the dispatch of questionnaires to 700 detective agencies in all parts of the country.

Chicagoans Keep Clients' Secrets.

Several of the Chicago agencies have refused, so far, to furnish the names of clients by whom they were employed to resist the Lewis organization efforts. The committee asks for the names of clients "including employers' associations from whom you received $500 or more per annum for undercover industrial work . . ." and then asks detailed financial information.

That the La Follette committee is working hand in hand with Lewis is seen, according to detective agency officials, in its recently ordered investigation of Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board of National Steel company, implacable enemy of Lewis. This investigation was started on complaint of Philip Murray, chairman of the steel workers' committee of Lewis' CIO.

REVIVAL CLOSES WITH PLEAS FOR UNDIVIDED FAITH

'Streamlined' Mission Ends Stay Here.

Chicago's modernistic four day national preaching mission closed yesterday with massmeetings in the afternoon in the Englewood Baptist church, Oak Park High school auditorium, and St. Luke's Episcopal procathedral, Evanston, and at special services last night at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall.

Although the time honored mourners' bench and the sawdust trail of evangelistic meetings of the past were absent, Walter R. Mee, executive secretary of the Chicago Church federation, which sponsored the "streamline" campaign, and other religious leaders declared the effect of the series on Chicago Protestantism to be "as great as anything we have experienced."

Bishop Stewart Lauds Mission.

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese, speaking before the massmeeting in his Evanston procathedral, praised the work of the national preaching mission. He declared it timely, due to the present "social upheaval."

"We are in the midst of the greatest upheaval in history," said Bishop Stewart. "The upheaval during the reformation was but a bubble in comparison with what we see today. People who have lately been giving up belief in God now are giving up belief in man. This preaching mission places emphasis where emphasis is needed."

Bishop Robert Nelson Spencer of Kansas City, Mo., whom Bishop Stewart introduced to the congregation which filled every corner of the edifice, declared the preaching mission to be based on St. Paul's injunction, "As we are allowed of God to be put in trust of the gospel, even so we speak."

Dr. E. Stanley Jones of India, who, it is said, was the inspiration for the mission, spoke at the Englewood massmeeting. He said the present "clouded period of human history" is not here by accident, but because of "a divided allegiance on the part of humanity."

A Divided Obedience.

"We have not decided which we shall obey, the modern state or Christ," said Dr. Jones. "Both are totalitarian and absolute. Both demand a complete obedience. One or the other must give way. Is the Lord God God, or is the modern state God?"

Miss Muriel Lester, head of Kingsley hall in London, social and religious center of the Bow street slum district, told the Sunday Evening club audience, 'Some day we are going to drop this mechanical singing of hymns, reciting of prayers, and reading our Bibles, and start to act like Christians."

BISHOP NOLL FLAYS U. S. APATHY TOWARD COMMUNIST MENACE

American tendencies to regard the communist party lightly because of its small membership were jolted yesterday by Bishop John Francis Noll of Fort Wayne, Ind., in a Chicago address. Bishop Noll spoke at the Goodman theater under the sponsorship of De Paul university.

Not the small number of communist voters but "the millions of Americans who would greatly resent being charged with communistic learnings although they are actually promoting its apostolate" measure the threat of the movement, Bishop Noll said.

"We must understand that the communist party itself will never be large," he warned. "Even in Soviet Russia only slightly more than 1 per cent of the people are wanted in it. The bulk of the population is unprepared to accept the burdens and personal sacrifices which membership entails.

"Outside Russia the party wants trained men who will get into every sort of organization in the hope of steering it into the direction of communist objectives.

"The present communist strength in the United States is not to be gauged by the small vote it polls. First, the communist party may not be entered on the ballot in most states; secondly, because its alien membership and members of its youth organization cannot vote."

Auxiliary organizations sponsoring Red aims have been referred to by communists as "transmission belts between the party and the masses," Bishop Noll said.

Such organizations, he pointed out, are the American League Against War and Fascism, Farmer-Labor clubs, the International Labor Defense, the League for Industrial Democracy, the American Federation of Teachers, the American Youth congress, and the League of Struggle for Negro Rights.

Japan Lops $57,200,000 Off Budget for Armament

TOKIO, Nov. 23.—[Monday.]—(AP)—At a time when most European nations are increasing armament expenditures, Japan will reduce hers by approximately 200 million yen [$57,200,000], budget estimates disclosed today. Estimates for the fiscal year 1937-'38 reduced the army's expenditure to $205,000,000 and the neavy to $194,480,000. The budget estimates will be submitted to the cabinet Friday.

REDEDICATE ROLL OF HONOR TO WAR DEAD IN WHEATON

The memorial marker containing Wheaton's Roll of Honor was rededicated yesterday afternoon in the North Side park in the suburb before more than 300 residents. George McCarty, only surviving civil war veteran in Wheaton, unveiled the bronze plates in a ceremony sponsored by LaVerne T. Perrottet post, No. 76, of the American Legion, after a parade through the town.

Charles W. Hadley, the principal speaker, declared the marker will serve "to remind this generation and those to come of the patriotism of Wheaton men." At the site, he said, "can be renewed the courage and patriotism for tomorrow's battles."

The idea of the memorial took form 15 years ago following adoption by the American Legion of plans for national Roads of Remembrance, combining practical advantages of shaded roads with a lasting beauty provided by living trees. Roosevelt road, from Lombard to Wheaton, was the first site of the memorial. Widening of Roosevelt road in 1930 necessitated removal of the marker and it recently was placed in the park.

Carl Sandburg Is Speaker at Harriet Monroe Service

Carl Sandburg, Chicago poet, was the principal speaker yesterday at a service held in the memory of the late Harriet Monroe, editor of Poetry, a Magazine of Verse. Others who participated in the services, which were held at the Fortnightly club, 120 East Bellevue place, were Morton Zabel, long associated with Miss Monroe on Poetry, and Dean Gordon Laing of the University of Chicago.

A FULL PARDON IS PROBABLE FOR MODEL ESCAPER

Howard Fulger, who was arrested in Chicago 17 years after he escaped from the Michigan state prison at Jackson, will be given a full pardon if Fulger convinces him he has reformed, Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald of Michigan said yesterday. Fulger was taken back to prison Saturday after he waived extradition.

Fulger was convicted of attacking a girl in Ionia county, Mich., and was sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison. He escaped in 1919, went to Clinton, Ia., took the name of Howard Law and married. For the last nine years he had been employed in Chicago as janitor and engineer for a Lake Shore drive apartment building.

"I want to talk to Fulger," Gov. Fitzgerald said at Lansing, "and if he can prove to me he has led an honest life for 17 years and has become a good citizen, I will pardon him. The only purpose of a prison is to reform criminals. I would be glad to learn Fulger has done that for himself."

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The season's first Blackhawk victory last night went over as a matter of business for the indefinite future when the Boston Bruins slapped them down, 2 to 1, before 13,000 loyalists at Chicago Stadium.

It was the fourth Chicago game in which the physically perfect Blackhawks have failed to win and their second loss on their home ice in four nights. In the four home games the patient Chicago clientèle has witnessed a grand total of three goals, one by Bill Kendall last night, one by Kendall as the Chicago end of a 1 all tie with the New York Americans at the season opener on Nov. 5 and one by Mush March which effected a tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs in the brawl game on Nov. 15, the Blackhawks figuring they won the brawl.

Hawks Fail to Click.

The goals the Hawk partisans didn't see were two accomplished in the course of a 6 to 2 spanking in Montreal Nov. 14 and goals the Hawks didn't make at all in a 0 to 0 game in New York on Nov. 12, and in a 4 to 0 blistering at the hands of the Montreal Maroons here last Thursday night.

In last night's affair they seemed good enough to deserve a tie with the Bruins. But the Hawks were skating uphill after the seventh minute, for Hooley Smith scored in the first period on a pass from Bill Cowley.

It looked like it might be their fourth tie of the year when Bill Kendall registered unassisted in the second period.

But late in the third period Cowley and Ray Getliffe dazzled them with a victory dash the length of the rink.

Bruins Score Early.

The first goal was scored by Smith in 6:55 of the first period on one of those shove attacks on Karakas' toes, the type that in three games this year has brought Hawk protests that opposing players were in the crease, illegally blocking the goalie's vision. Cowley took the puck into the Chicago defense zone and wound up to the Bruins' left and somewhat back of the cage. He passed back to Smith in front of the nets, then joined Smith in trying jab the rubber home. As soon as Smith had rattled the puck across the goal line Karakas and other Hawks squawked lustily.

The Hawks fought gallantly but with no success until the dial registered the eighth minute of the second period. Kendall, Trudell, and Cook were slipping the puck around in the Boston defense zone. Kendall picked up the puck at a point obliquely to Goalie Thompson's left and was not rushed as he apparently looked around for a pass receiver. Suddenly Kendall made a backhanded flip toward the cage and the puck went home.

Bruins Regain Lead.

The second Boston goal was scored in 13:10 of the third period on a rapid maneuver. Four Hawks had moved forward to lay down a merry barrage against Goalie Thompson's upholstery. Then Getliffe grabbed the puck and raced down the length of the rink along his left boards. As Burke, lone Hawk in front of Karakas, skated over to cover after the flying Bruin was ten feet inside the blue line, Getliffe passed a straight lateral to Cowly who also was skating under a full head of steam. Cowley lifted a high hard one which sailed past Karakas into the nets without touching Mike's raiment or hat.

As the last minute of the game began Andy Blair carried the puck down the ice and as he started to go behind the nets, passed out to March. March batted in the rubber and the red light went on. But it did not count, March being adjudged as having interfered with Goalie Thompson.

Frank Considered Probable Choice as Yale Captain

CLINT FRANK.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—The election of Clinton Edward Frank of Evanston, Ill., as Yale football captain for next season is exepected to take place at the annual balloting of players tomorrow afternoon.

It is believed that Frank clinched his chances by his performance in yesterday's victory over Harvard. Frank has gained more ground during the season than any other Yale player. His closest rival has been Capt. Larry Kelley. Frank has been an all around star, offensively and defensively. He is a junior.

The annual banquet of the 1936 eleven will be held immediately after the election, when the team captained by Larry Kelley will disband.

EVANSTON PREP STAR.

Frank, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Frank of 300 Sheridan road, Evanston, graduated from Evanston High school in 1932. An all around athlete, he was accorded All-Suburban conference recognition for his play at quarter back on the 1931 Evanston High school eleven, coached by Cecil Vance, present back field coach at Northwestern university.

In addition to football, Frank played baseball and basketball in high school. He attended Lawrenceville prep for a year before entering Yale in the fall of 1934.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—Combining a powerful running attack with one of the most spectacular forward passes ever made, the Chicago Bears galloped through the Philadelphia Eagles today to pile up four touchdowns for a 28 to 7 victory before 10,000 fans.

Held in check in the opening period, the Bears got rolling in the second quarter to push over three touchdowns, one by Nagurski, one by Manders, and one by Corbett, to pile up a 21 to 0 lead at the half.

Harnessed again in the third period, the Bears broke loose again in the fourth quarter to add their fourth touchdown.

Doehring Hurls 70 Yard Pass.

The Bears marched 52 and 58 yards, respectively, on brilliant flashes off tackle and cleverly executed passes to score their first two touchdowns. Nagurski went over for the first touchdown, and Manders for the second, with Manders place kicking two goals for the extra points.

It was the third touchdown, however, that gave the spectators the thrill of the season. With only 10 seconds left to play and the ball on the Bears 45 yard line in their own possession, Lefty Doehring faded back to his own 35 and hurled a magnificent pass to Corbett, who was five yards behind the goal line.

It was a 70 yard toss, a heave that traveled through the air like a punt and finally landed in the receiver's hands.

Applaud for 3 Minutes.

The spectators were so thrilled by the pass, one of the longest heaves ever made in football, they applauded for fully three minutes.

The Bears outplayed the Eagles all the way and after they piled up a 14 to 0 lead, Halas sent in his entire second team.

Manders hung up the fourth Bear touchdown on another long march through the Eagle line. Hitting center for five and ten yards at a time, Manders finally smashed off tackle over the goal.

New York, Nov. 22.—[Special.]—The Green Bay Packers football team put on a last period rally to insure victory today over the New York Giants, 26 to 14. A crowd of 25,000 sat in the Polo Grounds and watched the Packers break away to a 3 to 0 lead in the first period, then go scoreless in the next quarter and throughout the second half battled fiercely with the New Yorkers before the outcome was a certainty.

Leading at the half, 3 to 0, on Ernie Smith's field goal from the 34 yard line, the Packers made it 10 to 0 early in the third period when Clark Hinkle smashed through his own right tackle from the 1 yard line for a touchdown. Smith's placement kick for the extra point was good.

Giants Fight Back.

The Giants fought back valiantly, but at this point their efforts were stopped by the superb tackling of the Wisconsin eleven. Later in the period a pass from Arnold Herber to Schneidman, which was good for 43 yard and a touchdown, put the Packers in front 16 to 0. Again Smith place kicked the additional point.

Schneideman caught the pass at the edge of the field on the 29 yard line, eluded three Giant tacklers and ran the intervening distance for the score. This apparently fired the Giants, who struck back with fury, and marching the ball from the 20 yard line to their own 35, paved the way for their first touchdown. From the 35 yard line Tony Sarausky sent a long forward pass to Kink Richards, which brought the ball to the Packers' 19 yard line and gave the Giants a first down. Another pass, Sarausky to Burnett, put the ball on the one foot line. Sarausky

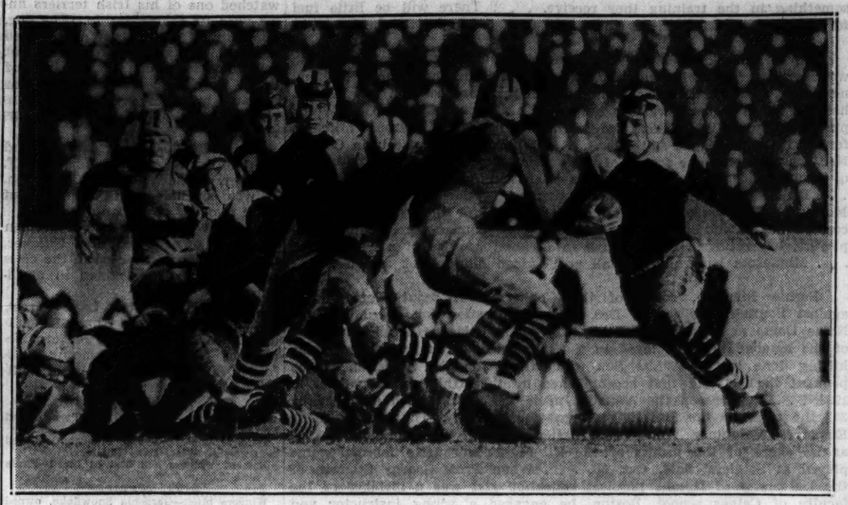
ON THEIR WAY TO CATHOLIC TITLE



Frank Doody, Fenwick half back, carries the ball on an end run during yesterday's battle with Leo for the Catholic league championship. Fenwick won, 27 to 0, and will meet Austin Saturday at Soldiers' field for the Mayor Kelly Christmas benefit fund. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Alert Fenwick Eleven Beats Leo, 27-0, for Catholic Title

There will be two new principals awaiting the call when the third annual city prep championship football battle starts at Soldiers' field next Saturday before a crowd expected to reach 70,000.

Leo, the Catholic league's representative against Lindblom in Mayor Edward J. Kelly's charity production for the last two years, was eliminated yesterday, 27 to 0, by an alert, scrappy Fenwick eleven at Soldiers' field before 10,000 shivering fans.

Fenwick's opponent in prep football's big show will be a neighboring rival, Austin, which won the Chicago Public High School league's title by defeating Tilden Tech, 31 to 13, last Saturday. Tilden succeeded Lindblom as the central section champion when the latter dropped three games this season.

Ryan Goes Over.

The first Fenwick drive started after Ryan recovered a Leo fumble on the retiring champions' 47 yard line. Kruger gained five yards through center and the left half back picked up six more yards through the same spot. Fenwick was penalized five yards for offside and Marquardt gained two yards as the quarter ended.

Rank went in for Marquardt at full back and took the ball from his own 46 yard line to the Leo 25. Rank again, behind perfect interference, dashed around end to the Leo 3 yard line. On first down, Rank failed to gain. Then Ryan, with three blockers opening the way, sped around left end for the score.

Another Leo fumble gave Fenwick possession of the ball on Leo's 42 yard line. Kruger gained two yards and added two more on a spinner. On third down, Kruger punted, the ball rolling into the end zone. Heil picked up three yards on a reverse around end and Galvin then kicked for Leo to the Fenwick 39 yard line. Kruger, on first down, dropped back and threw a long pass to Doody, who caught the ball on the Leo 15 yard line and ran to the goal line.

Add Two More.

The powerful Oak Park eleven added two more touchdowns to its total in the final quarter. Leo appeared to start clicking in the third quarter and play was in Fenwick's territory throughout the third period. The defending champions drove to Fenwick's 15 yard line. Galvin attempted a pass, but it was intercepted by Kruger on the Fenwick 10 yard line. Kruger, with seven teammates blocking out would be tacklers, sprinted down the sidelines to the 50 yard line, dodged three Leo players by crossing over the middle of the field, and dashed to the Leo 6 yard line before being pulled down. Rank picked up two yards through center, Kruger drove to the 1 yard line mark and on third down went over for the third touchdown.

Late in the fourth quarter Fenwick went to work again after Ryan intercepted a Leo pass on the latter's 43 yard line. Marquardt gained nine yards on an end sweep. Rank then brought the ball to the 20 yard line. A pass was incomplete and Fenwick was penalized fifteen yards for holding. Marquardt then went wide, eluded several Leo players and sprinted to the goal line.

JAMES J. MARA, VETERAN JOCKY, IS DEAD AT 70

Mara swung the timer's flag for the United Hunts association at Belmont Park on election day and became seriously ill at the close of the meeting. A familiar figure at local tracks, he had handled the yellow timing flag for 16 years at Belmont Park, Empire City, Jamaica, Aqueduct, Saratoga, and Hialeah Park, in Miami, Fla.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Three quarters of winning football netted the Chicago Cardinals nothing but their eighth defeat of the season yesterday when three momentary lapses on defense enabled the Detroit Lions to score two touchdowns in the fourth period and triumph, 14 to 7, before 7,579 at Wrigley field.

After taking a 7 to 0 lead in the second quarter on a 25 yard forward-lateral pass play, Pug Vaughan to Bill Smith to Al Nichelini, and thoroughly outplaying the smug Lions, who still foster a hope of tying for the western division title in the National league, the Cardinal secondary missed assignments on two passes and the line fell for a piece of deceit that turned victory into defeat.

Morse Takes Pass.

The first costly error came on the second play of the fourth quarter when the Lions, half way down the field on an 80 yard march, had second down with 16 yards to go on the Cardinals' 40 yard line. Dutch Clark, the Lions' quarter back, faded back to pass and Left End Butch Morse cut across the field through the secondary where the Cardinals were playing a man to man defense.

Hal Pangle, the defensive right half back, who was assigned to Morse, permitted the Lion to get away from him and the drive which seemed to have bogged down suddenly was on in full force when Morse took the ball for a 21 yard gain and a first down on the 19 yard line. From there the Lions battered their way, yard by yard, to within half a yard of the goal, whence Clark plunged over. His subsequent drop kick for extra point tied the score.

Another Pass Works.

Four plays later the Lions again had the ball and began a 52 yard march to the winning touchdown, a march during which the second costly mistake was charged against the Cardinal secondary. With third down and 15 yards to go on the 32 yard line, Clark faded back, but this time Right End Harry Ebding cut across to the other side of the defense, he eluded Mike Mikulak, the weak side backer up, and took a short pass, going 24 yards to the 8 yard line before he was knocked out of bounds by Pangle and Tackler Jack Robinson.

Here the Cardinals line, growing weary from the fierce and also successful fight it had made all afternoon against the most powerful offense in football, allowed the crafty Clark to out fox it with a bit of strategy which called for him to feign a change of tactics and relax while

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 22.—Stolid, taciturn Denny Shute, the silent man of golf, today became the professional champion of the United States by defeating Jimmy Thomson, the game's strong arm artist, 3 and 2, in the 36 hole final match over the Pinehurst Country club's No. 2 course.

Shute's victory, his first in a major American tournament, brought him the crown denied him five years ago when he finished as P. G. A. runner-up to Tom Creavy. For Thomson, the husky Scottish born pro from Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., the defeat left him with second money for the second time in two years since he already had finished back of Sam Parks in the 1935 National open.

Shute Earns $1,000.

Shute, who was pro at the Chicago district's Westward Ho club last season and is now stationed at the Brae Burn club of West Newton, Mass., earned $1,000 and a year's possession of the Wanamaker trophy. Thomson received $500 for second place.

The battle between Shute and Thomson was a tight one throughout, the three hole advantage with which the new champion finished being the highest edge either held, but from a scoring standpoint the final did not produce the golf with which the two had fought their way to the hardest match in professional golf. Both rounded the morning turn over par, Shute's 37 being one up on Thomson's 39. Shute retained that margin through the 18th, reaching the intermission with a 74, two over par, against Thomson's 77.

Match Ends on 34th Hole.

They bettered the morning scoring efforts by going out in mutual par 36s on the first afternoon nine, with Shute still one up at the 27th. The end of the tournament which had seen every former holder of the championship eliminated before the third round, came on the 34th green. Thomson sliced his drive to the green, 473 yards away, into the rough among the trees at the right of the fairway. His No. 3 iron escape had to be played safely, but he hit a neat third, which was still short of the green. Shute smashed a 250 yard drive down the center of the fairway, and then poured a great spoon shot onto the green, four feet from the pin. Jimmy chipped to within ten feet, and after missing his putt conceded the hole, the match and the title. Shute shook hands and then ran down the putt, apparently just to show that the eagle was complete.

The battle between the tremendous hitter Thomson and the deadly iron playing Shute was a fight all the way, with Shute refusing to relinquish his mastery of the situation. Shute was one up after the first morning hole, and never worse than even the after. Four times Thomson squared the match. On three of these Shute regained the lead on the following hole, and the fourth time he moved into the lead again within the next two holes.

Thomson Gets Into Rough.

Shute, who first won fame as an amateur, is 32 years old and the son of Hermon Shute, English born professional. He turned pro in 1928. Since 1929 his tournament winnings have totaled $30,744. His scoring average for 1935 was 72.96 strokes, and for the 1936 season 72.58.

Thomson betrayed the primary symptoms of his day's weakness for playing the left rough on the opening hole by nearly catching a trap and then blowing a three footer to lose the hole. Shute then lost the 2d on a hooked drive to the rough. Jimmy hit into the sand off the 3d tee and then dropped a Texas leaguer into another trap at the 4th. He amended this with a birdie at the 5th, where Denny failed on a yard try for a half. Both were short of the 6th, but earned par threes with good chips. Thomson was in the rough off the 7th tee, but escaped with

SCHWABENS AND OLYMPIAS REACH TRIBUNE FINALS

Win Soccer Matches from Milwaukee Teams.

The Olympias of the Chicago league and the Schwabens of the International division blasted the hopes of the two Milwaukee teams yesterday in the Tribune Soccer Class A interstate semi-finals. The Olympias defeated the Croatian Eagles, 6 to 1, and the Wacker Deltas were on the short end of a 4 to 2 game against the Schwabens.

At the Olympia stadium the Olympias lost no time in taking the upper hand. Only the clever goal keeping of Miklich kept the Olympias from scoring for 30 minutes when Tomecek shot past Miklich for the first score. Keberle made it two up 7 minutes later. The Eagles broke away and from a scrimmage close in Tomac netted. The Olympias then made it three up as Posejpal, running almost 50 yards, drove hard into the net as the half ended.

The second period wasn't long in operation when the Eagles missed a fine chance to reduce the Olympias' lead as Tomac drove past. The Olympias went further ahead after 20 minutes. Keberle, with one of his rocket drives, gave Miklich no chance. Keberle added two more to give the Olympias an easy victory and enter the Tribune Class A finals against the Schwabens next Sunday.

Eliminate Wacker Deltas.

The Schwabens kept up their good work by eliminating the Wacker Deltas. One of the largest crowds of the season was present at 4600 Fullerton avenue to watch this and the Chicago class B finals between the Swedish-American Reserves and Kickers' Reserves, which was won by the Swedes, 2 to 1. They will meet the Milwaukee Class B winner next Sunday in the interstate finals.

The Deltas had the Schwabens on the defensive early in the game, forcing a corner which was well placed in front of goal when Schaaf, in clearing, booted int ohis own goal, giving the Deltas the first score. The Schwabens lost no time in getting on even terms, Kutsch beating Mucha with a hard drive as the first period ended. The Schwabens on resuming went into the lead, Absil booting into the net, and shortly afterward made it three up as Brinkman drove past Mucha with a shot that went high over his head into the net.

Stein, who played a star game in center, slipped through to kick into the goal, The Schwabens made the match safe as Absil kicked the fourth goal.

Swedes Beat Kickers.

The Swedish-American Reserves defeated the Kickers' Reserves in the Chicago Class B finals. They meet the Wisconsin Class B champions next Sunday. The Swedes scored in the first period when Edman, receiving from the right, drove past Wentzel. Keeping up the pressure, the Swedes again scored after 25 minutes as Hilding shot a rocket drive into the net to hold a two goal lead to the interval. The Kickers soon had the Swedes on the defensive. Jotzat reduced their lead after 25 minutes. Near the close the Kickers missed an easy chance to get even as Weber kicked over. The Swedes meet the Wisconsin champions in the Class B championship.

Sagilio Meets Dublinsky in Comeback

Tonight's Card

Frankie Sagilio vs. Harry Dublinsky [10], 147.

Pat Robertson vs. Al [Battling] Manriques [6], 150.

Johnny Brown vs. Duke Calloway [4], 122.

Billy Marquart vs. Arthur Greer [4], 135.

Ritchie Howell vs. Jimmy Fox [4], 126.

Frankie Sagilio, Cicero welterweight slugger, who was the reigning sensation two years ago, tonight will attempt to reëstablish himself at the expense of Harry [Tough Guy] Dublinsky in a ten round bout at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Both fighters were beaten by Milt Aron in their last starts, Sagilio at Marigold June 29 and his eccentric foe at the Stadium Nov. 6.

Sagilio will depend on superior hitting, the ambition of youth, and the cockiness possessed by Dublinsky to bring him victory. Frankie, who is 22 years old, is six years younger than his wisecracking opponent.

Sagilio has faults, however, one of which is his tendency to tighten up needlessly, a weakness which costs him energy and strength. Manager Jack Hurley believes he has corrected this evil. Hurley also has instructed his stocky, aggressive protégé to throw punches to the body in the form of uppercuts. He pointed out that Sagilio usually depends on head punches to score a knockout, a maneuver which would fail of its purpose against the bobbing Dublinsky.

The main event will be augmented by five other matches, three of which will involve Pat Robertson, potential featherweight contender from New York; Johnny Brown, American Olympic Golden Gloves bantamweight runnerup, and Billy Marquart, Canadian Olympic lightweight king. Robertson will clash with Al Manriquez of Sioux City, Ia., in the semi-final booked for six rounds, while Brown, who will be making his first professional appearance, is paired with Duke Calloway, and Marquart, who won his pro debut a week ago, will meet Art Greer in matches at four rounds.

Wrestling shows will be held tonight at White City and Rainbo Fronton. Oki Shikina and Rudy Kay will be windup principals at White City and Danny Winters and Eddie Newman will feature the program at the Fronton. Each headliner is set for one fall with a 60 minute time limit. Supplementary matches at White City:

Supporting bouts at the Fronton:

Nick Toth, Hammond heavyweight, will meet George Snoddy in one of three matches which will feature the amateur card tonight at the Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street. F. M.

PABST BOWLERS BREAK RECORD IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

Pabst Blue Ribbon bowlers broke two records in the Classic Bowling league last night at North Town, shooting down their own record of 1,115 by getting 1,136 in their last game and totaling 3,204, which is 60 pins more than the record set up a week ago by the Kraft O-Ke-Dokes.

The Pabst's marks were bowled against the Krafts, who won the first game by 23 pins, lost the second by a large margin, and then shot 1,106 in the final, only to lose again by 30. Scores:

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CONGRATULATIONS to Northwestern, Lynn Waldorf and his splendid staf for their success in bringing a Big Ten championship to Evanston. . . . Few conceded the Wildcats a chance to finish at the top of the conference standing when the campaign opened in September. . . . Minnesota and Ohio State, last year's co-title holders, both appeared equally as strong this season. . . . Most of all, our congratulations to Elmer Layden, his assistants, and to Notre Dame for their smashing victory over the undisputed Big Ten champion. . . . Few Notre Dame coaches have faced a more dismal outlook then confronted Layden on Sept. 10. . . . Regardless of the outcome of the final game with Southern California, this has been one of the most brilliant of Notre Dame's seasons, because it was completely unexpected. . . . Finally, our congratulations to the tens of thousands of courageous young men in college and high school who had the virility to engage in a sport involving such violent physical contact as football. . . . They again have convinced the skeptics of the rugged virtues of American youth. . . . This department is unable to recall, and we doubt if any one else can, the name of a single outstanding intercollegiate football player who has taken part in a parade of communists or been active in student Red societies. . . . There must be something in the training they receive. . . . There will be little fuel for professional wolf criers while football abounds in the land. . . .

Treasurer Jack Mackie of the Professional Golfers association has no worries about funds with which to send the 1937 Ryder cup team to England next June, since $9,123 has been allocated for this purpose. . . . The P. G. A. has $130,000 in banks in various funds. . . . Pitcher Charles Gale Wolfe, purchased by the White Sox from Omaha, is a nephew of Clarence Mitchell, former National league spitballer. . . . Wolfe, whose home is in Cowles, Neb., has had only one season of professional experience. . . . Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Ia., has had only five coaches in forty-five years of football. . . . Dr. George W. Bryant, now executive vice president of the college, and Moray L. Eby, present gridiron chief, account for thirty-three years of coaching. . . . Cobb Lewis, one of Indiana's most promising freshman football players, has returned to his home in Bicknell because of a weak heart. . . . Minnesota has ruled out all post season dinners for athletes. . . .

Bernie Bierman, coach of the Gophers, will scout Notre Dame against Southern California, Dec. 5, in preparation for the Minnesota-Notre Dame next fall. . . . Fairly convincing evidence of the liveliness of the baseball now employed in the major leagues is furnished by the hitting done by the White Sox when they won the American league pennant in 1906 and that accomplished by the Athletics, tailenders, in 1936. . . . Last season the Athletics made 1,443 hits, which exceeded by 313 the total by the Sox 30 years previously. . . . The Chicago Park Employés' Voluntary Welfare association received approximately $18,000 as its share of the profits of the St. Mary's-Marquette football game played at Soldiers' field, Oct. 30. . . . When Prof. George Stafford of the University of Illinois physical education staf was a member of the faculty of Caines school, Boston, he engaged a young instructor and taught him the game of badminton. . . . The pupil eventually eclipsed his teacher and became the national professional champion. . . . His name is Jess Willard [no relation of the heavyweight title holder] and he will meet his old teacher tomorrow in the exhibition game at Illinois. . . .

Workmen are busy constructing the new seating arrangement in Patten gymnasium at Northwestern university. . . . The basketball floor is to be changed from an east-west to a north-south direction. . . . Thereafter all seats will be between the baskets. . . . Johnny Revolta, 1935 P. G. A. champion, says that when he played Martin Pose, Argentine champion in Buenos Aires recently, Pose was driving some of the greens on 400 yard holes. . . . They use the small ball in South America. . . . Pose won the match, 1 up. . . . Detroit's outfielder is called Gee Walker in the papers, Gerald Holmes Walker on his birth certificate and signs himself Jerry Walker in all autographs. . . . Tim Mara bought the New York Giants football team for $500 in 1925 and lost more than $50,000 in 1926. . . . He now is realizing a plunger's return on his investment. . . . George Clark, coach of the Lions, is known throughout the country as Potsy, but his star quarter back, Dutch Clark, never calls him anything by Charlie. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Bob O'Farrell, catcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, won the National league's most valuable player award. . . . Army and Navy practice sessions ended for the game to be played at Soldiers' field.

DUKE NALON WINS 30 LAP MIDGET FEATURE RACE

Duke Nalon won the 30 lap feature in the midget auto races at the 124th Field Artillery armory last night. Ray Richards was second and Emil Andres third. Shorty Sorenson pressed Nalon for 20 laps and lost second place by skidding on the 20th lap. He had to be content with fourth place.

Nalon came from the rear to win the 15 lap handicap in a spectacular finish half a car length ahead of Emil Andres whom he overtook in the last lap.

Karl Hattel was eliminated when he crashed the wall in the second qualifying race. His car was wrecked but he escaped serious injury. Jimmy Snyder broke a drive shaft and failed to finish in the first elimination test. Summaries:

Bruck-Wiesner's team broke the three game record in the South End Traveling Bowling league yesterday with a 3,216 total in games of 1,008, 1,072, and 1,136, and set another mark with their last game of the series. George Maurer, the B-W. anchor, totaled 700. Despite the records the B.-W.'s failed by one game to sweep the series, losing the first game to the Highlands by 12 pins. The Highlands totaled 3,058.

Girl, 8, Wins Two Firsts in Dog Show

Handling a wirehaired fox terrier, Barbara defeated 67 other competing children, all of whom were under 16. She also won first prize in the competition for girls under 12.

Jimmy Walker, former mayor of New York City, with Mrs. Walker, watched one of his Irish terriers finish with its championship. The dog, Sometime of Littlecorner, was named winner bitch and best of winners, but lost to a local dog in the best of breed judging. Walker's dog was defeated by Culbahn Caustic of Erinridge, owned by W. L. Hixson of Barrington.

More than 12,000 persons attended the two day show, according to A. F. Kramer, president of the association. It was concluded with a parade of more than 100 champion dogs.

PLAN CHANGES IN RULES GOVERNING HARNESS RACING

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The trotting horse and his followers open their annual four day invasion of New York City tomorrow with the meeting of the governing bodies of light harness racing preceding the auction of more than 250 yearlings and proved racers at Squadron A armory.

Election of officers and probable important changes in rules governing starting of the trotters and pacers is scheduled at the sessions of the Trotting Horse club of America, the American Trotting Register association, and the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders.

E. Roland Harriman is expected to be reëlected head of the first two organizations, while David N. Lock of Lexington is up for reëlection as president of the Breeders' association. A committee comprised of Lawrence B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa.; C. W. Phellis, New York, and J. I. Lyle, Plainfield, N. J. will report to the Trotting club on recommendations leading toward definite revision of regulations governing the starting of races.

The first of the yearlings and aged performers will go under the hammer Tuesday with buyers from every section of the nation and several European countries present.

FOOTBALL FINALS PROVIDE UPSETS AND ARGUMENTS

Upheavals Mark Game's Midwest Exit.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Collegiate football, at least for the Western conference and most northern elevens, has run its 1936 course. The manner of its passing, however, was worthy of the sport which ranks an emphatic first for all intercollegiate competition.

Northwestern's partisans, still cheering an undefeated season in the Big Ten, must temper their jubilation, for Notre Dame, overwhelmed by Pittsburgh and beaten by Navy, decisively licked the boys who last year had given the Irish their sole defeat of the year. Now a Notre Dame man can look a Northwestern man in the eye again.

Marquette's gallant band failed to stretch its winning spurt to encompass the final hurdle, Duquesne. The Dukes, mighty tough this year, as victories over Pitt and Carnegie Tech prove, had too much power for the Hilltoppers who, in attempting to check power, were vulnerable for passes.

Thus, the last two major undefeated elevens of the midwest went down to defeat, but the rumble of upsets was heard from all sections and, in particular, from the east.

Iowa Victory Surprises.

For the most surprising victory Saturday, perhaps the outstanding victory of the season, we'll name Iowa's 25 to 0 conquest of Temple.

For the most important [excepting Notre Dame's victory over the Wildcats] we'll nominate Georgia's 7 to 7 tie with Fordham. Because of this tie, and a previous scoreless deadlock with Pittsburgh, the Rams probably have been removed from the list of elevens eligible to play in the Rose Bowl, an invitation Fordham wanted and which now, quite likely, will go to Alabama or Louisiana State.

For the most brilliant game, Indiana and Purdue, with a 20 to 20 tie that removed both from second place in the Big Ten, are nominated without question.

That Northwestern was beaten was not surprising in itself. But that Notre Dame tallied 26 points before a valiant consolation march by the Wildcats netted their six points was astounding to those who had seen this Notre Dame eleven held impotent by Pittsburgh. The resounding victory a week ago over Army indicated the peak to which the Irish have risen but there remained the question: Could Notre Dame repeat that brilliant assault?

Irish Could and Did.

Notre Dame could and did. Northwestern's licking is grist for Minnesota's followers, who saw the Golden Gophers complete their Big Ten campaign at Madison by trouncing Wisconsin, 24 to 0. Minnesota still claims, and with reason, that it has the nation's greatest eleven. Even Ohio State, which licked Michigan Saturday, 21 to 0, will argue that the Buckeyes, who lost to Notre Dame, 7 to 2, are superior to the Wildcats.

But arithmetic speaks for Northwestern. The Wildcats did whip Minnesota, 6 to 0, and they whipped Ohio State, 14 to 13. They hold the Big Ten title. If Northwestern is not the strongest eleven in the country, it has all the more honor for playing superbly when victory counted the most.

The records of Northwestern and Notre Dame have this in common: Each has been accomplished by team play. Neither has a great, outstanding player. It would be surprising if either placed a man on any mythical all-American selection, yet none can deny the efficiency of these teams.

Tribute to Iowa Spirit.

Iowa's victory over Temple is fine tribute to the spirit of the Hawkeyes, who had been buffeted in Big Ten plays and defeated four times. Bush Lamb and Ozzie Simmons, by their long runs from scrimmage, provided the lever which pried loose two more touchdowns in the second half from the dismayed Owls.

Indiana and Purdue, before a record throng of 30,000 at Lafayette, thrilled in their high scoring tie. Wide open football, forward passes, and long runs were the ingredients. Each eleven proved its courage.

Ohio State's victory over Michigan, by which the Buckeyes share second place with Minnesota in the Big Ten, was workmanlike and it stressed the ability of Tippy Dye as a forward passer. This 145 pound quarter back, by his generalship, his passing, and his return of punts, stamped himself as one of the greatest players of the season.

Seventh Loss for Michigan.

Michigan lost 21 to 0 for its seventh defeat of the year, the fifth in conference games, and its 18th licking in the last three years. The Wolverines are a puzzle. In the first five years of Harry Kipke's coaching régime, Michigan won or shared four championships. Now for three years they have been in the doldrums, and while most of this year's varsity will return next fall, Ohio State and Minnesota, also, are in excellent position to continue marching in the front ranks.

Illinois won the leadership of the second division in final conference standings Saturday by whipping Chicago, 18 to 7. Thus, the Illini finish a campaign with far better results than might have been anticipated. Illinois defeated Michigan and Chicago, tied Iowa, and lost to Northwestern and Ohio State. De Paul and Washington [St. Louis] were nonconference victims, and Southern California was the third team to win from the Illini.

Even Chicago managed to win a Big Ten game, nosing out Wisconsin, 7 to 6. Thus, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Michigan are the only teams without a victory in Big Ten competition. Wisconsin has played excellent football, all factors considered, and Coach Harry Stuhldreher, at the end of his first season, has consolidated his position.

Lions' Long Marches Beat Cards, 14-7

the ball was being passed to Full Back Ace Gutowsky. Gutowsky went charging through a gaping hole inside the Cardinal right tackle for the remaining eight yards and a touchdown.

Up until this turn of events, the Cardinals held the upper hand and appeared assured of their third consecutive victory. They had stopped the Lions running game, which had averaged 259 yards per game, had thrown back one drive on the 6 yard line, and had made three serious scoring threats in addition to their touchdown march, giving up the ball on the Lions' 12 yard line in the first quarter and missing two attempts for field goals. Both of these, kicked by Clarence Kellogg, were low.

The Cardinals marched fifty-eight yards for their score early in the second quarter, starting on their 42 yard line, where Shepherd's punt had been killed after bouncing backward eight yards. Shepherd was called for interfering with Smith on Vaughan's first down pass, and the Cardinals were given the ball on Detroit's 38 yard line, a gain of twenty yards.

Cards Take Lead.

Vaughan lost four yards on a plunge and his pass on second down was too far for Smith, but Nichelini, sweeping wide around the Lions' left end, picked up fourteen yards and a first down on the Lions' 28 yard line. A triple pass in the Cardinal back field was fumbled twice before Pangle recovered for a five yard loss. Vaughan then popped through the line for eight yards. On the next play he drove at the same hole, straightened up at the line of scrimmage, and passed to Smith. Smith immediately lateraled to Nichelini coming around from the left, and Nichelini raced down the side lines for a touchdown. Kellogg added the extra point.

Lions Score Twice.

Taking the ball on their 20 yard line in the third quarter after Kellogg's second place kick had failed the Lions started for their first score, and by the end of the quarter had reached the Cardinals 36 yard line. Gutowsky then came in and on the seventh play of the fourth quarter Clark went over from the half yard line. Shepherd contributed runs of 5 and 13 yards to this 80 yard march in which the Lions linked together six consecutive first downs. Clark added two smashes for six yards and passed 21 yards to Morse in addition to getting Caddell off on a seven yard jaunt on a shovel pass. Clark tied the score by adding the extra point.

The Cardinals received the kickoff but had to punt immediately. As soon as they had regained possession of the ball the Lions broke loose on their 52 yard victory drive. Clark returned Pangle's punt seven yards to the Lions 48 yard line. Gutowsky made eight on a reverse, Clark got seven inside the Cardinals right tackle, Caddell reversed outside left tackle for seven, Peterson, who had replaced the injured Caddel, got four yards in two smashes and Clark passed 24 yards to Ebding after he had been thrown for a seven yard loss in a previous attempt to pass.

Ebding was run out of bounds on the eight yard line and on the first play, Gutowsky shot inside the Cardinals left tackle for the remaining distance and the score. Clark again drop kicked the extra point.

SAM BAUGH GETS RIDE IN PATROL FOR BEING—HERO

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Sam Baugh, who tossed Texas Christian university to a 13 to 0 football victory over Rice institute yesterday, was deposited on his home campus by a police squad car today.

Police Captain Tom Curry spied Baugh waiting for a bus.

"Go bring that man in here," he ordered.

"You're under arrest for disturbing the peace of Rice institute," he told the bewildered grid hero. Then, "Skinny, bring out car No. 1 and take these people home. The idea of a hero riding a bus."

FOOTBALL PEAKS.

WHEN Notre Dame had finished with Northwestern Saturday and Duquesne had toppled Marquette, no so-called major eleven in the country remained unbeaten and untied for this season of 1936.

Victories of Notre Dame and Duquesne, although unexpected by a majority, were in no sense upsets. Both games figured closely in advance. Yet the Irish and the Dukes themselves were beaten twice earlier in the year. So anew flares the discussion of football peaks and how long they may be maintained. Northwestern was forced to form early for hard contests with Iowa, Ohio State, and Minnesota, in two of which it capitalized breaks to win. It then was accused of coasting. It probably was tired. Certainly it looked dead on the vine against alert, raging Notre Dame.

Look at Notre Dame. It began so slowly even its coaches began to despair. Pittsburgh smothered wearers of the old gold and blue for whom nothing clicked that day, 26-0. The heat was off—no unbeaten record to maintain. Notre Dame bounded right back to take Ohio State, 7-2; lost to Navy only by a field goal, then captured its important games from Army and Northwestern, improving each week.

Minnesota, hurried in preparation, downed University of Washington, carried the mental burden of no defeat since 1932, then fell before Northwestern in midseason. Tension removed, it has been impressive since.

University of Washington, still a possible choice for the Rose Bowl affair Jan. 1, rallied from its Minnesota setback and was well on its way, only to be tied, 14-14, by Stanford, which has a spotty record this year. Pittsburgh was caught between its Ohio State and Notre Dame victories for a 7-0 loss to Duquesne. Marquette, carrying Rose Bowl hopes, also succumbed to Duquesne after the latter had been beaten by West Virginia Wesleyan and Detroit. All along the list — Dartmouth, Fordham, Holy Cross, Duke, Alabama, Louisiana State—there has been one afternoon on their hard schedules when opponents defeated or tied them. What is the answer?

Our strong elevens are playing more exacting schedules than they once did, therefore cannot develop slowly and naturally because of some early obstacle in their paths. There is also greater equality of competition, with pretty generally effective coaching. Furthermore, present day football offers greater opportunities for so-called breaks of the game. That's the physical side of it. Then there's the intangible mental side to the picture. Apparently no eleven can remain at its peak all through the season against the kind of opponents that major teams are now expected to encounter.

Afterthoughts.

We now wonder if we could have misunderstood Coach Elmer Layden in the Notre Dame dressing room Friday before the game. We were positive he said, "Why, Northwestern is at least three touchdowns stronger than we are," and so we quoted him. Do you suppose he really said, "Why, Northwestern is at least three touchdowns weaker than we are," which would have forecast the result correctly?

We tried to offer sympathy to Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern with, "Well, there's one nice thing about that game for you."

"What's that?" he asked wearily.

James Braddock Goes to New York for Conference

New York, Nov. 22.—[Special.]—James J. Braddock will arrive tomorrow from Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been going through a light training routine for the last few weeks. The heavyweight champion will confer with his manager, Joe Gould, regarding the advisability of accepting the offer of $300,000 made by Herman Taylor to meet Joe Louis in a 12 round no-decision bout in Atlantic City on Feb. 22.

Shute Takes U. S. Pro Golf Title, 3 and 2

a half. Missing the green at the 9th, however, followed by a failure from two feet cost him that hole and he was one down. He had squared the match at the 8th when Shute had the same trouble.

They halved the next three, Thomson being in the left hand rough on all of them. Shute found the wiry grass at the 10th himself, was stymied at the 11th, and trapped at the 12th. Shute's poor second to the 13th cost him the hole. But he regained that at the short 15th by hitting his drive six feet from the pin for a conceded deuce the while Thomson was trapping his tee shot. The 16th, 17th, and 18th were halved in par, Shute nearly holing a 35 footer for a three on the home green.

Blasts Dead Out of Trap.

Shute earned a neat four at the 19th, blasting dead out of a trap, with Thomson missing a six footer for the hole. A bunkered drive which Jimmy got out only 100 yards up the fairway gave the 20th to Shute. Thomson then smacked a No. 6 iron over the 476 yard 22d and chipped dead for a winning birdie four, Shute half topping his iron shot. The next three were halved in par and then Shute drove a trap at the 26th, making the match square. He promptly retrieved this by sinking a ten footer for a deuce at the 27th.

Both took sixes on the par five 28th, wandering through the fairway until Shute could not negotiate a stymie which would have given him the hole. He dropped a 35 footer for a birdie at the 29th, and was two up. Thomson holed a great cut putt the 30th. Shute was in the rough twice at the 31st, but sank a ten footer for a half. The next two were halved in par fours, Jimmy lipping the cup at the 32d, and Denny rimming it at the 33d. Then came Shute's magnificent spoon shot for the winning eagle at the 34th.

Dickinson Rating of Big 10 Follows Final Percentages

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—The Dickinson football rating system and the percentage system both give Northwestern the Big Ten conference championship and Minnesota and Ohio State second place honors.

Prof. Frank G. Dickinson of the department of economics at the University of Illinois, author of the system, would not comment on the national standings of Northwestern and Minnesota, when releasing his standings today, except to say that he wished there was some team as clearly ahead in the national standings as Northwestern is in the Big Ten. His national ratings will be released on Dec. 6.

The Dickinson Big Ten ratings are the same as those in the percentage system with the exception of Iowa with a percentage of .000. Iowa's 15 points in the Dickinson system for a scoreless tie with Illinois gives it a final rating of 11. This is one point more than Wisconsin and Michigan, both of which had .000 percentages.

The Dickinson ratings are as follows:

	W.	L.	T.	T. Pts.
Northwestern	6	0	0	24.00
Minnesota	4	1	0	21.00
Ohio State	4	1	0	21.00

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Boston Shamrocks, leaders in the American Pro Football league, defeated the Rochester Tigers today, 13 to 10, before 7,500. The Rochester team scored first on a forward-lateral from Newman to Rhea to Machlowitz. The Shamrocks, capitalizing on a Rochester fumble, scored just before the first half ended. In the third quarter Rochester again went into the lead when Newman kicked a field goal from the 32 yard line. Boston scored the winning touchdown in the last quarter.

Swedes Beat Wilsons, 2-0, in Soccer League

The Swedish-Americans won from the Wilsons, 2 to 0, in an International Major League soccer game at Winnemac park. The Wilsons, who top the league, faltered badly as the Swedes took the lead after 15 minutes, Fredericks finishing a long run to beat Griffith. The Swedes took advantage of weak play in the second period to add to their score, Arndt netting from a mixup near the goal. The Wilsons applied the pressure and had several tries at Kellin, but could not find the net.

then plunged through for the touchdown, and Tillie Manton place kicked the extra point.

The Giants kept up this pace in the fourth period and scored another touchdown on a pass from Sarausky to Leland Shaffer from the 12 yard line into the end zone. Manton kicked the extra point to make it 17 to 14. The crowd was aroused to great enthusiasm by the probability of a Giant comeback. But the Packers increased their score by two points on an automatic safety when Sarausky's kick was blocked. With four and a half minutes to go the Packers scored another touchdown, George Sauer sweeping right end for 11 yards. Smith once again kicked from placement to bring the score to 26 to 14.

LEADING BONDS FIRM AS SELLING GROWS HEAVIER

Large Excess Reserves Bolster Market.

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The bond market was caught in shifting cross currents of sentiment last week, but held it course steadfastly.

United States government issues were in the lead, some thrusting forward to record peaks. Reflecting persistent demand of idle money for employment, industrial loans likewise broke into new high ground, but escaped selling pressure which treasuries felt at the end of the week.

On the whole leading rails, utilities and foreign issues showed stubborn resistance to selling which filtered in late in the week. Explanations varied in financial quarters as to the reasons for the liquidation.

Various Reasons Given.

Some said the decline in stocks was the moving factor. Others attributed it in part to the prediction of Prof. Kemmerer of Princeton university that an increase in interest rates, accompanied by a drop in bond prices, looms in the not distant future.

Whatever the relative influence flowing from these or other factors, financial circles said continued support for all types of bonds was afforded by the expansion of $10,000,000 in excess reserves, which brought the total to $2,270,000,000 in the week, ended Nov. 19.

Convertible obligations, in favor early in the week, came under selling later. Jolted by offerings were American Rolling Mill 4¼s, Studebaker 6s, New York Central 6s, and Chesapeake corporation 5s. Bid up briskly for good gains at the close of the week were Richfield Oil convertible 6s of 1944.

Bond Issues Doubled.

Noting that bond issues had approximately doubled during the week to more than $120,000,000 from some $60,000,000 the week before, financial circles said selling late in the week had not impaired the outlook for offerings scheduled for the rest of the month. Estimates in some circles were additional flotations will amount to about $250,000,000 by the end of November.

Steadiness in Argentine obligations was a bright spot in the foreign division. Occurring as that government offered a funding issue of $23,500,000, it was seen in banking circles as possibly paving the way for further refinancing by the republic.

INFLATIONARY INFLUENCE BIG FACTOR IN GRAIN

Many Commodities Reach New Highs.

Potent inflationary forces that have been released in the last few years appear as a definite market factor in the price strength shown in commodities. During the last few days several important commodities have sold at new high prices for 1936. While the upturn in individual commodities may be attributed in some measure to market factors not affecting all commodities, the general strength in prices suggests the degree of the inflationary influence.

Last Tuesday 1 of the 19 commodities actively traded on Chicago and New York exchanges sold at the best prices they have brought so far in 1936. In some cases the price levels reached were the highest that have been touched since the predepression period.

December Hits New High.

Although there has not been a large commercial demand for cash wheat recently, normally the basis for strength in the futures market at this season, last week saw December wheat sell at a new high price for the season in Chicago. The world wheat supply and demand situation has undergone little change in the last few weeks and the advance in price may be attributed in a large measure to the influences that are buoying commodities generally.

Corn has overshadowed wheat in its recent price advance. All futures of the grain advanced sharply during the last week. It is becoming increasingly apparent that farmers are loathe to sell their corn at present prices. The movement of the grain into commercial markets from the country has not been increased in the measure which might be expected by the advance in price.

Truck Corn to Country.

As in the last two years a great deal of the grain which might normally find its way into commercial markets is being diverted by truck distribution into the rural areas where a deficiency in supplies exists. Farmers in Illinois and Iowa have not sent corn to market in large volume.

The sharp advance last week in the price of the May wheat future, which rose more than 3 cents a bushel, was seen in part as the result of reports on prospects for the winter crop in the southwest.

The winter wheat areas which are lacking sufficient moisture to make a crop are the same districts which have been the hardest hit by the drouth in recent years. Western Kansas and Nebraska and the Texas panhandle and Oklahoma have the least promising prospects. The spring wheat country as well is lacking in moisture.

City Transit Group to Meet on Franchise

Negotiations are to be resumed this week between Chicago and its local transportation companies over a new franchise by which the street car, elevated and bus systems would be unified and extended. The matter is expected to be pushed to a conclusion.

Attempts to solve the city's transit problems have lagged while a plan was being worked out to reorganize and consolidate financially the four companies constituting the Chicago Surface lines, which operate as one unit. Spokesmen for the surface lines told the aldermen that franchise drafting would be easier when only one company had to be dealt with instead of four.

Judge Urges New Franchise.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on Saturday gave a conditional approval to the Abbott plan for a reorganization and financial consolidation of the surface lines companies. This plan was drawn up by a reorganization committee under the chairmanship of W. Rufus Abbott, former chairman of the board of the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

The judge further advised: "Proponents of the plan should make prompt application to the city for a new ordinance."

Alds. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the city council committee on local transportation, and B. A. Cronson [4th], chairman of a subcommittee that has been dealing with the transit companies, said yesterday they are prepared to proceed with the drafting of a franchise ordinance along the policy agreed upon by the full committee for "unified service at the lowest possible cost."

In Shape to Go Ahead.

"I intend to confer with Mayor Kelly as soon as possible on the effect of the Wilkerson opinion," said Ald. Quinn, "and may call a meeting of the full committee for Wednesday. We probably will instruct the subcommittee about what course to pursue in the negotiations.

"I believe we now are in a position to go ahead. As far as the city is concerned it is ready. Our legal and engineering staffs are prepared for the task."

Ald. Cronson said he could see no reason for further delays by the companies. He said that surface lines spokesmen had stated at the subcommittee's last meeting they would come in and go to work on an ordinance as soon as the consolidation was completed.

Favors Sticking to Job.

"I'm in favor of getting to work immediately," said Ald. Cronson. "I believe we should keep at the negotiations until Chicago's transportation problems are solved, putting the city in line with other metropolitan areas that are continually improving their local transportation services."

UNITED AIR LINES PLACES RECORD ENGINE ORDER

United Air Lines yesterday announced the purchase of 68 Pratt & Whitney 14 cylinder engines. W. A. Patterson, president, said that the order was the largest ever placed for engines of 1,000 horse power or more for use in commercial planes.

The engines are being installed in the company's fleet of 28 twin engined Douglas transport planes. Fourteen of the company's 21 passenger planes and sleepers on the New York-Chicago-Pacific coast run are being equipped with the new engines. The company's planes will be the only commercial planes in the country equipped with 14 cylinder engines, the announcement said.

CAUTION RULES STOCKS DESPITE BUSINESS GAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 22.—Although the floodtide of increased and extra corporation dividends, wage increases, bonuses and other indices of prosperity revival continue in undiminished volume, the share market shows signs of indulging in the "breathing spell" which many of its followers consider to be long overdue. The "price averages" lost ground in three of the five and one-half trading sessions last week, but wound up yesterday, nevertheless, a good fraction above their level of the preceding Saturday.

In spite of the letdown in bullish activity, brokers say they see no signs of bearishness in any direction. What reaction the week brought forth was generally viewed as a healthy development necessary to readjust market positions after the prolonged autumn advance and more especially to keep the list in step with the financial and industrial branches of the country's business life, both of which have shown a disposition toward what one widely read commentator describes as a "more nearly normal" movement with the approach of the year's end.

War Causes Uncertainty.

The rate of steel production, for example, has leveled off as measured by the figures of the last few weeks and the movement of railway freight is showing its customary drop in volume after the autumn climax of activity. Uncertainties on the score of the Spanish war and the approaching new session of the New Deal congress are also furnishing food for thought on the side of caution.

Another factor of the situation, and one which some observers think may have had more to do with dampening enthusiasm than all of these "generalities" put together, however, was the move of the securities and exchange commission last week to impose its long threatened curb on speculation by members of the exchange by segregating the functions of broker and dealer. Professional reaction to the move was reflected in a sharp drop in exchange memberships, one seat sale having been arranged on Friday at $102,000, or $33,000 below the price of the last preëlection sale and $72,000 below the high of the year recorded last February.

May Curb Traders.

To make matters worse from the viewpoint of the professional trader, the federal reserve board signalized its coöperation with the commission's move by "cracking down" with a plan to impose the same margin requirements on speculating members of the exchange members and their partners as those now applying to the general public.

With the "pros" and "cons" of the situation thus so generously mixed brokerage recommendations as reflected in week-end market letters are about evenly divided between an urge to "buy on all recessions and such contrary advice as to "use rallies to lighten commitments." Favoring the side of a further advance before any possible major reaction is the heavy amount of domestic and foreign investment funds still unemployed and the rapidly brightening business picture.

German Embargo Boosts U. S. Naphthalene Output

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—[Special.]—Germany's embargo on the exportation of naphthalene is expected to cause an increase in the production of that commodity in the United States of approximately 20,000,000 pounds in 1936, the United States tarif commission reported today. Higher prices for naphthalene have resulted from the German embargo. Naphthalene, obtained in distillation of coal tar and in certain petroleum refining operations, is principally used in the manufacture of synthetic resins widely used in paints for finishes of automobile bodies, refrigerators, etc.

HENRY M. HEIMANN SEES BEST HOLIDAY SEASON SINCE 1929

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The best holiday season since 1929 for business throughout the United States was predicted today by Henry H. Heimann, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men.

Heimann, in his monthly review sent to 20,000 association members in manufacturing, wholesaling, and banking firms, based his prediction "on the general current record of the reliable indices of business activity and progress."

"While business expects added costs from taxes and labor demands," he said, "the consuming body is faced with an increasing cost of living. But generally the outlook over the short range is decidedly favorable."

Heimann said the automobile industry "is working at production peaks" with an indicated demand better than in 1935, the steel industry is operating around 75 per cent capacity, almost 50 per cent over last year, and electric power production, car loadings, bituminous coal and petroleum production, bank clearing, employment and pay rolls are all ahead of levels a year ago.

The company expects to offer to pay off any such bonds surrendered to the Bankers Trust company, trustee, at the full redemption price and interest accrued to Feb. 1, after publication of the first redemption notice on or before Dec. 31, 1936.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES ½ POINT TO 74½ PER CENT

New Prices Expected This Week.

Steel works operations last week rose ½ point to 74½ per cent of the nation's capacity, the eighteenth consecutive week that the rate has held between 70 and 75 per cent, the magazine Steel said yesterday. This was due to strong miscellaneous buying.

Price adjustments for the first quarter of 1937 on a number of steel products were nearing completion and are expected to be announced early this week, the magazine reported. Considerable discussion was current of a $2 a ton advance on semi-finished steel, $3 a ton on bars, shapes, and plates, and possibly an upturn of $4 to $5 a ton on sheets.

Higher Prices Expected.

"Announcement of higher prices for the first quarter is expected to result in considerable protective buying through December," the journal commented. "From the producers' standpoint it is considered questionable whether the increases will be enough to offset the added burdens of wage boosts and other items."

Steel said that tinplate manufacturers have abolished the 7½ per cent discount, effective Jan. 1. The contract price for 1937 extends the net market at $4.85 per base box, Pittsburgh, a move which was believed principally due to competition with other container materials.

With close to 3,000 beehive coke ovens active in western Pennsylvania district, only 1,000 more could be put into operation, and to many of these extensive repairs would be necessary, said Steel.

Expect to Complete Deliveries.

Although shipments are increasing at a rapid rate, most pig iron sellers expect to be able to complete deliveries by the end of the year. Many foundries have anticipated a price advance and will have large stocks on hand Jan. 1.

Steel's scrap composite dropped 4 cents to $16, due to a decrease in the price of compressed sheets at Philadelphia.

Operations in the Chicago district last week rose ½ point to 76½ per cent, Youngstown 3 to 73, and eastern Pennsylvania ½ to 48. Pittsburgh was down 1 point to 67, Wheeling 3 to 89, and Cleveland 1 to 79½.

This announcement is neither an offer to sell, nor a solicitation of offers to buy, any of these securities. The offering is made only by the Prospectus.

"You're right, I do enjoy my association with The Northern Trust"

BUSINESS MEN are likely to know best the full value that attaches to a satisfactory banking connection.

Through 46 years The Northern Trust Company has come to have a definite character in the minds of many men in the business world. Recognition of this character has often prompted satisfied customers of the bank to suggest its services to their friends and associates. And such recommendations have been responsible in great part for the growth of this institution.

You are invited to inquire regarding a personal checking or savings account at The Northern Trust Company. It may mark the beginning of an unusually pleasant association. You will like the convenient location of the bank in the center of the financial district . . . the spacious quarters . . . the evident desire on the part of every officer and teller to be of service. May we suggest that you stop in today?

ILLINOIS AGAIN MAY BECOME BIG OIL PRODUCER

Test Wells Being Drilled in Likely Districts.

A possibility that southeastern Illinois again may become a leading oil producing center is seen in the announcement last week that the Pure Oil company is sinking a test well on a farm in Wayne county about ten miles northwest of Fairfield. An official of the Pure Oil company said it is generally believed there is a promising geological formation in the state for the presence of petroleum.

In the belief that favorable conditions exist, he said, several of the big producing companies last year obtained leases on several hundred thousand acres in the area where petroleum is believed to be present in commercial amounts.

Will Drill 8,000 Feet.

The well being drilled by the Pure Oil company will go to a depth of 8,000 feet, although geologists have located a possible oil bearing stratum at approximately 4,000 feet.

The area in which the investigations are being made includes Jasper, Richland, Edwards, Effingham, White, Clay, and other southeastern counties. Should this field develop into a heavy production area it is said that Illinois may again become one of the foremost oil producing states in the nation—a position which it lost with the discovery of the great fields in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Oil First Found in 1867.

Oil was first found in Illinois in 1867, just after the civil war. The first discovery was in Clark county, near Casey. However, imperfect methods of getting oil to the surface led to the abandonment of the first wells. Forty years later real development began and by 1908 Illinois ranked third among all the states in the amount of oil sold annually. This position was maintained until the development of the western field. Illinois now ranks twelfth among the states in annual production.

Present producing centers in the state are in Lawrence, Crawford, Wabash, and Clark counties. In Lawrence and Crawford counties there are two large oil refineries.

Turks to End Quota Import System; Seen as Aid to U.S.

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Turkish government today ordered abolition of its quota import system Jan. 1 in a tariff reform program regarded as favorable to United States imports. The quota system will be replaced by a general imports scheme, eliminating a number of restrictions and permitting free commercial exchanges, particularly between countries having clearing agreements with Turkey and a commercial balance in favor of this nation.

Pacific Coast.

Investors' Guide: Please send report on Pacific Coast. I've seen the first preferred rise from 8⅛ to 20 in a week.—J. A.

Answer: Either directly or through subsidiaries Pacific Coast company is engaged in mining and selling coal, manufacturing cement and lime, and operating railroads, steamships, and other enterprises of related nature in Washington, Oregon, California, Alaska, and adjacent territory.

The company has funded debt of $5,919,000, principally in first mortgage 5 per cent bonds. Outstanding capitalization consists of 15,250 shares of $5 dividend first preferred, 40,000 shares of $4 dividend second preferred, and 70,000 shares of $10 par common stock.

Losses have been reported in each of the last seven years and nothing has been earned on the common stock since 1925. Nothing has been earned on bond interest in three of the last six years. Interest has been paid on the bonds, but dividends have lapsed since 1928 on the first preferred, 1927 on the second preferred, and 1920 on the common.

Net loss was $202,000 in 1935, $900,000 in 1934, $475,000 in 1933, $235,000 in 1932, and $316,000 in 1931.

The company showed a profit of $25,000 in the third quarter of this year, compared with a $58,000 loss in the corresponding 1935 period, which may have influenced the stock price referred to. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1936, however, loss was $231,000 as against $147,000 loss in the first nine months of 1935.

The first preferred is slightly less speculative than the second preferred and common, which are rated as radical speculations.

Undistributed Profits Tax.

Investors' Guide: Does the federal surplus tax law apply to surpluses which were accumulated before the law was passed as well as to surpluses after the law was passed?—H. W.

Answer: The new tax on undistributed profits applies to fiscal years ended Dec. 31, 1936, and subsequently. It has no bearing on surpluses previously accumulated or to undistributed profits for fiscal years prior to those ended Dec. 31 next.

ADVERSE WORLD TRADE BALANCE ALARMS BRITAIN

Rearmament Causes Big Increase in Imports.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Progressive enlargement of Great Britain's adverse balance of trade is becoming a matter of serious concern to government and financial circles in London.

Trade statistics for the first ten months of this year reveal an excess of imports over exports, including re-exports, totaling more than $1,381,000,000. This situation, if continued, may make inevitable a fresh decline in the exchange value of the pound.

The speedup in domestic industry, influenced chiefly by the British government's rearmament program, necessitating heavy purchases of raw materials and partly manufactured goods, such as iron and steel products and machinery, from abroad, is responsible for the huge growth of imports.

Exports Show Smaller Gain.

Exports, on the other hand, while showing an upward trend, have been greatly retarded by the political factors of sanctions against Italy and the Spanish war.

While to some extent the adverse balance of trade may be mitigated by larger receipts from invisible exports, such as foreign investments, banking, insurance commissions, shipping, etc., the monthly review of the Westminster bank, just issued, warns that Britain must be prepared to face an "adverse balance of appreciable magnitude" by the end of the year.

Continuance of an unbalanced trade, according to the bank writer, ultimately will tend to have a depressing effect on foreign exchanges, undermine confidence and thereby discourage a broadening of the international exchange of goods.

Fear Effect on Investments.

Equally serious is the effect on Britain's foreign investments. An adverse balance implies a reduction in capital invested overseas and this in turn lessens the income from such investments and thus aggravates the deficiency.

Moreover, it is pointed out that any real expansion in overseas trade must be preceded and accompanied by a renewal of lending by creditor countries in which Britain should play an important part.

"Until this country once again has regularly a credit balance of payments it will not be possible for her to assume her share in the resuscitation of investment abroad," the review states.

Prospects for a world trade revival on which Britain depends for an increase in exports are improved as a result of recent European currency devaluations, it is contended.

Currency Pact Important.

Of greater importance from the international standpoint, however, is the agreement to which the United States, Britain and France subscribed and to which others since have given support to endeavor to modify existing trade barriers.

Greater stability of exchanges as a natural outcome of the recent agreement can reasonably be expected, according to the review, and the confidence that this stability engenders should help materially in further expansion of world trade.
